CHURCH TO END RITES

Mexico Catholics Plan Boycott

Pastoral Suspends Religious Services Requiring Office of Priest as Protest

Penalties Against Those Who Issue Decrees Threatened in Episcopate Edict

MEXICO CITY, July 25. (AP)—All religious services in Catholic churches throughout Mexico requiring the office of priests will be suspended after the 31st inst. by order of the Catholic Episcopate, which has addressed a pastoral to the Catholics of Mexico.

The letter, which is signed by the archbishop of Mexico, the Most Reverend Mora y del Rio, the seven other archbishops and twenty nine bishops, protests against the new religious regulations promulgated by the Mexican government, and proclaims the various penalties which may be imposed against those of the Catholic faith who are responsible for the new laws or in any way aid in putting them into effect.

Among these penalties is excommunication of those who issue laws, regulations or decrees against the rights and liberty of the church, those who prevent the exercise of religious jurisdiction, and those who usurp ecclesiastic property.

The letter therefore implies that President Calles and all officials of the government responsible for issuing or enforcing the regulations may be excommunicated.

CARRY ON PROTESTS

It is declared by the Episcopate, in protesting against the government's decree, that work will be carried on in amendment of this decree and its unjustifiable provisions of the constitution, and that the clergy will not desist from their purpose until it is attained.

The letter was issued in agreement with the expressed views of Pope Pius XI, who in his last apostolic letter spoke of the iniquity of the decrees and laws sanctioned by the Mexican authorities against Catholicism in Mexico.

While religious services will cease in all Catholic churches and all priests will be withdrawn, the church buildings will remain open for worshipers. The letter expressed confidence that the churches will be protected by the worshipers and exhorts all Catholics to remain loyal to their religion. It predicts that after the persecutions the Catholic church in Mexico will emerge with greater strength and glory than before.

The pastoral letter begins:

"His Holiness, Pope Pius, has been profoundly moved by the religious persecution which for some time has been unchained in Mexico, and even before the heinous recrudescence of the last few months, His Holiness in his last apostolic letter, February 2, spoke of the iniquity of the decrees and laws and which had been sanctioned by statesmen enemies of the church against Catholics in Mexico.

"In that letter Pope Pius recalled

PERSECUTION OF CHURCH IN MEXICO IS DENIED

Calles Minister, Here, Declares Government is Merely Acting in Self-Defense

That the so-called religious controversy in Mexico has been greatly misinterpreted; that the Calles government is not opposing Catholicism as a religion but is merely resisting the efforts of the Church to attain temporal supremacy in Mexico; that the civil authorities are now seeking to do no more than to enforce existing statutes calculated to separate Church and State and thereby to maintain the integrity of Mexico's educational system and other institutions and that the Church itself is responsible for the erroneous impression that the government is persecuting exponents of religion—these are some of the main points made in an official statement made here yesterday by Hon. Aaron Saenz, Mexican Secretary of Foreign Affairs, who is in the city on a vacation. The statement in full follows:

BY HON. AARON SAENZ
Secretary of Foreign Affairs for Mexico

I came to this country with no aim in view other than to enjoy a vacation. I can hardly turn a deaf ear, though, to the courteous but persistent demands of newspaper men, who have been asking me for a statement in connection with the affairs of Mexico.

Right after I crossed the frontier I learned with wonder that great importance has been here conceded to the so-called "religious problem" of Mexico, and my surprise increased on ascertaining that a great interest is actually taken here in this matter. The subject has been dwelt upon by every journalist that has approached me in Laredo and San Antonio, as well as in Los Angeles. Furthermore, I have had occasion to read frequent press reports bearing thereon.

All this ha surprised me, because there is no religious problem in Mexico. And it is worth remarking that this matter is appealing to the public of foreign countries more than to that of Mexico, whose residents, almost as a whole, think of everything but a religious problem. The latter exists only for a scanty group, who wish to take a chance at developing political activities, using the Church as a means thereto, and who aim at the revival of the struggle for the supremacy of the Church over the State, or else, want to place the case of Mexico in the hands of Rome, to be there used as a banner for religious propaganda or proselytism.

The Mexican government not only tolerates, but respects all creeds; not one has been closed among the thousands of churches existing in the country, and the assertion is false that the government hinders in any way the freedom of conscience and religious beliefs. This can be verified by freely looking at the question from every angle; not by hearing those alone who, serving their own private ends, make use of this situation to hide reality under a false impression.

FACTS SUMMARIZED

I shall endeavor to give an accurate, if summarized account of what actually exists in Mexico in regard to this matter:

(I.) Mexican history shows that all through the times of the Spanish colony, the Church was the vice-royal government's ally in the work of controlling the Mexican people not only politically, but likewise spiritually and materially, by adhering to a policy of temporal domination.

(II.) When the Independence War broke out, the lower clergy, who were the true friends of the down-

BUILDINGS DISAPPEAR IN CAVE-IN

Coal Plant Structures on Mississippi Swallowed as Earth Sinks

MEMPHIS (Tenn.) July 25. (AP)—Tons of earth near the Mississippi River banks here sank suddenly late today, burying buildings and elevators of the West Kentucky Coal Company and causing damage estimated at $350,000.

The mass, estimated at 10,000,000 cubic feet, sank fifty feet, tumbling everything on it into a mass of wreckage.

None of the ground went into the river. A wall of earth was left along the waterfront, seemingly checking the sink.

Trackage of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad for several blocks was torn and twisted, and a large molasses tank fell into the chasm.

The sink was 1000 feet long and more than 200 feet wide.

One building belonging to the coal company sank the fifty feet but was not damaged.

Cracks were still forming around the edge of the sink late tonight and indications were that more ground would go into the slide. The cause of the cave-in was undetermined.

MURDERERS ATTEMPT TO KILL DURKIN

Prisoners in Cook County Bastile Attack and Beat Slayer of Federal Officer

CHICAGO, July 25. (Exclusive)—Last Sunday Midget Fernekes and others attempted to dynamite a hole through a wall of the County Jail and nearly succeeded. Today, there was another riot on a much smaller scale. This time the prisoners expended some of their hoodlum activities upon Martin Durkin, killer of a Federal deputy, who pounced upon him in a dark garage.

Guards, especially watchful since last Sunday's dynamiting, noticed the prisoners milling around in a circle in "Murderers' Row," where the desperate criminals are permitted to exercise. The deputies plunged into the circle, where Durkin was down and being badly kicked and beaten. There were sixty-eight desperadoes in the group and the guards were unable to learn who had led the attempt to kill Durkin or who had taken part in it. Among those in the vicinity were Russell Scott, under sentence of death, "Three Fingered" Jack White, James Gentile, William Shupe and other murderers.

Durkin could not tell who first assaulted him. He was knocked down by a blow from behind and immediately everybody in the inner circle was kicking him in the face and abdomen.

ROYAL PAIR ON VISIT TO GIANT TREES

Prince and Princess Doff Regal Airs on Journey to Yosemite Scenic Spots

YOSEMITE, July 25. (AP)—Forsaking regal and city ways, Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus and his consort, Princess Louise of Sweden, became Sierra Nevada mountaineers today. The Prince left the train at Merced to make the trip to the Yosemite National Park in automobile via the Wawona Road. A lunch was taken at the Big Trees Lodge in the Mariposa Grove, and after carefully inspecting the giant Sequoias, the royal party motored late in the afternoon to Glacier Point Hotel, where the night will be spent.

The Crown Prince abandoned his city clothes and appeared in an olive-drab outing costume in which he might have been mistaken for a National Park Service ranger, as he wore the badge of a ranger.

The royal party will leave tomorrow morning for Yosemite Valley, where they will stop at Yosemite Lodge. Tomorrow evening they will experience a typical western barbecue as guests of Camp Curry. They plan to leave Yosemite by train for San Francisco Tuesday morning.

JUDGE LAWLOR SUCCUMBS

California Supreme Court Justice, Ill Some Time, Dies in San Francisco Home

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25. (AP)—Judge Lawlor, associate justice of the Supreme Court, died here tonight. He had been in failing health for some time.

Justice Lawlor was an outstanding judicial figure in a period of San Francisco's history that was as stirring in its way as the drum-head courts of the Argonaut days, wherein the vigilantes, a citizens' commune, tried and sentenced men to death in a tragic breakdown of law and order.

IN FAMOUS CASE

A few months after the earthquake and fire of April, 1906, San Francisco was shaken anew by a municipal graft scandal that prostrated the city government and brought the Mayor, his Board of Supervisors and many others in high estate before the bar of justice as suspected bribe givers and bribe takers. Justice Lawlor was one of those selected to try the culprits.

During the trial of Abe Ruef, political boss and chief engineer of the graft activities, before Lawlor, a disgruntled rejected juror, Morris Haas, shot down Francis J. Heney, noted special prosecutor, in the courtroom. For a time Heney's life was despaired of. Haas later shot and killed himself in the County Jail with a derringer that had been spirited in to him.

BORN IN NEW YORK

Justice Lawlor was born in New York City September 17, 1854, and was left an orphan at 10 years of age. He attended Hastings College of Law here and, supplementing this study at home, qualified to pass the bar examination in 1876. He was elected a Superior judge of this county in the same year, and served until 1915, when he was elected an associate justice of the State Supreme Court. He was a candidate for re-election this year, but withdrew from the campaign on account of the precarious condition of his health.

He was a member of the Bohemian, Family, Olympic and Commonwealth clubs.

Vanderbilt Row With Kin Costly to ex-Publisher

ATLANTIC CITY, July 25. (AP)—The split between Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and his family already has cost him nearly $2,000,000, he admitted today at the Hotel Ambassador, where he spent the week-end. One million has been diverted from the fortune he will inherit to cancel notes against his newspapers held by his family. Another million, comprising a trust fund created for young Vanderbilt by his wamily several years ago, has been revoked.

When the young publisher returned from Europe last week he announced definitely he had broken with his family because of differences of opinion concerning his business troubles.

FIRE RAZES MARK TWAIN LANDMARKS

Buildings at San Andreas Burn as Blaze Menaces Historic Town of State

STOCKTON, July 25. (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin early today threatened to destroy the historic mining town of San Andreas, forty-three miles east of here. Three of the famous landmarks of the renowned Bret Harte-Mark Twain country. The Metropolitan Hotel, the Friedberger Building, the Whitlock Building, and homes and smaller buildings were destroyed. The damage was estimated at $200,000 by Sheriff Winge, of Calaveras county.

Aid was sent by neighboring communities as the fire threatened to spread to al portions of the city. Fire Chief Murphy and a crew of ten men from Stockton made the run to the mountain city in an hour with a chemical engine and hand apparatus. Jackson, Angelus Camp, Mokelumne Hill and Valley Springs sent men and equipment to help check the flames. The entire crew of the Calaveras cement plant was sent to the scene as soon as the alarm was spread.

The blaze started at 1 o'clock this morning in the annex of the Metropolitan Hotel. A guest of the hotel discovered the fire when he opened the door of his room and found the hallway in flames. He barely made his escape through a window and succeeded in awakening the other guests, many of whom were unable to save any of their personal effects and fled to the street in their night clothes.

As soon as it was discovered that the local department was unable to save the town from destruction, a call for help was sent to all of the neighboring communities. A prompt response on the part of those cities prevented the flames spreading through the entire business district.

Death Toll in Bridge Crash Mounts to Six

CHARLESTON, (W. Va.) July 25. (AP) The collapse of a small foot-bridge over Coal River at Whitesville, forty miles from here, had caused the death of six persons tonight. Five were killed instantly and one died later from injuries suffered when the span gave way last night under the weight of about 135 spectators who had crowded upon it to view a free carnival act.

Most of the sixty spectators injured when they were dropped twenty feet to the shallow water of the river bed were women and children. Thirty-five were brought to Charleston hospitals.

SAN JOAQUIN TOWNS FEEL LIGHT SHOCK

Slight Temblor Rattles Dishes and Cracks Plaster; Three Counties Feel Shock

FRESNO, July 15. (AP)—A series of earth tremors, which rattled dishes, cracked plaster, shook chimneys and, in some instances, shook dishes off shelves, was reported throughout the Central San Joaquin Valley, about 10 o'clock this morning. No damage was done, reports indicated.

Hundreds of Fresnans reported feeling the shocks, the time varying from 9:40 to 10:20 and like reports were received fro mMedera, Clovis, Kerman, San Joaquin, Mendota, Los Banos, Chowchilla, Livingston, Reedley and other mid-San Joaquin Valley towns.

Reports indicated that the tremors were confined to Fresno, Madera and Merced counties, Bakersfield and Modesto reporting no noticeable quakes in the extreme south and north ends of the valley.

SACRAMENTO, July 25. (AP)—An earth shock which lasted for four or five seconds was felt here shortly after 10 o'clock this morning. The quake was not sufficiently violent to be recorded on the instruments of the local United States Weather Bureau.

SAN JOSE, July 25. (AP)—Earthquake shocks were recorded on seismographs of the University of Santa Clara and Lick Observatory shortly before 10 o'clock this morning. The disturbance was described as local and possibly of sufficient intensity to be perceptible to sensitive persons.

THOUSANDS SEE CIRCUS PAIR FALL

Trapeze Performer and Wife Plunge to Ground When Swing Snaps

CHICAGO, July 25. (Exclusive)—With the eyes of thousands centered on them two trapeze performers—a man and a woman—fought a brief and unsuccessful battle tonight to prevent a fifty-foot fall when an iron hook, by which their swing was suspended under the big canvas top of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey Circus, suddenly snapped.

The performers, Frank Cromwell and his wife, Maud Cromwell, were seated on the swing preparing a series of aerial evolutions when the accident occurred. One end of the seat sagged and Mrs. Cromwell started to plunge forward. Her husband instinctively caught at the rope and reached his other hand to her. Their fingers touched for an instant, but Cromwell was unable to maintain his hold. At the same time his hold on the rope loosened and they fell, together, to the ground.

Both were seriously injured, Mrs. Cromwell possibly fatally.

WHY BOOM EXPLODED

What Happened in Florida

Embargo on Building Stuff Started Toppling of the House of Cards

Nine-Tenths of Real Estate Offices Closed Within Three Months

[This is the second of a series of four articles by Mr. Haight, a disinterested and expert observer of conditions in Florida as they were and are.—Ed. Times.]

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT

PALM BEACH (Fla.) July 25. (Exclusive)—In endeavoring to paint truthfully the situation in Florida it is necessary to return for a moment to the prosperous era. A scant year ago the State was literally seething in the height of its boom. Building mechanics were as costly as nerve specialists. Cost of living was soaring. Adventurers, developers, speculators, subdividers, promoters, and last, but not least, customer had flocked into Florida by the hundred thousand.

The great crowds of strangers demanded great accommodations; the promoters showed the customers the necessity for building them. Then came the builders, and within sixty days plasterers were commanding $25 a day—and plaster is a prominent feature in most of Florida building.

Building sites were sold by the thousand from blue-prints, and in the rush, architects were forgotten and the contractor took his place. Immediate plans to build were universal. The fortunes seemed to be in the ownership of housing property. Then the subdividers and developers were under way with their selling scheme based on future development. They also started actual work on their improvements. They paid premiums to obtain labor. By midwinter of the State was humming with building activity.

PRICES SOAR

Then several things began to happen. The embargo on the railways became acute; the channel into Miami harbor was blocked by a wreck. Anything in the way of merchandise or material, too heavy to mail or carry in a pocket, immediately skyrocketed in price. Developers and individual builders were taxed for money to pay for supplies and labor at the ruinous prices. The official State report showed that 77,304 new hotel rooms were provided in 1925 at the cost of $112,344,490.

After the first of the year the real estate purchasers started to fall off and money was not so plentiful. The developers and others engaged in building went to the banks for loans. Did they get them? They did not. The bankers stated that, in their opinion, building materials and labor cost too much to build reasonably.

Early in February mechanics began leaving construction jobs all over the State. Pay rolls could not be met. The workmen, unable to find other employment with a pay roll actively attached, started to leave. First in groups, then in crowds, and finally in an army. The Dixie highway in March was a one-way street leading north. Every community had the same experience. There are few white mechanics in the building trades left in Florida.

At about this time the exodus of real estate salesmen and promoters began. They, too, took the northward route. In the height of the winter season solid Pullman trains were booked two weeks ahead for return journeys to the north. In late February the exodus exceeded the incoming crowds to such an extent that empty Pullmans were hauled in on trains from the north to accommodate northbound traffic.

"To rent" signs began appearing in apartment windows; store fronts that yesterday displayed alluring scenes of tropical luxury in one subdivision or another today became yawning vacancies. There were 500 real estate offices on Flagler street, Miami, in December, and only thirty-nine on April 1. In Tampa and St. Petersburg the ratio was almost as great. Apartments that commanded $500 a month in January were vacant at $50 a month in May.

The tourist season finished this year late in March. The better class

MOODY VOTE INCREASES

Apparent Victor in Texas Race

Total Returns for Woman Governor and Four Others Less Than Majority

DALLAS (Tex.) July 25. (AP)—Atty.-Gen. Dan Moody, running for the Democratic nomination for Governor against "Ma" Ferguson, the incumbent, and four other candidates, had polled more votes than all of his opponents put together on the basis of incomplete and unofficial returns compiled by the Texas Election Bureau shortly after 11 o'clock tonight.

Moody had a 287-vote majority of all votes cast on complete returns from fifty-six counties and incomplete returns from 182 counties. Fourteen counties remain to be heard from. If Moody can poll a majority of all of the votes cast he automatically becomes the Democratic candidate, which is equivalent to election in Texas.

Should he fail to receive more than half of the votes cast, he would enter a run-off primary next month with Mrs. Ferguson, who is running second, more than 100,000 votes behind.

Returns from 238 to 252 counties with fifty-six complete give Davidson 100,946, Ferguson 230,095, Johnston 1941, Moody 238,957, Wilmans 3695, Zimmerman 2089, in Saturday's primary participation.

Mrs. Ferguson promised to resign her office if Moody led her by 25,000 votes. She has made no comment on this wager since the returns began to come in. Her husband, James E. Ferguson, today issued a statement that there had been irregularities and law violations in some of the voting and told his followers not to give up hope.

For the first time in the State's history it appears that a woman is to sit in the State Senate, as Miss Margie E. Neal of Carthage, Tex., has been nominated for the Senate in her district.

"MA" NOT ALARMED

Speaking late last night to a crowd in Austin, Moody asserted Texas will have a new Governor within a week, but did not elaborate.

Gov. Ferguson's answer to a question last night as to whether she would quit office if Moody received more votes than she did, said she would have nothing to say until the final outcome was learned, which she expected to be within three days.

"I have been through elections before and the reports in favor of Moody do not alarm me," she said.

Mrs. Ferguson made a number of brief speeches, but much of her campaigning was done by her husband, James E. Ferguson, former Governor. He devoted most of his attacks to Moody. The issue of vindication of the Ferguson name, upon which the woman Governor made her campaign two years ago, asserting she wished to clear the name of the stigma oft he impeachment of Ferguson when he was Governor, was little heard in the race just closed. Her appeals for re-election were based upon what she and her husband asserted were the accomplishments of her administration.

Moody concentrated his attack on the Fergusons, mentioning Gov. Ferguson herself only in an incidental way, but attacking Mr. Ferguson. He talked much of highway contracts, pardons and textbook contracts.

VICTORY CLAIMED

A sweeping victory in yesterday's primary fight for control of the Republican State organization was claimed at Republican State headquarters here today. Nomination of Col. Harvey H. Haines of Houston, backed by National Committeeman R. B. Creager and his associates over E. P. Scott of Corpus Christi, candidate of the Congressman, Harry M. Wurzbach faction, was claimed by a vote of about three to one.

Leonard Withington, secretary of the Republican State Committee, said today that official complete and incomplete returns from seventy-four counties, including two in Wurzbach's district, the Fourteenth, gives Haines 4322 and Scott 626. This does

Wood Alcohol Fatalities in Eastern Cities Reach Total of Thirty Over Week-end

BUFFALO (N. Y.) July 25. (AP)—While the police and prohibition enforcement agency in this district were trying to locate the source of the supply of wood alcohol that had caused nearly a score of deaths in this city and near-by Canadian cities over the week-end, the death list was today increased by seven—four in Buaffio and four in Lockport. Dispatches from Toronto list thirteen fatalities, making the total for the three cities thirty.

Thirteen of the victims lived in this city, their deaths covering a period of four days. Those added to the list today were:

Nellie McCarthy, 28 years of age, taken from her apartment in Wadsworth street, died at a hospital an hour later. Charles Lennon of Brayton, guest of an impromptu party in Miss McCarthy's rooms, died at the same hospital today.

Edward Sander of Potomac avenue, employee of an automobile plant, died late Saturday night.

Wadislaus Sander of Peter street, a painter also died late Saturday night.

In addition to these fatalities and those at Lockport, James Murphy, another guest at the McCarthy apartment, and Alexander Musail of Greely street are in hospitals in a serious condition.

As a result of the police investigation, Carl Maischoss of Potomac avenue, from whom Nellie McCarthy and James Murphy are alleged to have bought the poison liquor, was arrested. Maischoss is held on an trodden people, actively worked for the freedom and independence of New Spain, and this brought at once a reaction in the upper clergy, who, not only secured the excommunication of such clergymen as favored the independence, but became their worst persecutors, demanding the sacrifice of the warrior-priests, and bringing religion into play against the struggle for liberty in America. It was then that the first actual estrangement came about of the people from the Church, and when national independence was achieved, the influence and ascendency of the Church had considerably dwindled.

(III.) After the independence the Church kept up steady political activities in Mexico, organizing as a militant political group, going to the extreme of asking for and obtaining foreign intervention in Mexico, and even to that of pretending to establish there an empire under its protection. The wretched monarchical government of Maximilian was organized with the open support of the Church, whose plans were to implant such a form of government in America, extraneous though it was to the medium, and who was further suspected of having in view the extension of the same regime to the other American countries. The empire was likewise supported by the European powers, which were trying at the time to gain political dominion in America, and thereby further their own aims of exploitation.

(IV.) There developed a civil strife in Mexico, known as the "War of Reform," which was brilliantly headed by President Benito Juarez, and the outcome thereof was that the Liberals succeeded in accomplishing once for all the severance between the State and the church. At that time a number of laws, known as "Reform Laws," were enacted, which provided for said separation, regulated all matters connected with worship, nationalized the property of the church, who had accumulated a great amount of wealth, established laic on nonsectarian education, and dealt generally with everything touching external cult. But the mentioned laws could in no way affect religion itself.

CHURCH IN POLITICS

(V.) At the outbreak of the latter revolution, and during the struggle carried on to founa a democratic government in Mexico based on the will of the Mexican people, and not on that of a clique of politicians, the church attempted to exert anew its political influence. Foreign priests in particular, foremost among them the Spaniards, who are of our own race and language, were stubborn opposers to the revolution, it having been positively ascertained that on several occasions ordained priests took up arms against the insurgents. The clergy, moreover, have economically and materially aided and upheld government like that of Victoriano Huerta, which was one of the vilest affronts ever inflicted, not only on Mexico, but on the continent.

(VI.) After the triumph of the revolution and the establishment of constitutional governments, the revolutionary program was condensed in our political Constitution of 1917, wherein the fundamental enactments were inscribed, which bear on the different Mexican problems, among them the law dealing with religious questions, which merely consecrated the reform laws promulgated during President Juarez's administration, adding two or three rulings thereto, which I shall hereinafter mention.

(VII.)—The church, through its high dignataries, then started a campaign of opposition to the Mexican Constitution and political organization. Said campaign was invariably tolerated by all revolutionary governments, including that of President Calles, as long as it showed respect to the government and did not encroach upon the latter's authority; but in February of this year, the church, represented by its chief prelates in Mexico addressed a proclamation to the Mexican people, published in the Mexican papers of that day, whereby it disavowed the Constitution, protested against the political organization of the country, and urged the citizens to rise in arms against a Constitution which the church disowned. To the stand taken by the church the government responded by simply enforcing the provisions of the Mexican laws with regard to churches. Said provisions have been in our legislation, not only since 1917, but since 1867, at the time of Juarez.

WHAT LAWS PROVIDE

Such are in a nutshell the historical antecedents of this question. Now I shall refer concretely to the present state of affairs.

The Mexican laws provide:

(a.) The complete separation between church and state.

(c.) That elementary, primary education shall be free.

(b.) That none but Mexicans may be ministers of a cult in Mexico.

(d.) That neither convents nor any of the other religious organizations forbidden in Mexico since the time of President Juarez shall be permitted.

(e.) That only elementary primary schools shall not be in charge of priests, but of professional teachers.

It is the enforcement of such laws that has caused religious discussion in Mexico. As anybody can see, the foregoing rulings do not carry with them any persecution of the church, unless the exception against foreign priests be construed as such. On the other hand, there is nothing new in the Mexican laws on that subject, save the provision that education must be laic or nonsectarian in primary schools. The state does not wish to hamper religious liberty, and forbids religious teaching only in primary schools. In high schools, though, it is permitted, and there remains, moreover, the home and the church to impart as much religious learning as they see fit.

In the campaign which the Catholic church in Mexico has been carrying on against my country in foreign lands, we can see but the reiteration of its traditional policy: to fight for the recovery of temporal supremacy in Mexico; to stir political activities at home and to sue for support from abroad, regardless of hurting the patriotic feelings of the Mexican people, who are more zealous about their political duties than about their religion. Catholic though most of the Mexican people are, they have condemned all through their history, at the time of their independence, as well as during the reform and at this epoch, every maneuver tending to curtail their sovereignty or change their political organization, which they have always defended with hard and untiring efforts.

GOVERNMENT DEFIED

In closing I wish to point out a concrete fact: The Bishop of Huejutla (Hidalga, Mex.) issued a proclamation by which he denounces the President of the Republic as a murderer and a bandit, and the Mexican official as false and arbitrary. He defies the government and urges the people to rebel in forces against the authorities and the Constitution, the disavowal of which he therein prompts. The bishop ends his manifesto saying that he is ready to sacrifice himself for religion and all he asks the authorities is that they do not murder him from behind. This occurred over five months ago, the most reverend bishop has not been murdered, only arraigned before the authorities, charged with defamation and slander, and submitted to a judicial investigation.

How is the attitude of that Minister of Christ to be reconciled with Christian tenets, with a religion preaching love and concord among men, and with the mission of a shepherd of souls?

The people of the United States, who are in a position to weigh these things in all fairness, are now qualified to tell who is right in the only case that has been so far brought before the judicial authorities; whether it is the Mexican government, or the impulsive Minister of Christ, whose behavior bespeaks the idea he has of his mission.

In these questions, as in all those connected with its public affairs, Mexico would be satisfied if only public opinion abroad were willing to study, with calm and deliberation all the circumstances affecting its problems, and to give due consideration to the views and allegations of each side.

FAILURE OF BUS BRAKES TO HOLD BRINGS DEATH TO MANY

More than a dozen persons lost their lives and two score were injured when this tourist bus got out of control on a hill and turned over on a curve a few days ago. The bus was bound from New York City to Bear Mountain. The brakes suddenly refused to work on a half-mile-long hill and the car turned over and over at Spark Hill, N. Y., after going around a curve on two wheels. This photo shows wreckage of the bus.

Freighter Hits Bar of Sand in Columbia River

ST. HELENS, (Or.) July 25. (AP)—The freighter Manhattan Island, en route down the Columbia River from Portland for Puget Sound ports, ran aground early today on the sands dividing the main channel from the St. Helen's channel.

Unsuccessful efforts were made to pull the steamer free by the tug Portland, assisted by the steamer Cowlitz. Another attempt will be made tomorrow.

CHURCH BOYCOTT ORDERED

that his predecessor, Benedict XV, rejected the same character of Mexican laws and Pope Pius in his February letter, repeated and ratified Benedict's repudiation of such Mexican laws."

After thus reviewing the Pope's attitude, the letter continues: "Since 1917, when we (the Mexican Episcopate) raised our voice in protest to His Holiness, Benedict XV, until the present time, our conduct has always been of prudent silence, because the Mexican antireligious clauses were not applied to the extent of making impossible the existence of the church.

"In truth, the governments in power during that period of time undoubtedly placed great obstacles before the church and passed against the church several administrative measures excessively rigorous and sometimes unconstitutional, but they never made impossible the administration of sacraments and the exercise of cults in general.

"Against that grave persecution, which could be considered as isolated, and transitory, we could observe an expectant attitude, seeking harmony, tolerating humiliations, always having in mind the principles of the Divine constitution of the church. But the regulations issued by the Federal executive injure to such an extent the Divine rights of the church intrusted to our guardianship, are secondary to the natural rights which both consecrate religious liberty as the primordial foundation of civilization and positively prescribe social and individual duty to worship God, are so contrary to the Mexican constitutional rights that before such violation of so sacred moral values it is impossible for us to yield any further.

"It would be a crime on our part to tolerate such a situation and we do not desire that when brought before the tribunal of God the tardy lamentations of the prophet might come to our mind—'woe is me because I have kept silent.'"

"Who will not recognize that an offense truly incredible is done divine rights and natural rights, and to the dearest and most sacred interests of the Mexican nation, when according to the latest decree of the Federal executive, the acts ordered or advised by God, and therefore most sacred acts which the legislation of civilized countries protects, acts which for centuries have been the soul and life of the Mexican people, are made criminal offenses, with penalties more rigorous than moral crimes in general or crimes against life and property?

"Who fails to recognize that the present decree, instead of protecting the before-mentioned rights, merely tends to make the 1917 constitution unchangeable, whereas the Mexican people for a thousand reasons desire it amended? Is it not clear that the decree instead of promoting the common welfare and assuring religious liberty, as the constitution requires, tends only to make Mexico un-Catholic and to create for the government a serious problem and a sad inheritance for its successors?

"For this reason and following the pontiff's example, we protest against the decree before God, before civilized humanity, before the country and history. With God's favor and your (the Catholics of Mexico) co-operation we will work to effect an amendment to the decree and the antireligious provisions of the Constitution, and we will not desist from our purpose until it is attained."

The letter concludes by imparting the pastoral benediction.

CARDINAL HAYES CALLS ON CATHOLICS

NEW YORK, July 25. (AP)—New York's 1,500,000 Roman Catholics were called upon today by Cardinal Hayes to pray for their coreligionists in Mexico on August 1, the date on which a proposed economic and social blockade of that country is to become effective.

Cardinal Hayes denounced the treatment of Catholics by the Mexican government as constituting a "distressful and dreadful crisis." His pastoral letter, charging that "shocking injustices are perpetrated by an anti-Christian government against priests and a religious and faithful Catholic people," was read at all the masses today.

The pastoral letter was prepared before reports reached New York that the Pope was said to regard with disfavor the proposal by the archbishop of Mexico City of a retaliatory boycott. The letter was sent to priests of the diocese early in the week. Mgr. M. J. Lavelle of St. Patrick's Cathedral said today, and no change in it had been made.

The cardinal had received no word from the Vatican of any adverse attitude of the Pope to the proposed boycott, Mgr Lavelle said. The pastoral letter did not refer to the boycott, but called for prayers for the Mexican Catholics on next Sunday, the feast of St. Peter in Chains. A similar call was issued from all Catholic pulpits today at the request of the Pope.

Monsignor Lavelle said Cardinal Hayes had been informed of the suspension of all religious services and the withdrawal of priests from all churches in Mexico, but had no comment to make on this action.

CALLES BRANDS REVOLT RUMOR FALSE

NEW YORK, July 25. (AP)—President Calles of Mexico, in a telegram to the Associated Press tonight, declared the situation in this country to be normal and denied rumors of antigovernmental activity. In response to a query sent him as to the situation in Mexico, he telegraphed:

"Rumors which you say circulate in that country of impending revolution in Mexico unfounded. Situation is normal with few unimportant incidents provoked by political campaign of reactionaries under cover of the robe of Catholicism.

"It is only a new phase of the old fight of reaction against the administrative work and the reconstructive labor and the consolidation of the revolutionary principles that the government is endeavoring to bring about."

AMERICAN VATICAN DELEGATE PLAYS PART

MEXICO CITY, July 25. (Exclusive) Archbishop George Joseph Caruana, deported American apostolic delegate to Mexico and the Antilles, although barred from his Mexico City headquarters, nevertheless is playing a most important part in the present Catholic situation here.

Caruana, now at headquarters in Havana, is in constant touch with the Mexican episcopate, and it is through him that messages were exchanged between the episcopate and the Vatican resulting in the Pope's absolute approval of the original plans the episcopate drew up to fight the religious law when the law first was published here early in July. Considerable power remains in the hand of the apostolic delegate, in his negotiations as the Vatican's diplomat to the Mexican hierarchy in whatever country he is accredited to; and the Mexican episcopate placed much faith in the aid Curuana would extend to their desire to obtain from the Pope approval of their plans.

Caruana now is quoted as having said to an intimate friend prior to his departure from Mexico that the Mexican government would physically rid itself of his presence, but his deportation would only serve to make easier his duties as liaison officer between the Vatican and the Mexican hierarchy, as his territory still included Mexico and stationed in Cuba he would have complete liberty of action.

When the religious law was published here the episcopate called a meeting of all bishops, who drew up the present plans, divulged in the pastoral letter issued today. They are virtually the same as the original plans, unaltered by the Pope.

Caruana soon after publication of the law left the United States for Havana and there conducted negotiations with a secret messenger sent there by the Mexican episcopate.

DEVOUT PAY HOMAGE TO GUADALUPE VIRGIN

MEXICO CITY, July 25. (Exclusive)—The beloved and most worshiped saint of all the Catholics of Mexico, "The Virgin of Guadalupe," patron saint of the nation, in her treasure house of the Roman Catholic Church, the Basilica of Guadalupe, within the priceless silver railing that encircles her imposing high altar, beneath high blue ceilings studded with golden stars, today ruled supreme, though with sadness, over her Catholic domain, Mexico.

For legally this is the last Sunday that the virgin's faithful may seek rest and comfort in the churches of the land. Next Saturday at midnight the Mexican government will enforce the new religious law.

A sight almost beyond proper description took place today on the five-mile road between Mexico City and the suburb of Guadalupe. The dusty highway was the scene of unprecedented Catholic fervor. One hundred thousand pilgrims of both sexes and of all ages traveled over the road during the day.

The humbliest Indians rubbed shoulders with the wealthiest elements in silk hats and Paris modes. Calloused feet of Indian women tramped through the dust with their accustomed ease beside the struggling feet of socially prominent women, whose tender feet were also bare as they stumbled along toward the virgin's shrine.

Each step meant physical pain, and with feet bleeding and swollen the offered their first penitence to the Church of Rome in the Catholic protest against the religious law.

Most of the women carried flowers in the form of crosses or wreaths and groups of schoolgirls, some in white, others in black dresses in groups of fifty to 100, were burdened under the weight of giant floral crosses and wreaths with thousands upon thousands of Mexico's multicolored blossoms. They made their way to the Virgin's shrine, depositing their offerings as the last tribute declared by the Catholics as "our farewell pilgrimage to our Virgin, to our saint."

Mexico City is used to seeing annually pilgrimages of thousands of the Virgin's devoted Indians who journey from all corners of the republic on December 12, but today's sight was marveled at, even by the oldest residents, in view of the fact that Indians mingled with such a great number of the most prominent citizens of both sexes.

If today is the beginning of de Catholicizing Mexico, as Archbishop Dr. Mora y del Rio stated in his pastoral letter, then the Roman Church has put up the greatest front in its peaceful, nonviolent struggle declared against the government, because all of Mexico's 95 per cent Catholicism was evident today with a display of strength it has never shown before.

of restaurants in all the larger cities began closing; the resort hotels shut up excepting at Miami Beach and St. Petersburg, where an effort was made to maintain an "all-year-round" status.

POPULATION MELTS

And all the time the population was melting away. Trains and highways were filled this year up into June, with northbound traffic.

But all this time there was a cheerful note being sounded in the newspapers and among the people on the streets to the effect that a repetition of the 1925 summer influx was imminent, though perhaps on a modified scale. The railways were asked to establish a rate of regular fare plus $2 for return tickets in the north. The railways were interested and called the hotel associations together, asking written guarantee of definite low rates for accommodation. The hotels were unwilling to meet the demand. So the railways decided upon a rate for five people on one ticket, good each first and third Tuesday in the summer months, at fare plus $2 each. Practically all hotels were closed by June 15.

With no summer tourists and no real estate customers, those left in Florida settled down to a long, hot rival of real estate interest in the rival of real estate interest in the fall, which is now held a practical certainty by the optimists.

Miami and Miami Beach, with housing accommodations about 30 per cent utilized, show signs of life, although none of the first-class northern-type hotels remains open. Palm Beach is entirely vacant, except for caretakers, but West Palm Beach still has half its 1925 population. Tampa's population has been depleted by more than half, from all appearances, and St. Petersburg probably by three-fourths. The all-year-round interest in South Florida, which was one of the big selling points of lot dealers a year ago, appears to have dissolved at about the time the thermometers began showing 100 deg. and above at the street levels, and the mosquito ranks began to multiply.

REFINANCING PLANS

In the meantime the more important subdivisions and exclusive residential developments, somnolent since February, began to take measures for perpetuation by new financial programs. So far as continuation of building and improvement operations go, there is no expectation of resumption this year. These enterprises found themselves in embarrassing positions, and that included practically every major development in Florida. Reckless commitments for millions of dollars to be expended in improvements were made verbally and in contract with lot buyers all during 1925. As long as money flowed in as a result of first or deferred payments, some show of activity was made along these lines. In fact the improvement expenditures came before obligation for title to property that was being sold. As a result the owners of title to the ground became anxious and attempted to force payments.

The developers, however, showed the owners that they could get no more than their property back, if forcing measures were employed, and that the mere action of turning it back would shatter values in a ruinous degree. So the owners extended the time. When the lot buyers were urged to pay up, they used the same argument. For three months the whole circle has been at a standstill, and today it is impossible to tell when the wheel will resume and who will start it.

Subdividers and developers have millions upon millions of dollars in contracts which are dormant. This paper has been turned down by almost every reputable bank in Florida. Some concerns are organizing syndicates in Chicago, New York and Boston to take it over at high discounts—and meeting with little success.

One notable exception in financing ability is shown by the Coral Gables Corporation. This institution has organized a finance company with $110,000,000 capital to handle its own deferred payments. How successful the plan will be remains to be seen, but this enterprise has powerful friends in Florida and its friends are not forsaking it in a moment of tribulation. It is the outstanding development in the virtues of sincerity and rational policies, but it, too, had its moments of extravagance.

Set-ups like "Pulford-by-the-Sea," a $30,000,000 development, proved to be a different character and the promoter is under indictment.

CASH PAYMENTS HALT

But the important factor is that no more money is going into Florida as payment for land. That fact has caused to fade from the population the building mechanics, the real estate salesmen and promoters, the hotel forces, and many thousands whose businesses depended upon regular pay rolls for the employed.

Those who are left are divided into three classes: Persons who literally do not possess finances sufficient to get them out; small business people and native residents who feel they must remain during the six months of summer, and clerks, office people, motor mechanics and the like who take summer work at small pay so they will be first on the ground when the seasonal pick-up in business arrives.

Thus business is reduced to the lowest ebb. First-class cafeterias and restaurants have closed because of no patronage. Laundries are closed down; ice plants operate on part time; in fact all business which in season serves those who can afford service is on a vacation this summer.

An instance of other "left-behinds." There comes to mind a teacher who was engaged in West Palm Beach for the year and who was induced to pay what money she had on a lot, together with installments which equaled almost her salary till school closed. She completed her contracts only to find that the lot's value had shrunk to nothing. At the close of the school year she was minus the funds she had brought with her as well as the winter's earnings. Her dreams of a northern summer faded. She is spending her holiday as an elevator operator in a small building, hoping to get through until school-opening time without a physical breakdown.

But, of course, that is only a single instance, and perhaps rather more severe than the average.

open charge. Maiachoss made a sworn statement in which he averred that the liquor retailed at his place was bought from James Voelker of Amherst street, alleged by the police to be a wholesale distributor of alcohol. Voelker could not be located and was reported to have left the city.

Joseph Banos, alleged middleman, held on a homicide charge, as the result of two deaths on Saturday, also made a sworn statement to the police in which he claimed to have bought two 120-gallon drums of alcohol from James Voelker. Banos declared he discovered the alcohol unfit for use and turned it back to Voelker. Banos denied that he retailed any of the bad liquor.

Acting Police Chief John S. Marnon today conferred with Mayor Schwab and suggested that every soft-drink place in the city be closed.

LIQUOR POISONING KILLS THIRTEEN IN TORONTO

TORONTO (Ont.) July 25. (AP)—Deaths from poisonous liquor in Toronto and vicinity reached the total of thirteen tonight, with the addition of three new victims: Mrs. Olive Guertan of Toronto, William Bacon of Hamilton and John Lyons of Oakville.

Three persons are in custody in connection with the distribution of the alleged poisonous beverage. They are Mrs. Ruth Maybee of Toronto and her two children, and Bert Dangelo of Hamilton. William Maybee, husband of Ruth Maybee, died yesterday of liquor poisoning after he had been arrested on a charge of selling the poisoned liquor.

WOMAN WINS TEXAS NOMINATION FOR SENATE

CARTHAGE (Tex.) July 25. (AP)—Miss Margie E. Neal of Carthage has won the Democratic nomination for the State Senate in the second district by a substantial majority.

Miss Neal will be the first woman to sit in the State Senate, if elected, and the second woman to go to the Texas Legislature. Mrs. Edith E. Wilmans of Dallas, who ran for Governor in yesterday's primary, was the first Texas woman legislator. She served one term in the House several years ago. A Democratic nomination in Texas has generally meant election.

Wood Resubmits Nominations of Five Americans

MANILA, July 25. (AP)—Gov.-Gen. Leonard Wood has again placed before the Philippine Senate the nominations of five Americans who were disapproved by that body at the last session, when their names were sent down by the Governor-General for executive offices in the provinces. The disapproved nominees have been acting in their respective capacities under ad-interim appointments since the last session of the Legislature. They include:

Lieut.-Col. Charles E. Livingston, to be Superintendent of the Constabulary Academy at Baguio.

Lieut.-Col. Orville M. Johnson of the constabulary, to be Governor of Lanao Province, where recent outbreaks in the ranks of the Moro tribesmen occurred.

John C. Early, to be Governor of Mountain Province.

Lieut.-Col. William E. Dosser, to be Constabulary Commander of Mountain Province.

Stanton Youngberg, to be Director of Agriculture.

Thirty-six Hurt as Cars Crash on Aerial Ride

NEW YORK, July 25. (Exclusive) A loaded three-car train on the Thunderbolt Ride at the Bowery and Kensington Walk, the newest and fastest ride on Coney Island, plunged down a sixty-foot incline tonight and crashed into another crowded train which had stalled at the bottom of the dip.

All of the thirty-six persons in the six cars were injured, twelve so seriously that they had to be attended by physicians. Edgar Baleso of New York City was sent to the Coney Island Hospital with internal injuries, a fractured knee and a fractured thigh, and is said to be dying.

A record crowd visited the beaches here today.

FOREST FIRE HALTS FILM PRODUCTION

Buster Keaton's Company Suffers $40,000 Loss and Time of 500 Extras

COTTAGE GROVE (Or.) July 25. (AP)—The Buster Keaton Production Company, a motion-picture concern, has lost $40,000 or more in equipment and the time of 500 men by a forest fire which is raging eighteen miles from here on Row River, near the location where battle scenes are being staged by the Keaton company.

Two expensive cameras have been destroyed and nearly all the Civil War uniforms worn by the extras have been used as blankets in fighting the flames. Buster himself was on the firing line and remained throughout the night directing the efforts of his company. Mrs. Keaton has reluctantly returned to Cottage Grove.

The flames broke out a short time before the final battle scene of the production would have been completed. It will be necessary to get new uniforms from Los Angeles and the "soldiers" will have to be kept on the job several days longer than at first expected. Food has been sent from here to the fire fighters.

The origin of the fire was not determined, but it was established that it was not caused by operations of the film company.

COSO VOLCANIC IRON WATER

FRANCIS PATRICK SHANLEY

Co-Partner Continental Hotel, 624 So. Hill St., Los Angeles.

Just previous to leaving for Europe with the California delegation to attend the meeting of the International Hotel Men's Association at Paris, France I had received the most remarkable benefits from Coso Volcanic Iron Water. As this water had given me the first relief for many years from acid stomach, indigestion and torpid liver, I was actually afraid to undertake this long journey unless I had an ample supply of Coso Water. I had a special container made for the purpose of carrying enough to last me through my trip. We visited eight countries and were wined and dined by many of the crowned heads of Europe; were received by the Pope and entertained by Premier Mussolini. Although a dyspeptic for years, with the aid of Coso Water I was able to eat with a relish and thoroughly digest the richest foods served us at more than one hundred banquets.

We visited the world-famed mineral springs of Baden Baden and Carlsbad, and, although I drank of these waters for comparison in my case, I want to say that right here in California we have the world's greatest medicinal water for inflamed conditions of the stomach and intestinal tract. I returned physically fit and feeling better than when I left Los Angeles, which, without Coso Water, would have been a difficult and tiresome journey. My only regret is that space would not permit me to take an ample supply of Coso Volcanic Mud, which I have used so successfully in my private baths at the hotel. These baths produce the most profuse perspiration, open and purge the pores, all of which have contributed greatly to the perfect health I am now enjoying. (Signed) FRANCIS PATRICK SHANLEY.

Coso Water sells for $1.25 per bottle or $16.00 for case of sixteen bottles, a saving of $4.00. Coso Volcanic Mud for Baths, $3.00 per jar or four jars $10.00, a saving of $2.00.

GRAND JURY INVESTIGATES DRY CHIEF'S CASE TODAY

Charges of Criminal Negligence and Liquor Embezzlement to be Made Against Green

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25. (Exclusive)—Charges of criminal negligence in office, as well as the embezzlement of government-seized liquor, will be preferred against Ned M. Green, suspended prohibition administrator, when the Federal grand jury is impaneled tomorrow morning. This was the statement of government officials today as they whipped into final form a voluminous mass of evidence.

An indictment against the ousted administrator, who has publicly admitted drinking liquor and serving it at parties, is confidently looked for by those who have investigated Green's office during the past weeks.

That the Federal grand jury may go further than dealing with this alone was another prediction. The evidence now in the possession of Alf Oftedal, chief of the intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue Department, is authoritatively said to touch upon the activities of others than Col. Green in the department.

Several aides to Green, appointed since he took office ten months ago, and termed "unauthorized employees," will be discharged tomorrow by Col. Samuel I. Johnson, the acting prohibition administrator, it also was reported.

Asst. U. S. Atty.-Gen. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, who has general supervision of prohibition matters in Washington, will appear before the Federal grand jury as the representative of Atty.-Gen. Sargent, when the case opens.

DISCUSSION REFUSED

Green spent today in Modesto at the home of his niece, Mrs. W. H. Brooks, where he denied himself to visitors, and refused further to discuss the case.

While the Federal officials in charge of the Green investigation were awaiting the impaneling before Federal Judge Kerrigan tomorrow morning of the July-to-November grand jury, it was stated in the offices of U. S. Atty.-Gen. Hatfield that "the surface only has been scratched" so far as Green is concerned, and that evidence in the hands of the government shows that subordinates to Green are facing indictment on charges of "forgetting" to arrest known bootleggers and with having had permission from Green to remove government-seized liquor for use by themselves and their friends.

That several of those subpoenaed to appear as witnesses against Green in the grand jury room tomorrow afternoon made statements to government officials relative to conditions in Green's office for the sole purpose of receiving "immunity baths" at the hands of the grand jury was admitted by a high government official.

It was revealed also that Col. Green not only included in his liquor parties his army friends and their wives from the Presidio, but frequently had present prohibition agents under his supervision.

Mrs. Willebrandt was sent here for the express purpose of appearing before the Federal grand jury to present the government's charges against Green.

She was in San Francisco the first of last week and later went to Los Angeles. She is due to arrive here tomorrow morning and will go immediately to the Federal Building for a final conference with U. S. Atty. Hatfield and Oftedal, prior to her appearance before the grand jury. In presenting the results of the Green investigation to the inquisitorial body she will be assisted by Hatfield, whose office has co-operated with Oftedal in shaping the evidence.

EVIDENCE ASSEMBLED

While Chief Oftedal refused flatly today to comment on the Green case, it was learned that the Federal investigator spent the entire day in his office getting together the odds and ends of the evidence his department will present to the grand jury against Green and others of the prohibition office.

Harold H. Charlton, chief deputy to Col. Johnson, and Carl Ahlin, the latter chief of prohibition raiders, were closeted for several hours with Oftedal during the day. Neither would comment on the nature of their visit to Oftedal.

The grand jury to be impaneled tomorrow to hear the Green case will be what is termed in Federal circles as "a classy jury." Of the sixty veniremen called for prospective duty, twenty-three of the number will be chosen.

It has been the custom in the past for a grand jury, after the appointment of a foreman, to assemble for organization, choose a secretary and adjourn to a specified meeting date. U. S. Atty. Hatfield, however, will ask the jurors to take up the prohibition scandal at once.

The indictment is ready for inquisitors and was prepared by Asst. U. S. Atty. Thomas J. Sheridan.

Manufacturer Free in Mexico Divorce Case

MEXICO CITY, July 25. (AP)—John F. Howard, Haverhill (Mass.) manufacturer, has been released from jail at Cuernavaca, where he has been confined in the warden's room after his arrest at the instigation of his two sons, Albert and John, who charged their father with perjury and bigamy in connection with his divorce and remarriage in Mexico.

Although there has been no formal trial, the judge declared that the evidence was not sufficient to justify holding Howard any longer, and released him under 1000-pesos bail.

Legal experts have expressed the opinion that the case may never go to formal trial.

FORD LOSES CIGAR SUIT

Patent Office Rules Stogies May Carry Same Name as Flivver

WASHINGTON, July 25. (AP)—Henry Ford has lost a fight to have the name of his automobile eliminated from a brand of cigars and stogies.

Denying the application of the Ford Motor Company to cancel the registration of the brand by John A. MacDoo of Charlotte, N. C., the patent office has held that a corporate name may be registered as a trade mark when used on goods differing from those manufactured by another corporation of the same name.

THOUSANDS OF LEPERS HAIL ENVOY

President's Representative Inspects Colony at Culion; Praises American, Doctors

CULION (P. I.) July 25. (AP)—Carmi A. Thompson, personal representative of President Coolidge, investigating conditions in the Philippine Islands, was greeted here yesterday by a tourout of almost 5000 lepers.

The Thompson party was escorted over the larger colony and shown the hospitals and small houses scattered over the nearby hills where the lepers live. The visitors departed last night for Palawan.

Before leaving, Thompson declared he was deeply impressed with the splendid work carried on, and thoroughly approved the plans of Gov.-Gen. Wood for creation of a great research center at Culion for the benefit of humanity. He also expressed the highest admiration for the unselfish work of two American doctors, W. Wade and Granville Perkins of the Culion staff.

The President's representative was informed that since 1921 nearly 600 patients had been discharged from the colony as permanently cured.

A feature of the visit was the enthusiastic greeting given Thompson by four American lepers, three of whom are veterans of the Spanish-American War, and the rendition of a program by the leper orchestra and chorus.

Death Penalty for ex-Convict Despite Threat

KANSAS CITY, July 25. (AP)—The death penalty was imposed here yesterday on Millard Abel, 25-year-old ex-convict, in the face of persistent reports that a dozen St. Louis gunmen were here prepared to free Abel should he be convicted.

Abel was charged with the murder of Harry T. McConnell, an employee of the Fred Harvey system, in a downtown parking station, May 8. The prosecution charged robbery was the motive for the slaying.

Lightning Bolt Drops Plane in Sea; Four Killed

LONDON, July 25. (AP)—A Berlin dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company reports that an airplane was struck by lightning today and four of its occupants were killed in the crash which followed. A fifth passenger was seriously injured.

The plane fell blazing into the North Sea near the Island of Juist, one of the Frisean group.

TOLL TAKER HOLDS HIS OWN ON DEATH CURVES

STATISTICIAN'S REPORT SHOWS FATALITIES IN STATE RUN SAME AVERAGE

SACRAMENTO, July 25. (AP)—Death watches the calendar and reaps his harvest in conformity with a clock-like schedule, says L. E. Ross, State Board of Health statistician. The annual death curves in California for the past ten years, Ross explains, exhibit virtually the same contours. The low point is in September and the peak of the curve is in January, with other dips and rises in between following virtually the same course year after year.

An interesting fact is that while such diseases as pneumonia, tuberculosis and scarlet fever claim their victims in conformity with the rise and fall of the annual death curve, certain other causes of death, such as typhoid fever and whooping cough, follow a diametrically opposite course, deaths from these diseases being most frequent when the aggregate death toll from all diseases is lowest.

WEST DECLARED COOLIDGE CAMP

Secretary Work Brings Word of Popularity

President's Achievements of High Repute Here

Tourist Travel Amazing to Federal Official

WASHINGTON, July 25. (AP)—Secretary Work is back from the West, painting a bright picture of conditions there and asserting there was "no wavering of the West in its support of the Coolidge administration."

"I found President Coolidge is stronger in the West today than he ever was," Mr. Work said. "His economy policies, which have resulted in heavy reductions in taxes during the last two years, have helped every man and woman in this section of the country."

The tariff also was mentioned by the Secretary as having aided western States in affording profitable markets and bringing "general prosperity in its wake." In Colorado, Montana and Wyoming, which he visited, Mr. Work said he found "no disaffection," and heard not a single complaint among the farmers against the Coolidge administration.

As to economic conditions, Mr. Work said, revision of national policies with respect to Federal reclamation had brought about an era of good feeling and prosperity for irrigation workers. The legislation adjusting payments on reclamation projects and the wiping off of millions charged on unproductive land, he said, had brought relief and in consequence a "new spirit of confidence."

Settlers have entered into cultivation of their farms with renewed vigor, he said, with indications of the largest crops on record and with prices satisfactory.

The Secretary said recommendations would be made to Congress for bringing up to date the public land laws.

Tourist travel in the West showed a great increase, he said, speaking of the greater number of visitors he had noted at Denver and in the national parks.

McCLUSKEY RETURNS TO STATE POST

Arizonan on Industrial Commission After Once Resigning

PHOENIX, July 25. (Exclusive)—An odd situation exists at the capital in that Henry S. McCluskey, who resigned as secretary to the Governor to take a $5000 job as member of the Industrial Commission and who then resigned from the commission when he was not elected its chairman, has returned from Los Angeles and again is back on the commission, apparently at least on the pay roll. Gov. Hunt seems to see nothing out of the way in this, stating that he had not accepted Mr. McCluskey's resignation and would hold it up until August 1. He also avers that he has not yet made up his mind whether or not he would accept the resignation. However, the apparent vacancy has stirred to action many union leaders, including some who have insisted that their cause has not had adequate representation on the commission. So there is no lack of applicants in the event that McCluskey goes out.

Mr. McCluskey, who has had experience in the journalistic field, might be drafted in another quarter. Democrats say that the administration is looking for a printing plant, for establishment of a daily organ in Phoenix, where it suffered a sad blow recently in the sudden insurgent attitude taken by the Gazette, when its editor, John H. Whyte, succeeded McCluskey as secretary to the Governor. In all Arizona, the Governor may depend upon the full support of only one daily paper, and he is reported to have had disagreed recently with its owner. The executive in his speeches always has minimised the influence of the press, but till now has had at least one Phoenix paper to support his cause.

GIFT TAX CHALLENGED

Former Mrs. Dodge Brings Suit To Test Law's Constitutionality

WASHINGTON, July 25. (Exclusive) Constitutionality of the gift tax is challenged in a case filed with the Board of Tax Appeals yesterday by attorneys for Mrs. Hugh Dillman, who, at the time of her marriage, a few months ago, was the widow of Horace E. Dodge, Detroit automobile manufacturer.

Mrs. Dillman appealed from a tax amounting to $35,848.98 assessed against her in connection with gifts made in 1924 to members of her family aggregating $587,482.95.

GOVERNORS TO MEET TODAY

More Than Score of Executives Will Attend Wyoming Conference on State Affairs

CHEYENNE (Wyo.) July 25. (AP)—The paramount problem of State government, State finance and States' rights will be thoroughly delved into by more than a score of governors at their twelfth annual conference which opens here today.

The governors, many of them accompanied by their personal and official families, arrived here today for the opening session at which time they will be officially welcomed to Wyoming by Nellie Taylee Ross, the first woman executive in the United States.

In addition to the governors themselves three others who were unable to attend sent their accredited representatives to the conference. These include Judge White, Phoenix, Ariz.; W. O. Hart of New Orleans, State Commissioner of Uniform Laws, and John A. Bennett, executive secretary to Gov. Pothier of Rhode Island.

The State executives will be accorded an impressive welcome tomorrow morning when they will ride through two lanes of Wyoming National Guard troopers, lining the streets leading from the downtown section to the State Capitol, where the sessions are to be held. Gov. Ross, as hostess to the governors, will deliver her address of welcome and the conference will plunge into the business at hand.

CHICAGO FETES GOVERNORS EN ROUTE

CHICAGO, July 25. (AP)—Four New England governors and Representatives of two other States of that section, en route to Cheyenne, Wyo., for the 1926 conference of governors, were entertained at a dinner here last night after which the governors made radio addresses broadcast by station WJJD. The party included Gov. and Mrs. Brewster of Maine, Gov. and Mrs. Winant of New Hampshire, Gov. and Mrs. Billings of Vermont, Gov. and Mrs. Trumbull of Connecticut and their daughters, Florence and Jean; Wellington Wells, president of the Massachusetts State Senate, and V. C. Bruce Wetmore of Boston, and Executive Secretary of Rhode Island John A. Bennett, and Mrs. Bennett.

HAWAII BOTANY GARDEN URGED

Expert Sees Chance for Great Experimental Work

Almost No Foodstuffs Native to Island

Territory Has Diversified Agriculture

HONOLULU (T. H.) July 25. (Exclusive)—Hawaii is the ideal situation for a botanical garden of international importance, says Willis T. Pope, expert horticulturist of the United States Department of Agriculture, who is stationed in Hawaii for Federal agricultural experiment work.

Mr. Pope is urging the establishment of such a garden in or near Honolulu, and points out that it can develop plants, flowers and trees that would be eagerly sought throughout the world.

Thanks to three generations of pioneers and nature-lovers who realized the value of rare fruits and plants, Hawaii has now one of the most diversified agricultures and horticultures in the world. But less than 200 years ago, the islands contained almost no flowers or fruits.

OVER BARREN ISLE

It is now generally conceded that the early Polynesians found almost no foodstuffs when they reached Hawaii on their wanderings in great warcanoes. The plentiful fruits and edible plants now in the islands represent continuous importations over many decades.

Even before the United States annexed Hawaii, there was well-organized importation of fruits, trees and flowers. In fact, the period from 1850 to 1900 was one of much activity on this line. Today, Hawaii's gardens contain specimens from almost every civilized country and from many wild parts of the earth. The palms, algarobas, monkey-pods, flower-trees; the orchids, hibiscus, cereus, oleander, and many of the ferns, grasses and creeping vines, were brought here from afar.

ALL FACTORS FAVOR

Soil, rainfall, sunshine, tradewinds and geographical location are favorable to the establishment of such a great international garden as Mr. Pope describes. He points out that such a garden would be not only of charm and material value to the people of Hawaii but an attraction to visitors.

On several private estates there are now wonderfully beautiful gardens, in which the plants, flowers and trees represent a score of countries. But recently the rapid growth of the city of Honolulu has made it necessary to destroy gardens that had taken half a century to develop. They are now in "town lots," their magnificent trees are cut down, their exotic plants uprooted.

Detain Farmer Pending Inquest in Wife's Death

OROVILLE, July 25. (AP)—J. M. Sutton, 55 years of age, well-known farmer of this section, was in custody today while authorities conducted an investigation into the death this morning of his 30-year-old wife, Rose. No charge has been placed against Sutton pending an inquest tomorrow.

Shortly after the pair returned from a dance early today, Sutton notified a neighbor that his wife had fainted. Examination proved she was dead. An autopsy revealed no signs of violence. The organs of the woman will be sent to San Francisco for examination.

F. H. Seeley, of Chicago and Philadelphia, the noted expert, will personally be at the Rosslyn Hotel, and will remain in Los Angeles this Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. Mr. Seeley says

"The Spermatic Shield will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in ten days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods—exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or incisional rupture (following operations,) especially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions.

CAUTION — All cases should be sustained against the use of any elastic or web truss with undertraps, as some rest where the lump is and not where the opening is, producing complications necessitating surgical operations. House Orators Who Didn't Get Say Fall Back on Costly Speeches to Phantom Chair

WASHINGTON, July 25. (Exclusive)—Silent oratory delivered to a phantom speaker's chair in the House after Congress had adjourned and printed at government expense in post editions of the Congressional Record cost the government $18,697 for printing alone for the ten-day period after Congress finished its labors, it was disclosed today.

A study of the ten final editions of the Congressional Record discloses that this bill was run up by ninety-seven members of the House who took advantage of the privilege of having unuttered speeches published in the record, although Congress had adjourned and the Speaker and membership had departed.

It would take a book to print the government's 1926 group of undelivered speeches in the House which were printed merely as "extension of remarks." The speeches and reports inserted during the progress of the session and printed in the final issues, would add thousands and thousands of dollars to the total.

OTHER ITEMS OF EXPENSE

The printing cost naturally is only one of the items of expense to the government as the $18,697 item does not take into account the cost of mailing, handling and the tremendous cost of franking copies of remarks made in the records to all parts of the country.

There are forty-nine Republicans, forty-five Democrats, two Farmer-Laborites and one Filipino national in the group contributing the silent oratory. The subjects discussed ranged from politics to poetry and from prohibition to radio.

Among the leaders in amounts scent were Representative Oldfield, Democrat, Arkansas, chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, with an expenditure of $1549; Representative Wood, Republican, Indiana, chairman of the Republican National Congressional Committee; Representative Yates, Republican, Illinois; Representative James, Republican, Michigan; Representative Upshaw, Democrat, Georgia, and Representative Tilson, Republican, Connecticut, Republican floor leader.

COSTLY ROLL CALLS

The unuttered effort of Mr. Oldfield was mainly a long list of roll calls in this and past congresses on prohibition, the tariff, agricultural relief, child labor, alien property, taxation, foreign debts, railroads and numerous other classes of legislation. It is safe to say that the printing of the names alone cost the government in excess of $1300. Mr. Oldfield also was broadcasting for the Democratic party. Addressing the empty chair of Speaker Longworth on the 16th inst., thirteen days after Congress adjourned—Representative Wood told the "phantom house" that the high tariff is a mighty good thing for the farmers. It cost the taxpayers of the United States $571 to print an unspoken oration in which the manager of the Republican congressional campaign warned the farmers to stand true to protection.

Mr. Upshaw, perhaps the most militant "bone drys" in Congress, talked about $50 worth of space in the issue on June 16, his subject being "the child and the motion picture." In the course of his silent broadcast he came out for regulation of the "motion picture trust." The cost for printing his remarks was $126.50.

Mrs. Florence Kahn, Republican, California, renders in the issue of the 12th inst., o fthe "phantom" record an account of her stewardship. Her contribution, which measures up 2226 in space, among other things asserts that "political apathy has been threatening to undermine our national institutions."

GOVERNMENT POST GIVEN TO WOMAN

Mrs. Cecil R. Chittenden

WASHINGTON, July 25. (Exclusive)—Mrs. Cecil R. Chittenden of Anderson, Ind., has just been appointed by Secretary of Labor Davis to the post of superintendent of the United States employment service. She succeeds R. M. Pilkington.

Mrs. Chittenden will handle during the present fiscal year more than 30,000 employment placements here. She is the second woman to hold such an important position.

Genius of Chicago Stage Retires After Sixty-Three Years' Labor

CHICAGO, July 25. (AP)—The trapdoor expert of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, the mechanical genius who nearly half a century has controlled the hydraulic contrivances which become towers, bowers and bridges, has quit. John Ambrose Bassett resigned yesterday with the simple statement that at the age of 74 years and after sixty-three years of work, he is tired. He is going to live with a son in Philadelphia.

STORM UNROOFS BUILDING

GILA BEND (Ariz.) July 25. (Exclusive)—Gila Bend was visited by a tornado that did damage to light structures. The roof of a pool hall was carried 150 feet, lodging against a store building and there breaking the leg of Ned Goodman. The storm, one of the worst known for years, appears to have been wholly local and accompanied by little rain.

IMPROVED ROAD METHODS CITED

Campaign Group Points to Richardson's Record

Governor Accredited With Wrecking Pork Barrel

Overhead in Handling Funds Cut to Minimum

SACRAMENTO, July 25 (Exclusive) California taxpayers and motorists are receiving more for their money than ever before in the construction of highways due to the business-like methods of Gov. Richardson as applied to the State Highway Commission, according to a statement issued today by the Richardson newspaper men's campaign committee.

Some of the results of the application of Gov. Richardson's program of economy and efficiency in the administration of the highway department are listed as follows:

Elimination of "pork-barrel" roads, improved highway construction, more effective repairs and upkeep of roads, a better understanding of public demands, business-like reorganization of all of the administrative branches of the work of the commission, decreased costs, and a well-planned program of highway construction to supplant hit-and-miss road building to satisfy the insistent demands of particular localities.

OVERHEAD REDUCED

"Such business-like methods," says the committee's statement, "have resulted during the past four years in reducing the proportion of overhead or the cost of administration of funds available for highway work, including new construction and repair, from 11.08 per cent during Stephens's administration to 9.69 per cent of the total during the administration of Gov. Richardson. During the three and one-half-year period since Gov. Richardson took office, the total State expenditures for highway work have been $56,082,000. For the corresponding period four years previous, only $38,376,000 was expended on State highways. The elimination of wasteful standards and practices in road building and the reduction of unproductive activities, together with careful attention to details of work and scientific practices, have resulted in a great saving to the State as well as more and better highways.

"The old pork-barrel method which formerly obtained in the allotting of funds which resulted in the sections where the politicians with the greatest influence resided getting new highways, while other sections were neglected, has been entirely eliminated. One of the early acts of the Richardson administration was a careful survey of the road situation of the State by the highway investigating committee. This resulted in a determination from a scientific and business-like point of view of the highway needs of California. The highway system was classified and reclassified so that there now exists complete information as to which are really important highways and which roads are secondary. The allotments for highway construction have been made accordingly.

BRANCHES REORGANIZED

"Standards of highway construction have been increased commensurate with the requirements of traffic as a result of scientific testing and research and a study of highway construction throughout the United States and also by taking advantage of the mistakes of the past. The thickness of pavement has been increased from four and five inches to a minimum of six inches and in sections of heavy travel construction of a still heavier nature has been done. Realizing that a showing in mileage of highway construction is not to be compared with better and more permanent highways, the commission standards call for increasing the width of highway construction. Instead of fifteen to eighteen-foot pavements, the present commission has adopted the width of twenty feet for two-way traffic. In grading work, widths much greater than those formerly used have been adopted. The standard width for a twenty-foot pavement is a thirty-foot grade, where formerly the standards were a fifteen-foot pavement and a twenty-one-foot width of grade.

"During Gov. Richardson's administration, practically all branches of the work of the commission have been reorganized. To obtain more specialization on the part of employees, the building of highways and accounts for expenditures have been organized into departments as follows. Service and plans, construction, maintenance, equipment, bridges, purchasing and accounting, each division being under the direction of a responsible and competent chief, the work of all departments moving forward in correlation but each functioning independently.

"In field work, it was found that some divisions were too large for one division organization to handle properly with the result that new divisions were organized; one at Sacramento, one at San Bernardino, and one at Bishop in Inyo county. Smaller field subdivisions make it possible for the division organization to know more thoroughly every foot of roadway and take care of its needs.

"New shops have been built, making the highway department independent of outside agencies in the matter of repairs of the trucks and automobiles and other implements used in the highway construction."

What the Red Seal Plan does

The Red Seal Plan was created to give the home builder a positive assurance that his home is adequately wired to meet definite standards of electrical convenience. This plan is backed by the Society for Electrical Development, and any home bearing the Red Seal bears the approval of the electrical interests of this community. Such a home is marked as a home of electrical refinement.

Who ever heard of a Red Seal?

ELECTRIC HOME

THE RED SEAL
The Symbol of Adequate Wiring. Copyright, 1926, by The Society for Electrical Development, Inc.

THERE'S nothing odd or strange about the Red Seal to thousands of folks whose homes have been wired to Red Seal standards.

For the Red Seal is to them the mark of the modern home—completely and properly wired to meet definite and desirable standards. These standards mean that you will have switches and convenience outlets where you need them—no more long unsightly extensions to clutter up the rooms.

Plenty of switches, properly placed—no more stumbling in the dark. Lighting fixtures that put the light just where you need it—no more reading or working in gloom and glare.

If you want to know anything about a Red Seal Home see your electrical contractor or get in touch with the local Electrical League.

CALIFORNIA AUTO TOLL RUNS HIGH

Nearly Seven Thousand in Half-Year Killed or Hurt; Marsh Urges Action

SACRAMENTO, July 25. (Exclusive) Automobile accidents, due principally to criminally reckless and drunken drivers, took a toll of 6981 persons killed or maimed in California during the first six months of the year, according to a semiannual statement issued today by Will H. Marsh, chief of the State Division of Motor Vehicles.

Marsh's statement reveals that 699 of those hurt in wrecks or who were hit-and-run victims died of their injuries, many of them having been instantly killed. More than fifty of the dead were victims of hit-and-run drivers.

"A veritable army of maimed and crippled," declares Marsh, "is shown to have been created by smash-ups, collisions and other accidents, most of which could have been avoided. Of the 6281 reported hurt, 1968 were classified as seriously injured, offering a glaring example of the need of a public awakening to the menace of careless driving.

"At least 90 per cent of these accidents were unnecessary. The big centers of population, as usual, showed the heaviest percentage of accidents. Los Angeles and San Francisco alone were credited with 159 deaths."

To relieve the water shortage at Schofield barrack, Hawaii, 14,000 troops have been ordered to summer camps.

Soviets Expel Zinovieff From Political Post

MOSCOW, July 24. (AP)—Gregory Zinovieff, soviet crusader in foreign fields, has been expelled fro mthe political bureau of the Central Executive Committee of the Communist party, perhaps the most important political organization of the whole soviet state.

M. Rudzutak, the soviet [illegible] for transport, has been chosen to Zinovieff's place.

Zinovieff is accused, as [illegible] of the Communist International, of sending out secret proclamations and other documents in code to [illegible] of various branches of the Communist party. It is charged this was done with a view to undermining the present central executive committee of the Communist party, of which M. Stalin is the dominant member.

JEWELS BASIS OF REVOLT FUND

Famous Turkish Gems Sold for $2,000,000

Sultan Once in Possession of Leaders Under Arrest

Government Fears Escape of Former Food Chief

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 25. (AP)—The famous Yildiz Palace jewels which were seized by the unionists after the fall of the late Sultan Abdul Hamid, who was deposed in 1909, formed the initial fund said to have been collected for the overthrow of the government of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, it was testified here.

The jewels, which were sold in Europe for $1,000,000, were in the possession of the political leaders who were under arrest at Angora charged with conspiracy against the government. Testimony concerning the fund was made by Dr. Nazim Bey during his examination before a special tribunal which is preparing the trial of more than 100 prisoners for alleged complicity in the plot against the life of President Mustapha Kemal. Dr. Nazim Bey was one of the leaders of the revolt against Abdul Hamid. (This same tribunal convicted and sentenced to death thirty prominent politicians last week. Many of those arrested in recent round-ups of those said to be involved in the plot against the life of President were ordered released.

News of the escape of Kara Kemal, war-time Food Minister, and Rauf Bey, former Governor of Angora, the government has issued a decree imposing the death penalty on those who protect them and offering handsome rewards to those denouncing their hiding places. Both men were condemned to death with the thirteen asserted plotters who were hanged at Smyrna. Kara Kemal is charged with being the ring leader of the unionists plan against the Kemalists.

WOMAN AND MAN JAILED AS FORGERS

Arrests Believed to End Mail Thefts Extending to All Large Cities

SPOKANE, July 25. (AP)—A twisting trail of forgeries covering most of the United States, was believed ended here with the imprisonment yesterday of Gladys L. Miller, 23 year of age, and news that her partner, Thomas McQueeney, had been arrested at Aberdeen, S. D., for Spokane postoffice inspectors. The man will be brought here, and the two are to face charges together. They are believed to be members of a gang.

The ring of asserted forgers is said to have operated in large cities, stealing letters from apartment houses to obtain signatures, which were imitated, and banking information on which to base its activities.

These operations are believed to have covered New York, San Francisco, Spokane, Los Angeles, Detroit, Portland, Aberdeen, S. D., and Butte, Mont.

The woman was picked up in New York where a Spokane postoffice official identified her.

STAGE SET FOR ORIENTAL MEET

First Pan-Asian Congress Convenes August 1

Program Includes Formation of Asiatic League

Leading Japanese Statesmen Take Active Part

TOKIO, July 25. (Exclusive)—On August 1, in Nagasaki, there will open the first Pan-Asian Congress, suggested by the Japanese and Indian delegates to the international labor conference in Geneva and espoused by patriotic organizations in virtually every Asian country. China will be represented by delegates sent from the League of Asiatic Races, with headquarters in Peking, while delegates from Turkey, Persia, India, Afghanistan, Ceylon, Burmah, the Philippines and Siam will be on hand to meet the delegates of Japan.

The greatest care has been taken to prevent the congress from becoming merely a gathering of revolutionary agitators and an avenue for the expression of anti white sentiments. Some of the leaders of Japan, such as Gen. Baron Tanaka, former Minister of War and now leader of the Opposition party in the Diet; Baron Den, former Governar-General of Formosa; Viscount Goto, former Mayor of Tokio, and others of equal prominence, are taking a hand.

The agenda will include a proposal for the establishment of a new league of Asiatic races, the revival of oriental civilization, the opening of main avenues of communication in Asia, the common existence and common interests of Asiatics and the part Asia must play in maintaining the peace of the world. Asia wants, it is said, something more concrete than is laid down in the covenant of the League of Nations.

CHINESE VIEW

What the radicals in China think about Japan's great activity over the Pan-Asiatic congress is set forth unmistakeably in the following editorial in a recent issue of the People's Tribune of Peking, the organ of the Chinese Nationalists, which says:

"Japanese politicians have been working energetically during the last year to press forward their scheme for the establishment of a so-called Asiatic League of Nations, the asserted purpose of which is to promote international friendship among the Asiatic nations, and arrangements have been made to hold a conference of the league in Nagasaki.

"The idea of forming such a league originated in Japan and it received a strong boost at the time Japan was made to suffer the humiliation of the passage of the United States immigration law prohibiting the immigration of Japanese into the United States and the passing of the anti-Japanese laws in California. Japan then posed as a martyr compelled to suffer the same indignities and disabilities to which the West subjected all the poor and down-trodden Asiatic peoples. Scorned by the West, Japan turned to her Asiatic sister nations to seek consolation in their common sorrow.

ROOM FOR LEAGUE

"Proud of her accomplishments in the western arts and her progressive departure from the barbarous customs of the East, Japan once looked down with no less contempt than the West upon her racial brothers. Now she is willing to place herself at the head of the long-suffering Orient and restore it to the splendor of its ancient past.

"This does not mean that there is no room for a League of Asiatic Nations. In so far as the East, for the most part, consists of the exploited colonies and subject territories of the imperialists, of nations struggling for their independence and of nations that have secured their independence and are fighting to preserve it—China, Korea, the Philippines, India, Egypt, Turkey, Morocco, Arabia and a host of others—a league of these nations might help. But there is no room for Japan in such a league."

SEQUOIA PARK PEAK NAMED FOR SCOUTS

THREE BOYS AND MOUNTAINEER FIRST TO SCALE 12,050 FOOT MOUNTAIN

SEQUOIA NATIONAL PARK HEADQUARTERS, July 25. (Exclusive) There is a newly named mountain in the Sequoia National Park. It is Eagle Scout Peak, believed to be the first mountain in America named after the Boy Scout organization. Rising 12,050 feet above sea level this mountain overlooks the Kern Canyon and the Kaweah River and had never been climbed until the 15th inst.

On that date three Eagle Scouts—Frederick Armstrong of Orange Cove, Coe Swift of Madera and Eugene Howell of Dinuba—followed that well-known Sierran mountaineer, Francis P. Farquhar, to the summit of the unnamed peak. As no evidence of previous ascent was found and the peak is unnamed on United States Geographical Society maps, it was christened by the sweat of the three Eagle Scouts and now it has been officially given the name of that organization which is doing so much for the boyhood of America.

The officers of the Sequoia National Park are proud that almost the first action taken in the enlarged park area is the designation of this mountain as Eagle Scout Peak.

On the 19th inst., Emil Gundelfinger of Fresno, President of the Sequoia Council of Boy Scouts of America, returned with his party of sixteen Eagle Scouts from a two-weeks' camping trip in the high Sierras. The trip was organized by Mr. Gundelfinger as the initial step in educating the Boy Scouts in the arts of camping, climbing, trail-finding, and in the natural history of our mountains.

SORCERY CHARGED IN DOUBLE INSANITY CASE

PARIS, July 24. (Exclusive) — A strange affair in which "sorcery" plays an important role in being investigated in the village of Htblainville. The son of a wealthy family become insane while serving in the army at Sarrebourg and was removed to an asylum near Nancy. The mother, in turn, became mad after a visit to her son. Believing that a neighbor was practicing sorcery over his family the father sprinkled holy water on him while chanting songs to appease satan. The neighbor, however, brought a complaint against the father.

Peteet Case in Tia Juana Set for Tomorrow

Trial of the four men held as a result of the suicide last February of Thomas Peteet, his wife and daughters, Audrey and Clyde, will begin tomorrow at 11 a.m. at Tia Juana. The Peteet family chose death in their little San Diego cottage after the girls had been attacked while on a visit to the Mexican town. The defendants are former Chief of Police Llanos of Tia Juana, Luis Amador, saloon-keeper; Francisco Gonzales, former policeman, and Refugio Alvarez, a bartender. The trial will be before Judge Urias and a jury of nine Mexican men.

The cause of the suicides was revealed in a note left by Peteet which caused a thorough investigation, a clamping of the border lid and a wave of indignation throughout the country.

Bandit Charges Unite Brothers in Courtroom

NEW YORK, July 25. (Exclusive)—Two brothers failed to return to their East Side home Saturday night, but they were reunited much to their chagrin, when they were arraigned in Harlem Court today on different charges of robbery.

Patrick Carroll, 27 years of age, went his way, being captured after a gun chase. Police say he had held up a cigar store clerk for $27. His brother, James, 21, was arrested after he clubbed Peter Bauer, another East Sider, and relieved him of 60 cents.

Magistrate McQuade ordered Patrick held under $5000 bail and his brother under $3000.

THEOSOPHISTS ASSEMBLE

OMMEN (Holland) July 25. (AP)—About 2000 theosophists have arrived here and at the township of Overijsel in preparation for the opening of the international congress of the Star of the East, scheduled for Tuesday.

Joyce Hawley Denies Making Try at Suicide

CHICAGO, July 25. (AP)—Recovering from an overdose of a sleeping potion in the County Hospital tonight, Joyce Hawley, "the bathtub girl," protested vehemently that she had no intention of committing suicide when she took the medicine last night in her hotel room.

She was discharged a week ago from her cabaret job in Morton Grove, a suburb, when village officials protested to the tavern keeper, and tonight Joyce admitted she was flat broke "but scared to die." Her dismissal resulted from publicity over her recent arrest for disregarding traffic signals and "sassing" the police.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Daugelas, went to the hospital to see her, but her father declared Joyce's present predicament seemed to him "another advertising stunt."

Dan Parker Scores a Knockout—
at a Price so low that it Positively Demands Attention!

Gentlemen: This is no time for embroidered language. Without going into fiction for reasons or making blatant, silly excuses, every man in the tailoring business with any horse sense knows that conditions in our line for more than six months have been desperately unsettled. A mere casual examination of the Board of Trade records of what has happened in Los Angeles on one street alone in the period mentioned, tells a woefully convincing story.

I neither assert nor believe that the FACTS should be as they are, but I have followed the tailoring game too long to stand around talking politics or discussing ancient history when my splendid organization should be busy every minute tailoring clothes for the discriminating men of the city. So, until the present clouds on the business horizon lift, I will forget all about the profit end of my big UPSTAIRS shop—keep my men working full time—and VERY CONFIDENTLY await the unprecedented prosperity that the basic conditions of this great country of ours guarantee is just ahead.

Gentlemen: Some one has said that a man who calls a spade a spade should be made to use one. So be it! In this announcement I have gotten right down to brass tacks; I have told you the whole story clean and straight—without reservation, over-emphasis or bunk of any kind. I am ready to stand or fall upon its merit.

My economical policy, honestly conceived and faithfully carried out, makes it possible for me REGULARLY to deliver distinctive tailoring at much lower prices than if I were subject to ordinary conditions. My shop is UPSTAIRS—my rent is practically nothing, and my ENTIRE overhead expense amounts to only a fraction of the cost of conducting any conventional tailoring establishment.

These advantages constitute my main stock and trade—they give me the edge on my competitors in producing COMPELLING values for you. BUT—all of my advantages rolled together avail me nothing unless I can command a VOLUME BUSINESS. This is the justification of the drastic and unheard-of action I am taking at this crucial time. It is not a matter of choice—I have simply got to keep my shop going full steam ahead or in the end I'll lose more than my present sacrifice of all profits will represent.

And, in closing, I hope no man thinks I am boob enough to make this announcement in The Times unless I am prepared and determined to make good on a full 100% basis!

Positive $50 and $60 values!

Gentlemen: My challenge to you today proves that I mean business—that I am neither bluffing nor piking—and, as you probably have already learned, my REPUTATION is the most positive assurance possible that I will come clean. DON'T BE AFRAID, THEREFORE, BECAUSE MY PRICE IS LOW! There is REAL quality behind it and I am here to back up that quality with every atom of a crystal-clear CHARACTER that has cost me twenty years of unfailing courage to establish. Forget the low price of $28.00! Judge the suit of clothes I make for you at the REGULAR price—and if you are not absolutely SOLD on that basis, I don't want your money!

POINCARE FACES APPALLING TASK

Premier and Ministry Must Raise Staggering Sum

Moratorium, Funding, Pledging Taxes, All Rejected

Europe's Hatred Salvation of America, Says Johnson

PARIS, July 25. (AP) — Premier Poincare is faced with the herculean task of raising from 4,000,000,000 to 5,000,000,000,000 francs within the next thirty days. He met his ministers in Cabinet council today to talk it over.

The Premier's plans have not yet been divulged, but one thing appears certain, "France must consent to renewed financial sacrifices."

M Poincare made no secret of his opposition to foreign credits, if they can be avoided, and admitted that the situation of the treasury as drawn by M. Demonzie, the Finance Minister, Wednesday, was only a pale reflection of the actual state of affairs.

MEASURES REJECTED

The ministers deferred announcing what they intended to do in the way of financial redemption of the franc, but discussed among themselves several important points—first, no moratorium for national defense or short-term treasury bonds; second, no funding; third, no advance from the Bank of France on the 1926 taxes.

The financial projects will not be definitely drafted until Tuesday morning and will be referred to the Finance Committee immediately after their introduction in the Chamber on that day. M. Poincare will urge that they must be voted before August 8.

An increase in taxes, both direct and indirect, and a forced loan are regarded as forming the basis of the new government's plans. It is known that the question of a forced loan was discussed at the Cabinet council today, but its application appears difficult; many of the ministers pointed out that experiences along this line attempted by other countries were very discouraging.

OBLIGATIONS HEAVY

The payments which the Poincare ministry must meet before August 25 are very heavy. They include 500,000,000 francs July 31 for salaries of state employes; 63,000,000 francs interest on treasury bonds on August 15, and on August 16, 235,000,000 francs interest on 5 per cent rentes. Ten million dollars is due the United States on August 1, and £3,000,000 is due Great Britain on August 18 and 25. The Cabinet is convinced that the payments falling due within a month can be met without further inflation.

Special inducements will be extended to taxpayers settling their 1926 taxes before the lapse of sixty days.

The entire French press comments at length on the expressions of satisfaction with which the new Cabinet has been received by the United States, Great Britain, Italy, Spain and Germany.

JOHNSON WOULD CANCEL WORLD COURT PROPOSAL

WASHINGTON, July 25. (AP)—Europe is "united in but one thing—hatred of the United States," Senator Johnson, Republican, California, declared in a statement today, urging that "without delay we withdraw our proposal for entry into the World Court."

Despite this "hatred of the United States," which the Senator laid to the debt question, he declared a "part of our citizenship is so blind and so weak and flabby that they would take this hatred creditor nation into the World Court dominated by its hating debtors."

"SAVED BY ENEMIES"

"It comes to us from various sources that our reservations will be accepted by no great nations of Europe, but three small nations have acquiesced in them. We may be saved from ourselves by those who hate us most; but it would be infinitely better, with the knowledge existing in the State Department today, and with the knowledge that has been conveyed to our people by the daily news dispatches, that, without delay, we withdraw our proposal for entry."

"The greatest of the English newspapers," he continued, "are denouncing us without stint; the French press is ablaze in its bitterness against us; the Italian papers emulate those of other countries in applying opprobrious epithets to us. One of them shrieks at us:

"'But there is one thing to be remembered outside of Europe in the world, there is Asia—and in Asia there is Japan.'

"Well-dressed crowds of Frenchmen in the streets of Paris hiss and hoot and mob Americans.

POTENTIAL TROUBLE

"In our leading international newspaper, the New York Times, we read today from its Paris correspondent, who always voices the foreign view, that what is occurring has the potentiality of trouble.

"The United States is the pariah among nations; openly accused of being a money-bag and a Shylock; hated and despised by all, and apparently the cause of it all is because the United States is seeking to collect a portion, and only a small portion, of the promissory notes given to the United States by foreign nations.

"We have just learned from Mr. Mellon for the first time that in the case of Italy we forgave all the money we loaned during the war and collected but half of that loaned after the war, and we learned this despite the fact that until now Mr. Mellon and his spokesmen in and out of the Congress insisted we were collecting every dollar of the principal due us."

COUNCIL TO HEAR NEW ORDINANCES ON DOGS

The City Council is scheduled to give hearings this morning on two proposed ordinances for the control of dogs in Los Angeles. One ordinance provides that dogs must be kept on the owners' premises or on leash, and the other gives authority to the health department to order dogs in districts where rabies has been discovered to be either restrained on the premises or to be treated with antirabies serum.

COMMONS TO HONOR SHAW

British House of Parliament Will Tender Author Dinner on Birthday Anniversary Today

LONDON, July 25. (AP)—George Bernard Shaw, who will be 70 years of age tomorrow—and is as shavian as ever—will be the honored guest at a dinner in the House of Commons. It was proposed that Shaw's birthday speech be broadcast, but the British Broadcasting Company, which is something of a government monopoly, undertook to extract a pledge from him not to make controversial utterances. He declined any such pledge, so the speech will not be broadcast.

But the public is awaiting with even more interest than otherwise what G. B. S. will say. One phase of his career which is never dull is joshing the English in particular and the world in general—making them like it and paying him handsomely for his banter and repartee.

The newspapers are filled with columns of adulation and critical analysis of Shaw's remarkable personality and genius, with many tributes from abroad, especially American and Continental.

SPECIAL NUMBERS ISSUED

German and Dutch journals have issued special Shaw numbers, while a bulky, handsimely-bound volume delivered at the famous Shaw flat in Adelphia Terrace contained greetings of 100 eminent German statesmen, authors, musicians, actors and critics, including Dr. Stresemann, the Foreign Minister; Professor Einstein of relativity fame, and Richard Strauss, the musician.

Although the fire of his Celtic genius still blazes with all the vividness of youth, as proved by the general acceptance of his most recent play, "Saint Joan," as his best, there is a great change in the personal appearance of the man who will sit at the festive board, presided over by former Premier Ramsay MacDonald, with intellectuals, distinguished government officials and famous literary lights ranged along the table.

The flood of years has mellowed the stormy, scornful young Irish iconoclast of the eighties and nineties with his bristling red beard waving defiantly like a red flag into a benign elderly gentleman, whose white whiskers and benevolent mien would get him a job as Santa Claus at anybody's Christmas party.

RETAINS HIS VIGOR

Aside from these changes, Bernard Shaw is as youthful as ever, is as erect and trim as a college athlete and is still adhering to his creed of being plunged to the neck in the life of his time. He strides along the Strand on early morning constitutionals with all the sprightliness of forty years ago.

The dinner in his honor will be one of postprandial brilliance. One of George Bernard Shaw's accomplishments is that he is as remarkable an after-dinner speaker as he is a dramatist and satirist.

Almost unbelievable financial offers have been made by American lecture managers to induce him to tour the United States, but without success, largely because, he says, the enormous sums offered indicate that if the managers were to get their money back he would have to speak to immense audiences in large halls and that would be no fun.

So, G. B. S. contents himself to remain in the heart of busy London and watch the stream of life pass his doorstep, and collect the stream of royalty checks that pours in from all corners of the world from his literary output. He is probably the richest literary craftsman alive. Recently he gave £5000 to a theater project, and loaned £30,000 to a provincial municipality on the advice of his friend, Sidney Webb.

COLLECTS HIGH TOLL

Even newspapers interviewers pay toll to Bernard Shaw. Every young reporter who comes to London from the provinces or abroad assaults the iron-barred entrance to Shaw's Adelphia Terrace flat for the Sage's latest views on the topics of the day. They rarely get beyond the outer portal, although a young American climbed over the iron grill recently and explored the innermost corners of the apartment before quitting.

The more common method of obtaining interviews with G. B. S. is to write a list of questions and submit it for answers, and Shaw writes his professional fee after each, something as follows:

"On women, £100.

"Views of Ireland, £50.

"Views on America, £500.

"On the British government, 10 shillings," or if the Sage is in a particularly generous mood, "gratis."

PLANE FRIGHTENS SAVAGES

Lives of Americans in Dutch New Guinea Often Periled in Cannibal Country

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25. (AP)—That the American-Dutch expedition into Dutch New Guinea was not without its thrills was indicated by advices received today from members of the party. Much of the exploration work, as was contemplated, was done by airplane, flying over mountain land and jungle in which a chance landing would have involved serious if not disastrous consequences due to the impenetrable nature of the undergrowth, swamp lands, the hostility of the uncivilized tribesmen and poisonous character of plant and insect life.

Returning from one flight into the interior the airplane was found to contain only three quarts of gasoline.

The party that left here under the leadership of Prof. M. W. Stirling of Berkeley, and later reorganized under Dutch leadership, took many photographs of the interior of the island which for centuries virtually was unexplored by white men. Lakes and many native villages were discovered and the scientists had an opportunity to study at first hand cannibalistic tribes and the wild country they inhabit.

The first glimpse at an airplane evoked the displeasure of the natives, Prof. Stirling said, while they did not come close to it when he made his first landing in the interior, he heard what at first he took to be bird calls, but later developed to be natives talking.

Returning later to the airplane Prof. Stirling and Pilot Hoyte saw a half-dozen canoes loaded with naked savages who were shouting and showing displeasure. When flyers took to the air the natives shouted and gesticulated, but as the plane soared upward were seized by fright and scurried into the brush.

ESPEE LINE'S OPENING TO BE MARKED

Los Angeles and El Paso Trade Bodies Planning Special Trains

PHOENIX, July 25. (Exclusive)—Plans are being made by the Phoenix Chamber of Commerce for a great celebration on the date of arrival of the first transcontinental train over the new Phoenix main line of the Southern Pacific system. The chairman will be Harry B. Wilkinson, who for years was president of the organization working for this main line service which was at first expected by a combination of the El Paso and Southwestern and Rock Island roads. President Coolidge is to be brought into the demonstration, it being suggested that the orders for the first diverting train be received from him.

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the El Paso Chamber of Commerce each will send a solid Pullman train, according to advices received by H. B. Watkins, executive officer of the local organization, and a trainload of executive officers of the Southern Pacific and allied rail corporations is expected. A great industrial exposition will be conducted showing products of the State.

No date yet has been set for the diversion of the first through trains, but it is expected to be in November, about the time of the State Fair and of the pageant at Casa Grande ruins. Construction work costing $15,000,000 now is being completed through Phoenix.

COLORADO RIVER FLOW LARGER THAN USUAL

YUMA (Ariz.) July 25. (Exclusive) Fully 10,000 added second feet of water is coming down the Colorado, according to upstream reports, supplemental to a flow that has been running about 24,000 second feet at this point. Statement is made that rains in Colorado have found much unmelted snow and there is expectation that the welcome flood will continue for weeks, assuring ample supplies for the canals of the Imperial and Yuma valleys. Preparation had been started at Andrade for the usual construction of a summer weir, to drain the river, but this will not be needed for some time to come.

The Tearful Cook

The young husband had arrived home to find his wife in tears.

"Whatever is the matter, darling?" he inquired.

"Oh, dearest," she sobbed, "I've worked hard all the afternoon making custards, because you are so fond of them, and—they've turned out to be sponge cakes!"—[Exchange.

TESTIMONY OF MARVIN CASE AIRED

Seven Tucson Ministers Say Charges Not Answered Satisfactorily

TUCSON (Ariz.) July 25. (Exclusive) The Tucson Ministerial Association is continuing its fight on President H. C. Marvin of the University of Arizona and is publishing a transcript of the evidence at the hearings conducted before the University Board of Regents. Statement is made by seven of the association members that, "While, perhaps, it may be true that not all the charges have been sustained, yet we hold that it is true that a mass of evidence against Dr. Marvin has been produced which has not been satisfactorily answered. The members of the university faculty who testified against Dr. Marvin did so at the risk of their positions and their academic future. This action called for a high type of moral courage. The people of Arizona should be grateful to them for their fine courage and moral daring. Courage in the face of extreme odds is all too scarce in our generation. We respectfully, but urgently, call upon the Governor and the Board of Regents to take immediate action in the case, which now has been brought to a deadlock by a tie vote upon the question of Dr. Marvin's retention. The long delay upon the part of the Board of Regents in settling this whole matter has been damaging to both the university and the community. According ostre cnte(dgramdts-Cgee According to a recent announcement of the president of the board, E. E. Ellingwood, there will not be another meeting until September 13."

The transcript carries charges especially against the veracity of President Marvin.

Several of the professors said to be slated for dismissal in the event Dr. Marvin is finally sustained are close to Gov. Hunt and it is expected that he will take up their cause. The date set follows the primary election at which Regents Hunt, Ellingwood and Case are candidates.

CONDITIONS IN COTTON UNCERTAIN

Critical Period for Crop; Weather Important Factor in Market

NEW YORK, July 25. (Exclusive)—The market was strong during the early part of the week, advancing about 52 points on October contracts and 40 on the latter months from the low levels made in Monday's decline, with October going up to 17.60c on this rise by Thursday morning, December 17.49c; January 17.51c; March 17.68c; and May 17.78c. Most of this rise was due to covering of shorts on some bullish private crop reports lowering the condition of the crop from the 75.4 per cent to June 25 last, and also the indicated yield to about 15,000,000 bales from the last government crop estimate of 15,633,000 bales. Most of these less favorable crop reports were based on too much rain in the Central States and Texas and the spread of damage by both boll weevil and the new pest—the hopper lice.

When the government crop report came out yesterday there was a setback in the market of 30 to 35 points from the high prices mentioned above due to profit taking and Southern selling, bringing the market back to within 10 points on the average of the low levels of Monday. There was a sharp upturn toward the close Friday, however, on some new trade buying and more covering of shorts on reports of further undesired rains in the Central States of the belt and Texas, to make it appear the actual condition of the crop and the indicated yield was not as good today as the government report's figures indicate, as they were compiled the 16th inst. The market accordingly closed firm on this rally with October back to 17.51c, December 17.41c; January 17.47; March 17.64c and May 17.82c, or within 5 to 10 points of the high prices of the week.

It is now considered largely a weather trading market of a most uncertain character. The crop is now entering the most critical period of the season and it will be determined mostly by the character of the weather from now on during the next six weeks.

It is very susceptible to heavy damage at present from both the spread of the boll weevil and the hopper lice in the Central States and Texas from too much rain there during the last three weeks—a most unusual thing for the month of July. The development of the crop in the East Gulf and Atlantic States has also been very irregular from the uneven distribution of the proper rainfall over that area. Therefore, the daily weather conditions and forecasts should be very closely watched from now on as furnishing the best line to the actual crop conditions and the prospective future course of prices, rather than the, bearishness of old crop supplies or placing too much reliance in the government's crop report of Friday.

The government's report makes the condition on the 16th inst. 70.7 per cent, against 73.4 on June 25, last, and 70.4 on July 16, 1925. It makes the present crop promise on that condition percentage as good as 15,368,000 bales of the gross weight of 500 pounds, without linters. The larger indicated crop than what the trade had been expecting on the government's figures as contrasted with the average of 15,000,000 to 15,200,000 on the private forecasts is undoubtedly due to the record-breaking acreage of 48,896,000 acres under cultivation this season, against 48,080,000 the previous record of last year, and which was estimated in the July report of the agricultural bureau last year to have been only 44,600,000 acres.

A crop of more than 15,000,000 bales would be larger than the world's trade requirements after the big crop of last season, with its large surplus left to be carried over into the new crop statistical year beginning August 1, next, it would be really a beneficial thing for both the stabilization of cotton-goods prices and the cotton staple if something should happen in the ensuing month to further reduce the prospective yield to the neighborhood of around 14,000,000 bales, without linters, as there would be too much cotton for the world's spinners to absorb through the last half of this year and the first half of 1927 if this season's crop should turn out a yield much over 15,000,000 bales.

Pacific Southwest REVIEW

THE Pacific Coast, and more particularly that territory which is served by the Los Angeles Harbor, is enjoying a steady growth in the greatly diversified field of trade with foreign countries, according to F. H. [illegible], Manager of the Foreign Department of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank, which with the Foreign Departments of its affiliated institutions, The First National Bank of Los Angeles, is handling the financial end of a vast amount of business with other nations daily.

"This is evidenced by the export and import transactions passing through the Los Angeles Harbor, which, in addition to the outstanding commodities, is extremely varied and miscellaneous in character," says Mr. [illegible].

* * * *

"In the field of exports, Mr. [illegible] says:

"Oil is exported by the bigger companies in their own tankers. The smaller independent companies make individual sales of gasoline, oil, paraffine and lubricating oils by the case. We are often called upon to handle business in connection with these exports.

"Most of our canned fruit goes out through San Francisco, but the citrus crop is largely sold direct to domestic markets. Quite a number of oranges go to Canada during the shipping season, as well as other produce.

"Speaking generally, our manufacturing plants do not cater to the export trade. However, the big drug companies, biscuit manufacturers and iron and machinery works do sell abroad [illegible], I believe, principally in Japan.

"Taking out a few miscellaneous shipments at random, I find agricultural implements going to New Zealand, seeds to Canada, preserved fruits, tires and automobile accessories to Hawaii, spotlights to Porto Rico, canned fruit to the Argentine, rubber stamps to Mexico.

"Among the imports, lumber is no doubt the outstanding classification. However, coffee, rubber, copra and cocoanut oil all are quite important.

"While some coffee, and rubber are imported direct by Los Angeles dealers, many of these shipments are financed through San Francisco and New York. Purchases are frequently made through Brokers or Agencies in those cities. The Pacific-Southwest Bank has handled documents under rubber credits established by New York banks, and, on one occasion, a large shipment was distributed all along the Pacific Coast from Portland down.

"Cement and steel have been imported from Europe; plate and window glass from Belgium; several universities and book stores here import books directly from abroad, and pottery clay is brought in, largely from England.

"Concentrated lime juice is shipped in from the British West Indies to make Citrate of Lime. Shipment is generally made to New York via the Quebec Steamship Line and trans-shipment is made from there on American-Hawaiian vessels.

"Strange as it may seem, a good deal of fish comes into this port. Usually it is salted, canned or in paste form, from Scandinavian countries, but shipments of fresh fish from abroad have been handled through our Foreign Departments.

"Miscellaneous commodities which come in more or less frequently are Oriental manufactured articles such as silk, china and wicker wares; dates from Persia; hemp, animal skins from Russia; brass wire from Germany; clothing, haberdashery, drugs and novelties from England, France and Italy. A Southern California cemetery ships in a great deal of statuary and another of our clients imports tile from Morocco.

* * * *

"These are simply a few of the many interesting items that are part of the day's work' in the Foreign Departments of the First National-Pacific-Southwest Banking Group. These departments are completely equipped in organization, experience and world-wide contacts to assist in any foreign trade problem.

BAR IN ENGLAND FOUGHT REFORM

Legal Profession at First Derided Criticism

War Against Lawyers Began About 1828

Barristers Finally Aided With Changes

This is the second article of a series by Prof. Edson R. Sutherland of the law school of the University of Michigan, in which he portrays the century of struggle through which the English public obtained their present system for the administration of justice, and describes the remarkable efficiency of that system. In today's installment he shows how the legal journals at first opposed all reform in the law, but finally became convinced that the legal profession would be crushed if it did not surrender to the demands of the public.

From the side of the legal profession the struggle may be followed through the pages of the law journals. The Law Magazine was founded in 1828, as a defensive measure for rallying the bar against the impending storm. The leading article in its first number was a brazen and indiscriminating panegyric of common law pleading, in which the criticisms of James Mill and the Westminster reviewers were referred to as "such tribadery" that there was "no manner of reply which well-bred persons can employ." (1 Law Mag. 2.) The Legal Observer, established in 1830, and the Jurist, in 1837, joined forces with the Law Magazine in defense of the traditional privileges of the bar. None of them at first realized the extent of the popular revolt nor the intensity of public feeling, and were inclined to treat the matter rather cavalierly. Annoyance over the impudence of lay criticism gradually changed to resentment as the attacks on the profession increased in frequency and bitterness, and this in turn gave place to serious apprehension and alarm. Even the lord chancellor seemed to have deserted the profession and gone over to the enemy. (7 Leg. Obs. 321.)

THE WAR AGAINST LAWYERS

In 1843 the Law Times was organized as a new ally of the hard-pressed forces of the bar. Its first editorial revealed the situation and defined the issue. It was entitled "The War Against the Lawyers," and was a rallying cry to the profession to awake to the dangers which pressed on every hand. The emoluments of the bar were seriously threatened, and energetic means of resistance must be promptly devised. (1 Law Times, 15.) Other appeals followed, in which the two branches of the profession were besought to forget their fancied differences, for, said the Law Times, "surely lawyers have enough to do to repel the attacks of the common enemy, without turning their fratricidal hands against each other." (Same, 65.)

The defensive campaign was not an impressive exhibition of good strategy. But the position occupied by the profession was intrinsically very weak—much weaker, indeed, than most of its members were possibly able to understand. Many of the arguments advanced to meet the broad grounds of public complaint were striking instances of the unintelligent rationalizing by which instinctive or inherited prejudices are given a formal justification.

DEFENDS DILATORY PROCEDURE

Perhaps the greatest scandal in the whole judicial system was the dilatory procedure of the Court of Chancery, yet the Legal Observer dispersed of it with a wave of its wand. "For the last 250 years," it said, "the complaints against the present system have been continual and unvaried," yet "the Court of Chancery and its machinery . . . has remained nearly the same in every particular. It is obvious, therefore, that . . . the supposed evils . . . can not, after all, have been very enormous, or they would not have been thus endured." (2 Leg. Obs., 401.) The delays in the queen's bench were shown to be a blessing in disguise. "What an incalculable benefit it is," says the Jurist, "that in the length of time which must elapse before a cause can be decided in that court, passions have time to cool, the angry feeling that prompts to litigation may subside, and if there are some obstinate spirits who are disposed to fight to the last, their ability to carry on the warfare is put an end to by the ruinous expense of the long protracted contest." (2 Jurist 73.)

MORE JUDGES, USUAL REMEDY

Such reasoning was worse than useless, and only demonstrated the bankrupt state of the profession as a social force. Hardly less pathetic was the argument for more judges. This was the standard solution for every judicial emergency, and was one which lawyers could always suggest with sincerity and contemplate with equanimity, for its required no change whatever in familiar practices and offered the additional attraction of more judicial appointments. But the British public, with its strong business sense, refused to believe the true remedy for defective machinery was the employment of more engineers to keep it going.

Reforms came gradually, by means of an incredible number of small bills and amendments, which not only familiarized the profession with new ideas during the slow course of the debates, but introduced actual changes at so moderate a rate that the bar became reconciled to one reform before the next was forced upon it.

PRESS ENTERS FIGHT

There still remained the problem of publicity, and this was met by the centralised London press. The journalistic activity of England was concentrated in London, and with a few conspicuous exceptions, like the Edinburgh Review, English public opinion found its entire expression in the London newspapers and magazines. There was no other bar but the London bar to compete for the public attention; there were no other courts but the London courts to share the public interest, and there was no other press but the London press to discuss and criticise and condemn the administration of justice.

BILL PASSES

As demands for reform spread and their ultimate success became clear to the profession, self-interest urged participation in framing the rules for their operation. After all, the lawyers would have to use them, and no one would suffer so much as they from a crude and unworkable procedure. The line of resistance, therefore, varied. A few reforms, which might be defeated were to be fought to a finish; those which were inevitable were to be brought under professional direction and control. Co-operation thus became a more effective method of self-protection than opposition. In 1830 the House of Commons passed the second reading of the county courts extension bill with a staggering majority. It was an unexpected blow to the bar. But the jurist said: "What is it that . . . the lawyers are afraid of? . . . We will answer for them. They are afraid of a legal revolution, and, without power to avert it, they are letting the conduct of it slip from theirs into other hands. . . . To sustain the actual (present) system . . . is impossible. To remodel it . . . may be possible, if the profession will stand forward to lead, not to obstruct, the reform." (14 Jurist, pt., 117.)

LAWYERS FORCED TO LEAD

The advice that it was better to lead than to obstruct the popular movement for reform represented the best opinion of a profession which had known nothing but defeat for a generation. In following it the lawyers were only submitting to the fundamental laws of social adjustment. As a result they presently found themselves enlisted with the reformers, presenting conservative views with which to temper the enthusiasm of the public, and supplying the technical skill necessary for the design of suitable remedial processes. It therefore happened that when the final major campaign opened over the Judicature Act, the belligerent parties discovered that the war was really over. The issues had been fought out, and a sound basis for a mutual understanding was already at hand. The Judicature acts and the rules prepared under their authority codified the results achieved through the years of struggle for reform, and gave the administration of the law a new status and a new spirit. The people had taught the profession that its primary duty was public service, and the profession had convinced the people that it could meet the public demands.

There were three elements in the English situation which determined the course of the reform movement. They were the centralized bar, the centralized courts, and the centralized press.

CENTER ON INNS OF COURT

The bar was not only concentrated in London but was further localized in the inns of court. It was a definite, tangible institution, heir of ancient tradition, and tenant of vast estates. Its members were not a mere aggregate of individuals, but an organized group, with a well-defined social and political status. The administration of justice had for generations been committed to its care, and everyone knew it. All the conditions, therefore, existed for focusing public attention upon the bar as the visible cause of the abuses in legal procedure.

But the abuses themselves required the emphasis of centralized aggregation to make them appeal to the imagination of the lay public. Popular opinion does not search far and generalize easily. Widely scattered courts might exhibit many judicial shortcomings without attracting public attention, but if all the defects were concentrated in one court or one closely affiliated group of courts, so that they could be seen and felt in all their cumulative magnitude, the situation would present dramatic possibilities. So it was with the superior courts of law and chancery in London. They were collectively chargeable with all the judicial mismanagement of the kingdom and the aggregate of instances, when marshaled against them, made a most formidable indictment.

The striking feature of English reform was not the results accomplished wonderful as tehy were, but the fact that legal procedure was brought under public, not professional regulation. A definite and intelligent public opinion was developed as to the means and methods of judicial administration. Early in the struggle it became perfectly clear that delegation of the control of procedural technique to the legal profession was a policy which was socially unsound. "Improvements in it [procedure]," says a writer in 1843, "never can be possibility be effected, till definite opinions as to its real defects and the true modes of cure, shall prevail among those not in the profession of the law. As a science it is nearly where it was in the dark ages. . . . The mental accumulations which are the skill of the judge and the lawyers in their art, are heaps of prejudices, things prejudged, and stumbling blocks, when they begin to investigate procedure as a science. . . . We want, therefore, men of business, men of the world, and men accustomed to broad scientific researches, associated with lawyers in this work." (38 Westminster Rev., 107-120.)

"THE TIMES" ACTS

The Times repeatedly pointed out the same limitation as a fact to be constantly remembered by the public. Thus in 1851, it wrote: "There would seem to be something in the profession of the law which blinds its votaries to the defects of any system which they are called upon to administer. . . . The example of their fathers, the tone of the treatises from which their knowledge is derived, the authority of the judges, the very atmosphere in which they practice—all are calculated to withdraw the minds of lawyers from any endeavor to reform the law." (London Times, editorial, July 19, 1851.)

And the Edinburgh Review reminded its readers that the unanimous disapproval of the judges of proposed measures for reform should not be taken too seriously, because of "the direct interest which each of them must have in preserving the law . . . in its present state," an interest which inevitably blinded them to the needs of the public, for "there is no task so repulsive as that of unlearning in old age the lessons of our youth." (99 Edinburgh Rev., 574.)

MISTRUST OF LAWYERS GROW

Such views, which were widely held and frequently expressed, particularly exasperated the profession, and called forth the most sarcastic and cynical replies .(1 Law Mag., 949.) But the course of events indicated that the public was serious in its belief that reform of the law could not be safely left to lawyers. The numerous professional committees and commissions which were charged from time to time with the duty of investigation and reporting upon various aspects of administration of justice were soon appraised by public opinion as mere political pretenses.

As early as 1843 the Legal Observer was noting with alarm the growing tendency to exclude lawyers from Parliament, saying that there were at that time only one prominent chancery lawyer and only one leading common lawyer in the House of Commons. (23 Legs. Obs., 384.)

SPEED TRAP WARNING LEGAL

LONDON, July 25. (AP)—It is no offense to warn a person who is about to break the law, a London magistrate recently held in dismissing an Automobile Association scout who was charged with warning motorists of the existence of a speed trap.

The "bobbie" who made the arrest complained that soon after he established the trap in the outskirts of London the A.A. scout came through on a bicycle and turned around to warn oncoming motorists. As a result, he said, the motorists all came through the speed trap at about five miles an hour, jeering at him and ironically tipping their hats.

The Automobile Association maintains hundreds of scouts on bicycles and in automobiles on the suburban roads. If a member carrying the "A.A." on his automobile radiator passes one of the scouts and the scout does not salute, it means "thumbs down." On the other hand a snappy salute means that everything is favorable to the motorist.

Triple Your Estate With Safety

THIS is the way one man is utilizing the power of money. He had $5000 invested at 6%, returning $300 annually in interest. Reinvesting this income in the same securities would have built up his estate surely, but slowly.

He brought his securities to us. We advised a Life Insurance Trust. Inquiries developed that he could buy $12,000 of life insurance in an old line company with the income from his original $5000. Each year as dividends accrue from his policy additional insurance may be purchased.

When his estate is turned over to his beneficiaries he will leave them, not $5000, but more than $17,000. If he so desires this money may be reinvested and the income paid to his family in monthly installments.

Any amount of money from $1000 up may be used in creating a Life Insurance Trust. Investments you now own may be deposited as a nucleus and the income applied on the purchase of life insurance.

This Trust Company is interested in the principal of life insurance only to the extent that it be used in building up the estates of our clients. We are not life insurance agents but co-operate with agents desirous of giving their customers the benefits of trust company service.

A Life Insurance Trust offers opportunity for more than tripling the cash value of your estate with perfect safety. How you may arrange the details of such a Trust to carry out all your wishes will be cheerfully explained by our Trust Officer.

LINGERIE DEPARTMENT PROCURES BIG SCOOP

Local Manufacturers Give Wonderful Prices In Courtesy to the Sale

—The Special Day in the Lingerie Department did not evolve over night—it has a history of much planning and close collaboration with manufacturers.

—Quality is the dominant note. For instance, the gowns, which represent a clearaway of the manufacturers' own stock, are of the very same quality as some of the expensive gowns in our own Lingerie Department. We know of no other manufacturer who could have made us such a low marking.

—The chemise and step-ins were made up specially for us, and when you see the heavy quality crepe you will be surprised at the low price. The styles are individual, many of the popular waisted effects, and plenty of straight-line tucked affairs for larger women, are represented.

—We feel safe to predict one of our biggest Lingerie Days, Tuesday, for very seldom is it our opportunity to present such values as these.

ATTACK ON GOVERNOR CRITICISED

Will C. Wood's Statement of Chief Executive's School Stand Called Propaganda

SACRAMENTO, July 25. (Exclusive) Will C. Wood, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, today issued a statement attacking Gov. Richardson's refusal to ratify the appointment of William John Cooper and A. B. Anderson to presidencies of two teachers' colleges as an indication that "the Governor's war on education is to continue with no quarter."

Wood's statement is so obviously political propaganda that the announcement which accompanies it to the effect that the superintendent will "battle with might and main to insure the defeat of Friend W. Richardson at the August primary" is conceded to be entirely gratuitous.

When the well-known attitude of the Governor toward educational development is taken into consideration the absurdity of Wood's declaration as quoted by the Associated Press that "Gov. Richardson has waged incessant warfare on the common schools of California and the educational leaders responsible for their unexcelled standing" becomes so marked that the misrepresentation of the chief executive's actual position is certain to prove a boomerang.

Wood accuses the Governor of "showing a contempt for education," and concludes his statement with a plain exposal of the cocoanut's meat when he appeals to "all friends of education," to "join me in battle for the protection of California's fine school system."

The Governor is expected to make an early and inclusive reply to the Wood fulminations.

Five Killed as Ohio Auto Goes Over Road Bank

CLEVELAND, July 25. (AP)—Five persons were killed and another probably fatally injured when their automobile went over a twenty-foot embankment here today.

The victims are Clevelanders. They are: Miss Lennie McGee, 31 years of age; Esther May Wilson, 17; Elmer H. Treichel, 35; Boyd Wagner, 24, and Louis Feuerstein, 26.

Joseph Lisy, 30, was unconscious when the wreckage and bodies were discovered. He was taken to a hospital, where doctors said hope for his recovery was slight.

CHRISTIAN CONVENTION AT SANTA CRUZ ENDS

Survival of the Fittest

A proprietary medicine like everything else that comes before the public has to prove its merit. It has to meet competition. The law of the Survival of the Fittest applies to this as to other things. The fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after fifty years of Success, is still one of the largest sellers, proves that it is a dependable, standard remedy and one in which women may have perfect confidence.—[Advertisement]

CADETS TO QUIT CAMP THURSDAY

Five Hundred R.O.T.C. Men Have Taken Course

Many College Students Get Military Experience

Mock Warfare Carried on Near American Lake

CAMP LEWIS (Wash.) July 25. (Exclusive)—In a few more days the 500 R. O. T. C. cadets, who have been camped here will turn in equipment, pocket their pay, and depart for their home towns, scattered through the West.

Beginning today, the cadets will devote the first three days of the week to competitive drill, athletic events, a military field day, and a general review. Thursday morning they will check in their rifles, line up for their meager six-weeks pay, submit to a thorough medical examination, and depart.

They will be glad to go, most of these 500 tanned youngsters, glad to be out from under the military discipline that has governed them for the six weeks, and glad to crank up their collegiate flivvers and get out on the highways again, headed for home and mother. Yet they will be a little sorry, too, for they have formed many friendships here, and parting will mean that they may never see their new-found buddies again. They will be scattered over thousands of miles of the West, attending a score of more colleges and universities, and living in a dozen States.

COLLEGE MEN

It is doubtful if there is another place in the country where college men meet and exchange ideas and confidences as they do in the R. O. T. C. camps, especially Camp Lewis, where they are gathered from Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, Montana, Hawaii, Wyoming, and a few more States.

It is a different set of youngsters departing than the set which came here in mid-July. They are tanned and rugged; straight-shouldered, and a bit debonair, as they depart. Six weeks of outdoor living, regular hours, and stiff training have left their imprint.

During the six weeks that the youths have been in camp, they have received intensive training in war-time maneuvers, close-order and extended drill, skirmishing, marksmanship, and in command of men. Each man a potential officer in Uncle Sam's army, he has done the thing that the regular private has to do, thus learning just what the reactions of his men will be, should the time come when the cadet must take command of regular forces.

The cadets have slept in army barracks, eaten at regular mess halls, risen at the disturbing early-morning notes of a bugle, and have been governed by strict discipline. They have shouldered rifles and heavy packs and marched over rough country for a day, pitching their shelter tents at night and sleeping with clothing on, as in war-time, expectant of a "night attack," which was part of the program of the war-game they were playing.

MOCK WARFARE

Divided into "red" and "blue" armies, the have played at war on the rugged terrain on the shores of American Lake. Commanded by cadet officers, they have established a battle line, protected by the imaginary fire of their artillery, where they clashed in a simulation of an actual engagement.

Infantry, cavalry, engineer, field artillery, medical, and ordnance units are represented in camp. Each unit has its own particular training in addition to the general training prescribed for all. The infantry, the "backbone of the army," backed by the long-range guns of the artillery, holds off an imaginary enemy, while the engineers throw a hastily-built but strong, pontoon bridge across American Lake.

An ambulance, manned by medical cadets, accompanies every march, and is always present at range firing. The cavalry, with sabers clanking, scours the country in advance of infantry columns, patrolling and scouting. Back in the rear the ordnance unit, manning a compact field repair shop, cares for casualties to rifles and firing-pieces.

The cadets have stood guard in regular turn, pacing their posts during their watches in the long hours of the night, learning that a sentry's first duty is to stay awake and be alert. Dressed in "fatigue" uniforms, they have served as kitchen police, and many a once-pampered darling has spent the day up to his elbows in dish-water, in scraping greasy pots and pans, or in peeling sack after sack of "spuds."

ATHLETICS

Athletics and entertainment have not been neglected, and regular teams, made up of college athletic stars, have competed with army teams or those of the outside.

Each week girls from near-by towns were brought to camp, chaperoned by officers' wives, to keep the cadets brushed up on their manners by an evening of entertainment or dancing.

Programs, managed by cadets, have been given, using local talent. A camp annual, published by the cadets, was printed, modeled after a college annual. A newspaper, depicting camp life, was also regularly published.

Two important trips were taken by the cadets during the encampment. The first was a visit to the battleships of the Pacific fleet, anchored in the Tacoma harbor. The second was a journey, by motor truck, to Rainier National Park, where the cadets camped for a night and visited the many scenic points of the Northwest's tallest mountain.

CHEERFUL CHAFF

BY TIMES READERS

WRITE FOR THE "MOVIES" AND WIN CASH PRIZES

The Los Angeles Times produces a popular fun reel called "Cheerful Chaff," consisting of the twelve best jokes submitted weekly by readers. Twelve $1 prizes are awarded each week, the names and addresses of winners, together with prize-winning jokes appearing on the screen.

Everyone is invited to send in jokes. No formal letter is necessary. Just jot down your jokes, as many as you wish, sign your name and address, and mail to "Cheerful Chaff Editor," Los Angeles Times. Jokes for the screen must not exceed thirty words.

Meritorious jokes too long or otherwise not adapted for screen use, are accorded a place of honor on The Times' comic page, receiving a souvenir of acknowledgment.

SERAPHS SPLIT DOUBLE-HEADER WITH SEATTLE

ELMER JACOBS TWIRLS VICTORY IN FIRST, 2-1

Angel Star Has Better of Miljus in Hurling Duel; Crandall is Loser in Second Tilt, 3-1

BY ROBERT RAY

Marty Krug's league-leading Angels and the Seattle Indians split even in yesterday's twin bill at Wrigley Field, Elmer Jacobs hurling the Home Guards to a 2-to-1 victory in the opener, but the Indians won out in the twilight tilt, 3 to 1. The Angels galloped off with the long end of the 5-to-2 series and are still leading the second-place Sacs by nine and a half games.

In the first contest Elmer Jacobs turned in his second victory of the year, when he outpitched John Miljus, the Suds' Serbian slabster, in a neat but not gaudy hurling duel. Both chuckers allowed the same number of hits, seven, but Jacobs, after the first round, saw to it that the Indians got no bingles in the tight spots. Miljus had two bad innings, the fifth and seventh, and the Angels bunched five of their hits in these frames to score a run each time.

JOHNNY MITCHELL.

Little Johnny Mitchell, whose habit of driving in runs when they are most needed, is proving both disconcerting and disastrous to the opposition, singled to score Ray Jacobs with what proved to be the winning marker in the seventh. That made it three times during the series that Mitchell drove in the run that beat the Indians, which is a feat not to be scanned at or walked upon.

HASTY TOO FAST

Big Bob Hasty's fast one had the temples pumsied in the second struggle, the Krugmen nicking the lanky hurler twirler for but four hits and being blanked after the opening inning. While Hasty was mowing down the home athletes with machine-gun-like precision, Doc Crandall was having his troubles trying to get the ball past the Seattle batters. Eleven hits were collected off the veteran Doc's offerings and enough of them were bunched to produce a run in each of three innings.

The night cap was cut short to six innings in order to allow the Indians and Angels to catch a train for the Northwest. The Suds go home to entertain the Reds, and the Angels will ride on the same train with them as far as Portland, at which point they will stop off to play something like eight games with the dreaded Ducks.

Cutting back to the opener, the Indians did all of their damage right in the first inning. After Lane had been disposed of, Marty Callaghan sent out a bunt to E. Jacobs, Sherlock flied out, but Brick Eldred

Rosenberg and Taylor Signed for Title Go

CHICAGO, July 25. (AP)—Charley (Phil) Rosenberg of New York, world's bantamweight champion, signed tonight to defend his title against Bud Taylor, the blond challenger of Terre Haute, Ind., in a ten-round contest to a referee's decision here early in September.

Bud Taylor

Promoter Jim Mullen plans to stage the contest in the Cubs' baseball park on the night of September 10, instead of on Labor Day afternoon as originally planned. He will make application for a permit at a meeting of the State Athletic Commission Tuesday.

Taylor, long regarded as the outstanding challenger for Rosenberg's crown, has pursued the New Yorker, for several months in an attempt to force him into a championship match. Taylor's manager, Eddie Long, it is understood, has guaranteed the champion $45,000 and will gamble with Promoter Mullen on a percentage basis, paying Rosenberg out of his end of the purse.

BULLOCK-WEBSTER, SHAFER DEFEATED

Harold Thompson and Miller Fishel defeated Capt. Bullock-Webster and Art Shafer 2 up in a foursome at the Oakmont Country Club yesterday. Thompson had a card of 70 while Fisher had 73, Bullock-Webster, 75, and Shafer, 78.

RECORD TROUT

NEW YORK, July 25. (Exclusive) Capt. G. A. Franks landed the largest trout ever caught at Blagdon Lake, Eng., recently, the fish weighing ten and a quarter pounds. The former record was nine and one-eighth pounds, made several years ago.

A LOVE SET - - - - - By Feg Murray

It isn't very often in the realm of ports that we find an instance of a husband and wife competing in the same tournaments and both winning consistently. I can think of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett French among the golfing families, and there are two or three notable examples among the tennis stars, such as Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Godfree and Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Lycett in England, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bundy, the famous American couple.

Now along come Alfred Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., and his attractive wife, the former Charlotte Hosmer of San Francisco. The Chapins have been enjoying a most successful season, and it seems to be nothing for them to run off with three championships in one tournament between them, the men's and women's singles and the mixed doubles. Chapin, up to the time he lost to Bill Tilden in a hard five-set match in the semifinals of the clay court championships, had won four tournaments in five weeks, and numbered among the opponents he conquered was the same Bill Tilden, whom he defeated in straight sets at New Haven in the Connecticut championships, 8-6, 6-4 and 7-5. He lost to the United States singles champion in the New England final, but went on to win the Missouri Valley western and Illinois State titles.

It was in the Illinois State tournament that, while Alfred wa beating Wray Brown in the finals, his wife was taking the measure of Marion L'ghton, the Chicago city champion. The former Charlotte Hosmer was ranked ninth among the women players of the country last year and Chapin was placed as thirteenth in singles and ninth in doubles. They should both improve their standing in 1925.

POINSETTIA HOME AFTER ROUGH TRIP

Walter Horne's Yacht Sails Through Golden Gate From Honolulu

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25. (Exclusive)—Completing another page of Pacific Coast yachting history, the Poinsettia, owned and captained by Walter Horne of Long Beach, sailed through the Golden Gate at dawn today, the third and last boat to finish the 2400-mile return race from Honolulu to San Francisco.

Weighing anchor with the Invader and the Mariner off Diamond Head, Sunday morning, the 4th inst., bad luck trailed the Poinsettia throughout the long homeward race. The first of a

TEMPE WINS SERIES

Walton Hubbard skippered his No. 328 Star boat, the Tempe, to victory in the elimination race series over the six-mile ocean course of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club yesterday afternoon. The series of three races was held to decide which boat shall represent Newport in the national championships at Long Island Sound. The Tempe scored an aggregate of 29 points. Bill Hurdy was the crew. ✦ Those five boats will all make the trip to Long Island Sound for the national event, but the Tempe will be the official representative of Newport.

Star 348, with Vice-Commodore George Vibert at the helm, finished second, scoring 28. Leonard C. Jones was the crew. Herbert Worcester piloted the Grey Goose II, star 334, into third place with 27. Fourth place was a tie between the Alcyon, No. 375 and the Barbara J., 397, each scoring 24.

Scoring fifteen points, the Tom Robin, No. 296, sailed by Tom and Rob Webster was sixth. The O Heaven, No. 384, and Estrallita, No. 299, each had thirteen. No. 184, the Aquilla, had eleven points. It was piloted by the Plumb brothers.

In the Performance Handicap, the Al Mar, sailed by Charles Ullman, barely nosed out Commodore Joe Beek's Carrollie, winning by the scant margin of a minute. The Malivar, skippered by Clarence White, was third.

HOLD EVERYTHING! TEX RICKARD HAS IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

CHICAGO, July 25. (Exclusive)—Tex Rickard, the eastern promoter who has been blocked by Promoter B. C. Clements of the Coliseum Club in his efforts to stage a bout between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney for the world's heavyweight championship in Chicago today announced he will have some cheerful news for fight fans tomorrow afternoon.

TEX RICKARD

Tex stated his attorneys held a conference with Clements's lawyers today and that a satisfactory agreement will be reached some time Monday. Tex, however, stated emphatically he will not go into partnership with Clements nor will he give the Coliseum promoter one penny to step aside and relinquish whatever hold he claims to have on Dempsey's services.

Tex also stated another conference will be held during the morrow relative to securing Soldiers' Field in Grant Park for the battleground. The eastern promoter wants to stage the show in the lake-front playground, but if the rental is too high he will try to obtain one of the big-league baseball parks.

STARS DROP TWO GAMES

Elmer Shea and Speed Martin Pitch Solons to Double Victory Over Hollywood, 4 to 0 and 7 to 3

SACRAMENTO, July 25. (Exclusive)—Buddy Ryan's Sacramento Solons won both games of today's bill with Hollywood and as a result walked off with series honors, five games to three. Elmer Shea held the Stars to four hits at Stockton in the morning and won easily, 4 to 0. Speed Martin was on the mound in the afternoon and turned in a 7-to-3 victory.

The Stars did not get a hit off Shea until the fifth inning, while Sacramento rapped Hollerson to the showers with three runs in the third stanza. Hulvey relieving him.

In the afternoon the Solons got off to a head start by scoring three runs in the first inning, driving Singleton off the mound. Hollywood's runs came in the seventh when Hulvey, pinch-hitting for Cook, banged out a triple. Scores:

BILL JOHNSTON LEAVES

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—William M. Johnston, second ranking tennis player of the country, left here today for his annual invasion of eastern fields which, in addition to the national championships will include competition in most of the outstanding sectional tournaments. He will go directly to Seabright, N. J., for the invitational event there and on the following week is slated to play in the Davis Cup trials at Forest Hills, N. Y.

For the first time in many years, the noted Johnston-Griffin doubles team will not be listed in the national championships as Clarence (Peck) Griffin was unable to make the trip this year. However, Johnston will seek a new partner in the East and friends here believe he will pair up with Edward (Bud) Chandler, former University of California star.

Takes Purse of $7500 for Win Over ex-Sailor

BY PAUL LOWRY

Theodore (Tiger) Flowers didn't give his local followers much time for wild acclaim after his slashing victory over Eddie Huffman at Ascot Saturday afternoon. The colored holder of the middleweight crown departed yesterday morning for New York, accompanied by his manager, Walk Miller.

The "Fighting Deacon" has a New York engagement with Harry Greb in defense of the title which he snatched from the "Pittsburgh Windmill," and is in a hurry to start intensive training. The scheduled date is August 12.

TIGER FLOWERS

In this connection Miller announced just before they left that he may ask the New York Commission for a postponement of the fight until later in the summer.

He says the western tour, which wound up with the battle at Ascot, was undertaken in the belief that Flowers could condition himself better out here than in the East. However, Miller declares matters failed to work out as he planned, the weather cutting quite a figure.

In this city, for example, he ex-

BADGERS WANT REGATTA

CHICAGO, July 25. (Exclusive)—The University of Wisconsin is to have its own rowing regatta next May if George Little, athletic director of the school, has his way. He is trying to arrange for the event at Madison in conjunction with the annual conference track meet.

MEETS JIMMY DUFFY

Paul De Hate, shown below, is scheduled to battle ten rounds with the pride of Oakland at Vernon tomorrow night. De Hate, who is a familiar figure in local rings, is being placed on the short end of the betting odds for the battle.

JIMMY DUFFY FAVORED

Oakland Battler Picked to Win Over De Hate in Vernon Main Event Tomorrow Night

Jimmy Duffy will be a favorite over Paul De Hate tomorrow night when the two clash at Vernon in their ten-round bout.

In the opinion of a small group of gymnasium touts who saw De Hate give Duffy a rough time of it in a workout three weeks ago, the Compton boy has an excellent chance not only to outbox Duffy, but possibly knock him over.

Even Harold Broom, Duffy's manager, admits that De Hate gave his fighter a boxing lesson in the gymnasium, but contends that the gymnasium and the ring are two different places.

GOOD ANYWHERE

Dutch Meyers claims that De Hate fights just as good in the ring as on the gymnasium padding.

De Hate has acquired much of the Bert Colima style by boxing the Whittier middleweight in training bouts. This fight may turn out to be a lot closer than many are inclined to believe.

Duffy occupies a funny position around the Bay district. He is a great favorite in Oakland, while over in San Francisco he has to knock a man out to win.

"The matches I had at the Dreamland club with Jack Silver and Joe Roche weren't even close, but they didn't give me anything," says Duffy.

"Fair critics say I took seven out of ten rounds from Silver and I don't think I lost a round with Roche. Yet they raised Silver's hand and gave Roche a draw."

ALMOST WELTERS

Duffy scaled 146 pounds yesterday. He says he could do 143 this kind of weather, if necessary. De Hate figures about 143.

There is a lot of interest in the semi-wind-up. Charley Rodriguez of New Orleans meets Al Grunan. Eddie Sears says that Rodriguez is ready for the Tod Morgans and Jimmy McLarnins already and Sears seldom misses on fighters.

If Duffy defeats De Hate he will ask for a match with Bert Colima.

REDS RUINED

CINCINNATI, July 25. (AP)—Boston went on a batting rampage today and took the last game of the series from Cincinnati, 8 to 4. The game was enlivened by two fist fights. In the third inning, Pinelli and Arthur Delvin, who was coaching at third for the visitors, got into an argument and exchanged blows. Players of both teams gathered about the scene and the fight became general. City police rushed on the field and restored order. Pinelli was put out of the game.

In the next inning, Welsh and Picinich collided as the former ran into the plate. Another scuffle ensued and Picinich was ordered off the field by the umpire. Score:

French Victors in Davis Cup Play in Europe

CABOURG (France) July 25. (AP)—France is the winner of the European zone finals of the Davis Cup competition. Having been victorious in two singles matches against the British team yesterday, the French today won the doubles, Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon defeating George Crole-Rees and Charles S. Kingsley, 6-3, 6-0, 6-3.

Today's match was a walkover for the French. The English players were never in the running. Yesterday Henri Cochet defeated J. C. Gregory, 7-5, 4-6, 7-9, 7-5, 6-0, and Rene La Costa defeated O. G. N. Turnbull, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Tomorrow Lacoste will play Gregory and Brugnon will meet Turnbull although the results will not affect the standing.

Borotra and Cochet left for Paris tonight to rest up before their departure for America. The French team will play the winner of the Cuba-Japan series, the finals in the American zone.

RICKARD HAS ANNOUNCEMENT

Dempsey, was invited to one of today's conferences but Kearns simply said he was paying a friendly visit to Rickard. No matter where the fight takes place Kearns insists he will secure his share of Dempsey's end and he may be a means of bringing Dempsey and Tunney together without any court proceedings. Legal advisers claim the Rickard-Clements feud can be settled at once if Dempsey comes out in the open and declares he will fight Tunney under the contract drawn by Kearns.

At any rate the whole affair is expected to be smoothed out tomorrow, according to Rickard, who was in a cheerful frame of mind today. Tex asserted he does not want to quit and go back to New York a defeated promoter. He was frustrated by the New York Boxing Commission in his effort to put on the Dempsey-Tunney match in New York City and another setback here would be quite a blow to his promotional prestige.

CROSSMAN VICTOR IN RIFLE SHOOT

The I. O. Gardiner trophy match at the range of the Los Angeles Rifle and Revolver Club Sunday, went to Capt. E. C. Crossman with his 143 score, but the real star of the shoot was F. W. Tietjen with his 127 made with a light sporting rifle against the heavy free rifles of those topping him.

The match, calling for fifteen shots from the prone position on the international target with 24 inches ten-ring and only twenty-three inches over all at 200 yards, saw E. D. Neff high man for the first relay, his score being tied by Gardiner, with 135. The twain overlooked, in settling the tie, the fact that the match was not yet over, and a 143 total, second high for the match during the year, took down the bacon.

I. O. Gardiner trophy match, 15 shots prone, 200 yards, international target, possible score 150 points.

FLOWERS ON WAY TO EAST

plains that both he and Flowers felt logey all the time, and that the ebony thunderbolt had to go easy on his gymnasium training. At that the Tiger certainly lasted better than Huffman, who trained with reckless abandon, but when his big moment arrived was unable to finish his foe because he lacked the punch.

It was Flowers who set a dizzy pace right off the reel and it was Flowers who had the ginger at the finish, even after he was all but knocked out in the third round. That he came back after that devastating right-hand wallop of Huffman's is a tribute to the negro's remarkable courage and recuperative qualities. Under the torrid rays of a blazing sun, any fighter without a heart would have been glad to curl up and call it quits.

George Blake has generally been credited with being the champion stone man among managers. But Walk Miller, I believe, goes him one better. With his fighter on the floor and later reeling around trying to stave off defeat, Miller did not blink an eye. His face was emotionless. If anything, it registered curiosity. There was no drawn look, no clenched teeth, no anguish expression.

Possibly had Huffman not followed Flowers's pace in the first round he might have retained enough stamina to account for the negro in the third round. As it was he seemed absolutely dead after the third round, scarcely able to keep his hands up. He attempted few punches, and the few that landed had little behind them.

The combination of the sun and Flowers's left hand smashes and cracking rights—blows that looked like slaps but stung viciously—proved entirely too much for the sailor early in the fight. He lost his strength and with it his terrific wallops.

A recheck of the attendance and gate receipts by Dick Donald yesterday morning revealed no change in the late announcement he made Saturday night. The crowd totaled in the neighborhood of 10,000 and the gate receipts about $23,000. Flower's purse amounted to about $7500 and Huffman's $5500. After the State tax is taken out and bills paid for the rent of the park, preliminary fighters, advertising, ushers, ticket handlers, offices, etc., there will be a slight profit left, Donald said. Patronage for the show did not come up anywhere near the promoter's anticipations.

If a man has nothing else to spend he can spend his vacation at home.

Arlett's Double Paves Way for Second Win

OAKLAND, July 25. (AP)—Oakland took six games out of seven in the series with Portland by winning both ends of today's double header, the first contest 6 to 1, and the second, 1 to 0.

Although the Oaks found two Portland hurlers for eight hits in the morning game, errors contributed to the scoring, the Beavers making four.

The afternoon game was attended by 16,000 fans. The Oaks scored their lone tally in the second when Arlett doubled and came home on Baumgartner's wild heave to first on Caveney's bunt.

POINSETTIA IN RETURN TRIP

series of misfortunes came when only two hours out of Honolulu when S. Lang, a member of her crew, was swept overboard and rescued only after a thrilling battle with the heavy seas. Lang, believed to be suffering from several broken ribs, was confined to his cot throughout the remainder of the race.

On the sixth day out the Poinsettia hit the Doldrums and lay becalmed for four days, following which high seas were encountered and the little craft received a severe battering.

The Poinsettia, which finished second to the Invader in the outward run from San Pedro to Honolulu, required approximately twenty days and five hours to make the return voyage, and trailed the Invader, Ben Lee's schooner, to port by more than a week. The Mariner, owned by John Barrymore, replaced second in the homeward race, arriving here last Tuesday evening.

TILDEN WINS AT NEW YORK

Longwood Bowl final, the national title-holder swept through Brunseau with the loss of only three games, 6-3, 6-0.

Vincent Richards, America's number three ranking player, scored with equal decisiveness over Horace Greer, the former junior champion, 6-2, 6-1, in a second-round contest.

B. I. C. Norton was compelled to go three sets to subdue Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., in the second round 6-3, 3-6, 6-1.

Rancho-Hacienda Combination Wins Low Gross Trophy in Montecito Mixed Foursome

W. BECKWITH AND MRS. PRESSLER TURN IN 79

Golf Tournament on Santa Barbara Course Huge Success; Annandale Players Win Net Trophy

BY W. C. WISE

SANTA BARBARA, July 25. (Exclusive)—W. W. Beckwith, Rancho's seasoned tee-and-greens veteran and incidentally senior golf champion of these United States, paired with Mrs. Harry Pressler, wife of the Hacienda club's popular professional, ambled around the Montecito course here today to finish with a fine 79 and low gross trophies in the club mixed foursome invitational.

Five strokes behind the leaders—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Annandale Wesson turned an 84-12-72 to win the low net prizes that were awarded in the affair. The big tea and coffee pulling spouse chalked up their best mental score in a mixed event today and were entitled to all due credit. Minnie Arkell and Mrs. H. C. Hamm, also of Los Angeles and vicinity, scored an 87, through the medium of some beautiful recovery shots, but the golfing tragedy of the day occurred when Ray Palmer, local golfing wag, and Mrs. Ted Haas of the Wilshire club, leading the field by a fair margin, played the wrong ball going to sixteen and before the dust of battle, the large and enthusiastic gallery pacified the tourney favorites who agreed to accept a twelve and finally finished with a 91.

Dismantling stars twinkled and faded individually through the shattering of more than thirty couples playing in the mixed event. Mrs. J. G. Wilkie of the Wilshire club, in particular, played one of the best games of her career, smacking out shots that would have been a credit to Glenna Collett, who was not included in the foursome field that sally got under way at the Edgemoor club beach buffet luncheon this morning. Ben Kerr of the La Cumbre club just a little bit more popular than even his best friends admit, and sponsor of the unorthodox golfing style that has carried him to such glory, added class to the main golfing of the day that included, A. C. Hamm, prominent down-State clay court star; Ted Haas, prominent Wilshire member; Oscar Brogne, former Ojai club manager, and many others. Browne, by the way, traveled to Santa Barbara to renew scores of friendships cemented while he was still the hospitable host at the Ojai Resort course. The foursome event today included the fourth annual Montecito club invitational. The club drew a very fine field of downtown golfers and friends and the dinner-dance at the La Cumbre club last night added the last fitting touch to a busy week of overflowing hospitality and we will all be back next year.

Low scores were as follows:

L.Dodsworth, Mrs. Harry Prentice	19	6 73

President Cup Matches Played at Hollywood

Hollywood Country Club golfers advanced to the semifinal round of the President's Cup tournament yesterday. R. A. Speicher, Gordon Chesbro, B. G. Sage and Stanley Hughes survived the rigors of hard second-round matches. Hollywood was busy course yesterday with the President's Cup matches being played and four other flights to say nothing of a match against par sweepstakes.

Hughes and Speicher won with comparative ease from R. D. Law and J. R. Rhoades. Gordon Chesbro and Sage, however, ran into serious opposition and had hard battles with W. P. Burke and D. C. Hutchons, respectively. Hutchon carried Sage to the eighteenth green before losing, 1 up. Burke was defeated, 2 and 1. C. R. Jameson shot a 72-6-66 to finish 1 up on par in the match play. Jack Kemp was 1 up for second honors and J. H. Rhoades was next with W. W. Copp, H. E. Heyser, J. B. Ransom and W. S. Goodall tied, 1 down.

FOUR STILL IN RUN FOR CITY TITLE

Municipal Championship Golf Tourney Reaches the Semifinals

The city golf championship narrowed down to four contenders yesterday when quarter final matches were played over the Warren G. Harding memorial course at Griffith Park. J. S. Gaines, L. M. Brown, Harold Thompson and David Martin are the survivors.

Gaines won handily from Barney Lucas yesterday, handing out a 4-and-3 beating. Lucas made a hard match of it all the way, but was outclassed. Charles Ross carried L. M. Brown to the seventeenth green before acknowledging defeat, 2 and 1.

Harold Thompson didn't have to extend himself to win over Bob Oaks, scoring a sweeping 7-and-6 victory. Dave Martin trimmed Fay Coleman, 4 and 3, in the hardest match of the four. The scores:

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT

J. S. Gaines defeated Barney Lucas, 4 and 3.
L. M. Brown defeated Charles Ross, 2 and 1.

Lincoln Park Net Tourney in Semifinals

Lincoln Park tennis players went into the semifinal rounds in singles and doubles yesterday after a large afternoon of tennis which kept the two courts busy every minute. Jack De Lara, Bob Stanford and Aung are the favorites in the singles events.

Three of the four doubles matches were as hard fought as you see anywhere, going to extra sets and games. Dave Ordway and Ruggles ran into serious opposition in eliminating Dubin and Meiden in the first match. They each won a set and then Ordway and Ruggles finally won out, taking the third set at 12-10. Hall and Bush later defeated Ordway and Ruggles with comparative ease. The scores:

Hawton defeated Dubin, 6-3, 1-6, 6-2; Hall defeated Bond, 6-3, 7-5; Winfield defeated Randall, 6-4, 6-4, 6-0; Yates defeated Ruggles, 6-1, 6-8; Call defeated MacCreary, 6-3, 6-2; Dunkin defeated Cook, 6-1, 6-2; Bush defeated White, 7-5, 6-2; Duff defeated Hawton, 6-3, 6-2; Cowan defeated Peterson, 7-5, 6-3; Hall defeated Winfield, 6-0, 6-1; Brashear defeated John, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3; Mason defeated Richman, 6-2, 6-2; Rosenblatt defeated Hall, 6-2, 6-0; Aung defeated Williams, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3; Patten defeated Smith, 6-2, 6-1; Widmer defeated Dunlo, 6-2, 6-2; Saunders defeated Augustine, 6-4, 5-7, 6-1; Stanford defeated Weisner, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3; Duff defeated Cowan, 6-4, 6-2; De Lara defeated Call, 6-3, 6-4;

Ordway and Ruggles defeated Dubin and Meiden, 6-4, 6-4, 12-10; Myers and Mann defeated Dunkin and Yates, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3; Hall and Bush defeated Ordway and Ruggles, 6-2, 7-5; Call and Brashear defeated MacCreary and White, 6-4, 7-5, 6-4.

BUICKS RUN OVER REDONDO

The Buick Auto baseball team ran rough-shod over Redondo yesterday, defeating the beach team, 12 to 7, in a fast game at Redondo. It was a tight struggle until the ninth inning rolled around and then the Autoists broke loose with a storm of hits that netted six runs. Redondo tried to rally and made two, but couldn't catch up. Carrillo, Gerarden and Jester all got three hits. The score:

RABBIT PUNCHES

BY PAUL LOWRY

THE first-year record of the Olympic Auditorium as caterer to a boxing and wrestling public certainly was an auspicious one. Official records reveal the attendance of 300,000 persons who paid over $600,000 for their amusement. Of the cash customers $2,000 were wrestling fans. The remainder were devotees of the manly art of leather pushing.

It is interesting to note that several of our well-known young men made sizeable fortunes for themselves in the Olympic ring the past twelve months. Ace Hudkins walked off with $30,000, Fidel La Barba with $25,000, Tommy O'Brien, $20,000 and so on down the line.

The worst house in months at the Olympic was the one the other night at the Wiggins-Weinert affair, when the gate receipts fell as low as $7800.

Since Joe Levy took over the reins as matchmaker last fall the Olympic has been making money right and left with fight shows, and Lou Daro's mat festivals have enjoyed increasing receipts month by month.

Tiger Flowers's great feat in boxing himself out of a very sad fix in his fight with Eddie Huffman will be remembered for a long time by those who saw the bout. The colored marvel was not only out on his feet when he came up after a five count in the third round, but dazed for a couple of rounds after that. It required remarkable skill and resourcefulness on the part of the middleweight king to keep boxing craftily until his head cleared. And when he thoroughly regained his equilibrium he stabbed, slapped and punched Huffman to pieces.

A gentleman of Pasadena named Alexander Orme has written in to express his opinion and what he believes is the opinion of other fight fans who saw Messrs. Weinert and Wiggins mess around last week. His letter follows:

"Your column is a consolation. I attend boxing contests every time I find it convenient. In the past two months I have been at the ringside four times. I have witnessed three disgusting fights that ended in fouls. The other should have been stopped in the third round on account of a foul. From now on I am through—and I believe I am voicing the opinion of lots of other unfortunates who have been "stuck" as I have, in paying out their good money to see a couple of low, foul fighting would-be boxers flounder around the ring trying to injure one another by a foul blow.

"In my estimation, boxing in California is on its way to an end conclusion if this is allowed to continue. I have nothing but admiration for the stand Chairman Strellinger took in the Wiggins-Weinert fraud. This should by an iron-clad rule and perhaps it would warn these imported "dubs" to keep their foul tactics out of California."

Glendale Elks Win Golf Team Play at Oakmont

Glendale rolled up a score of 437 to win low gross in the B.P.O. Elks' invitational golf tournament at the Oakmont Country Club yesterday. Jule Hayward, F. P. Davis, W. E. Hermanson and D. W. Hepburn made up the winning team. Long Beach copped the low net trophy with a score of 293. F. A. Stephens, W. E. Martin, E. E. Coombs and E. M. Jones were on the team.

In the individual ball sweepstakes, E. E. Coombs of Long Beach won Class A low gross with F. P. Davis of Glendale second. Jule Hayward of Glendale had low net with Paul Reed second.

C. W. Daley won low gross in Class B, with S. E. Madden finishing first for low net. Class C gross scoot went to T. H. Bridges and C. A. McMullin winning low net. The scores.

SARATOGA WILL SEE CARLARIS

Record for Purses Will be Set in Meeting

Annual Races Begin Friday at New York

Bubblinng Over, Bagenbaggage Among Entries

NEW YORK, July 25.—Between $425,000 and $450,000 will fall to the horsemen supporting the August meeting at Saratoga beginning Friday to run for twenty-six days. The average distribution will be about $17,000 a day and will top that of any previous meeting. Some 1400 thoroughbreds of various ages and kinds have assembled to divide this money. There are about 800 too many horses, and the presence of this surplus is both surprising and embarrassing.

COMPETITION KEEN

That the racing here will be dazzlingly good, better possibly than Saratoga has had in any season previous, better certainly than has been seen anywhere in the coutry this year, is indicated by the clas of the horses of various ages ready to compete for Saratoga's great stakes—renewals of the Flash, Spinway, Grand Union, Hopeful, United Sanford for 2-year-olds; the Saratoga Cup and the Saratoga, Merchants and Citizens, Champlain and Delaware handicaps for 3-year-olds and over, and the Shillelah, Beverwick, North American and Saratoga Steeplechase.

Carlaris, 3-year-old hero of the last Tia Juana meeting, and Bubbling Over's most formidable rival for the 3-year-old championship, hailing from the West; Bagenbaggage, winner of the Latonia and Lader derbies, and Captain Hall, Kentucky's new weight-packing handicap horse, are the only outstanding figures of the season's sport that are not here.

Bubbling Over, the Blue Grass State's Kentucky Derby winner, galloped well here last week. So did Crusader, winner of the suburban handicap and the Belmont, Dwyer Stakes and Coney Island Derby before being shipped to Cincinnati, and Chance Play, the fair play colt that ran Crusader to a nose in the Dwyer. So did Haste, winner of the withers at Belmont and conqueror of Bagenbaggage in the Fairmount Derby; Display, winner of the last Preakness at Pimlico; Rockman, winner of the last Chesapeake at Havre De Grace; Flight of Time, conqueror of Bubbling Over in the last Breeders' Futurity at Lexington.

GREAT HORSES

Rock Star, conqueror of Bubbling Over last summer in the Grabbag handicap; Dress Parade, Crusader's sprightly stable companion, and Clapirap, Chance Play's buddy in the Log Cabin stable; Macaw, winner of four stakes at Aqueduct; Mars, winner of last fall's junior championship handicap at Aqueduct and the Walden at Pimlico; also Croyden, Acrostic, Color Sergeant, Espino and Timarra are showing up well.

The stars, Pompey and Canter, the most considerable winners among last season's 2-year-olds, are temporarily in eclipse. But not improbably they will regain their form here. It was here last summer that Pompey won a revival of the $50,000 hopeful; it was from here that he went to Belmont Park to win gallantly the $75,000 Futurity.

MOTORISTS ANNEX

"Tub" Spencer's Auto Club Motorists trounced the Paraffine Company nine, 7 to 1, in an indoor league game played last weke. Herendeen on the mound for the Motorists, let the Paraffine squad down with no hits, but a walk and a couple of errors allowed the loders to score their run in the first frame. Finley and Miles led the Auto Club attack, the former hitting a homer and a triple and the latter a home run and a single. Score:

OIL AND MINING

General Petroleum Brings in Thompson No. 7

Completion Gives Impetus to Drilling in District

Company Shows Great Activity on Lease

YORBA LINDA, July 25. (Exclusive.) Completion a few days ago, by the General Petroleum Corporation, of its Thompson No. 7, has added considerable impetus to deep-drilling plans in this district. The No. 7 was completed at 4640 feet, with fifty feet of screen casing in the hole, and was swabbed in for a production of 800 barrels a day, flowing with a compressor unit. The oil tests 24 degrees gravity. The well is located near the middle of the lease, north and west of Atwood.

Work has been started on foundation for the Thompson No. 8, near the southwest corner of the lease. The company's vein No. 6, near the Thompson No. 7 is drilling at 4550 and should be ready for a production test soon.

The same company is about ready to start redrilling Keller No. 3 on the Yorba Linda group-four lease, and is rigging up to redrill its Hugo No. 1 on a small lease just east of Van Buren street, near the Santa Fe line to Olinda. The Thompson No. 1-A, another deep test, was abudded in a few days ago. It is near the old Thompson No. 1, an upper sand well.

June Production of San Joaquin Fields Reported

BAKERSFIELD, July 25. (Exclusive.)—Six thousand two hundred and thirty-nine producing oil wells in the San Joaquin Valley during June produced 5,172,127 barrels of oil, or a daily average production of 172,395 barrels, divided among the various fields as follows:

Midway-Sunset, 2,816,680 barrels; Elk Hills, 1,054,564; Coalinga, 615,207; Kern River, 351,564; McKittrick, 160,-775; Lost Hills-Belridge, 141,442; Wheeler Ridge, 31,872 barrels.

During June there were fifteen wells completed in the San Joaquin Valley with an initial daily output of 2100 barrels of oil. There were sixty-nine wells under active drilling operation. Six new rigs were erected.

OIL FIRM LAUNCHED

Hogback Company Files Papers to Operate in Arizona

HOLBROOK (Ariz.) July 25. (Exclusive)—Incorporations under Arizona laws has been made of the Hogback Oil Company, with capitalization of $300,000. Thomas R. Smart of Jerome and Paul Geary of this city, the incorporators, are said to have secured sufficient capital for wildcatting an entirely new field in the Coconino sandstone, east of this point, close to the New Mexican line and to the southern edge of the Navajo reservation, eight miles north of the Santa Fe Railroad. Four well locations have been made. The field has been exported by E. W. K. Sweet of New York.

CALUMET OF ARIZONA IN GOOD SHAPE

Company Doing Nicely Independent of Output of New Cornelia

BISBEE (Ariz.) July 25. (Exclusive)—While Calumet & Arizona has been passed in production by its subsidiary, the New Cornelia, the parent company is doing very well, what with dividends from Ajo and extension of the reserves of even higher grade than mined in late years. A fine strike, with value around 6 per cent, was made months ago in the Campbell shaft section and is reported to be constant in quantity and quality, extending up from the 1800-level to at least the 1600.

In the Cole District an entirely new ore zone has been tapped between the 800 and 1100-levels, while in the deepest workings, between the Junction and Denn shafts, good ore is being taken out on the 200 and 200 levels. The company has been making many improvements around the Junction shaft, its main outlet, and is operating a new electric hoist for men and materials.

At Douglas, smelting now is wholly by reverberatories, giving advantage in the handling of Ajo concentrates and affording a supply of cheap power from the waste heat of the furnaces. Little sulphuric acid now is being produced, as leaching is on the decline at Ajo since the establishment of the mill at that point and the working out of most of the surface bodies of oxidized ores. New Cornelia now is turning out about 7,500,000 pounds of coper a month, the largest product ever known from the property.

TEST BEGUN ON CUAYAMA LAND LEASE

Maricopa Field Tract of 722 Acres is Regarded as Promising Oil Area

MARICOPA, July 25. (Exclusive)—George Mapes, associated with a group of Bakersfield investors, as the George Mapes Holdings, Inc., has leased 722 acres of the Cuyama ranch, ten miles southwest of Maricopa, and has started his No. 1 well on Sec. 19, 10-24, according to John P. Hight, geologist for the Royal Petroleum Company, which assigned a part of its lease to the Mapes corporation. The well is down about 300 feet.

Mr. Hight said that general formations, numerous oil seepages on the Cuyama ranch, and general location of the prospective field, convinced him of the certainty that oil will be found there. The Royal Petroleum holds leases on 45,000 acres of the Cuyama ranch, and during the last few weeks, many applications have been made for assignments, Mr Hight says.

The Mapes well is being watched with great interest. The Royal Petroleum is planning an extensive development program of its own if the Mapes well shows promising indications of oil. In any event, it will drill a couple of wells at a later date, to test the area, it is asserted.

The land held by Mapes Holdings was subleased from the Royal Petroleum. It is reported that Mr. Mapes and his associates also have acquired considerable outlying territory.

Work of Opening Four Aces Mine Makes Headway

The superintendent of the Four Aces Mining Company, writing the company's Los Angeles office from Foresthill in Placer county, states that everything is working out satisfactorily with the development under way in opening up its extensive gold quartz and placer holdings.

"In the south drift in the mine," he says, "we are getting some good milling gold ore, the indications being that the vein is several feet in width. We have just started a raise in the north drift, and are following a shoot of galena ore several inches wide. Up the creek, on the north end, we are in forty-five feet with the drift, and will soon cross-cut.

"We have been doing very well in the building of the new truck road from Foresthill to the mine, and a mile stretch of this thoroughfare has been completed. It will not be long, now, before it will be ready for traffic. The electric power company will be through with its survey sometime next week, and it will not be long before the desired power connection is made. Twenty-three men are now employed at the mine, and nineteen on road construction."

Another lot of samples of gold quartz, and auriferous gravel, have been added to the attractive mineral display on exhibition in the Bank of Italy Building, and striking and scenic photographs of company holdings also are being displayed.

Oil Activities in Devil's Den Area Reported

DEVIL'S DEN, July 25. (Exclusive) The Robbins Oil Company, drilling its No. 2 on Sec. 25, 25-18, has reached a depth of 1835 feet. Drilling on the same section, the Devil's Den Products Company is on its No. 4, about a fifteen-barrel pumper at 1130 feet, with the No. 2 on Sec. 23, 25-18, a ten-barrel pumper.

The Marathon Oil Company's test on Sec. 13, 25-18, started in 1909, has made about 200 feet of new hole in the last year and is now 4375 feet deep, with 4080 feet of four and three-quarter-inch casing and 4160 feet of three-inch liner set.

The location is on the flat just east of the adobe hills and near the Lemoore-Paso Robles Highway. This is the oldest drilling project in California and in as near a desert area as one would wish to encounter.

OIL SHIPMENTS EAST HEAVY

Forty-Four Tank Loads Pass Through Panama Canal During Month of June

Forty-four tank shiploads of petroleum products from Los Angeles passed through the Panama Canal eastbound during June, according to a special report just received by Clarence H. Matson, manager of the trade extension department of the Chamber of Commerce, from C. A. McIlvaine, executive secretary of the Panama Canal, at Balboa.

These ships paid in tolls to the Panama Canal, $275,946.50.

During the same month forty-one tank ships came through the canal westbound, for Los Angeles. These were all in ballast and paid tolls amounting to $166,536.78, a total of $440,483 in tolls derived from Los Angeles oil business.

This was approximately one-fourth of the combined earnings of the Panama Canal.

The number of ships passing east or west through the canal in June, was 419. They carried 2,134,686 tons of cargo. The forty-four tankers from Los Angeles carried nearly one-fourth of all the cargo passing through the canal.

Bulk petroleum shipments from the harbor last week amounted to thirty-four tanker loads, totaling 2,294,402 barrels. The Pacific Coast domestic trade took 719,726 barrels, consisting of 216,650 barrels of crude, 393,-672 barrels of fuel, and 210,394 barrels of gas. Pacific foreign needs called for 332,032 barrels, embracing 55,000 barrels of crude and 277,032 barrels of fuel.

The Atlantic Coast domestic trade required 702,284 barrels, composed of 229,000 barrels of crude, 139,396 barrels of fuel, and 333,888 barrels of gas. Atlantic foreign demands took 540,858 barrels, consisting of 113,262 barrels of crude, 344,500 barrels of fuel, and 83,096 barrels of gas. The shipments were as follows:

PACIFIC DOMESTIC

Richmond to Portland with 64,150 barrels of fuel for Standard Oil Company.
Olympic, to Portland with 53,315 barrels of fuel for California Petroleum Corporation.
Warwick, to Gloucester with 45,425 barrels of gas for Union Oil Company.
Lobos, to Portland with 69,207 barrels of fuel for General Petroleum Corporation.
K. R. Kingsbury, to Richmond with 78,000 barrels of crude for Standard Oil Company.

NEW SHAFT OF WENDEN GOING DEEP

Contract Reported Let for Sinking Additional 400 Feet in Barkdoll

Development work is progressing satisfactorily at the property of the Wenden Copper Mining Company out of Wenden, Ariz., according to Ned Creighton, president and general manager, who is in Los Angeles on company business.

Mr. Creighton states that the company's new working shaft—the Barkdoll, has attained a depth of 835 feet, and that a contract has been let to A. Buchanan to continue this avenue to the 1200-foot level, an additional depth of 400 feet.

In the sinking of this shaft, Mr. Creighton says, ore discoveries of consequence were made at about the 800-foot level, the ore being continuous from that point to the present depth. Careful sampling of the shaft ore disclosed the presence of particularly high gold values, the average of this metal content being $7.80 to the ton, with copper present to the extent of 4.26 per cent.

In the further development of its property the company will sink a third shaft. This shaft will be sunk on the west end of the group, and is to be connected with the Barkdoll shaft by underground workings. It will require about ten months to complete all of this work, Mr. Creighton states, which has been fully financed.

Recent important ore disclosures in the Wenden, according to Mr. Creighton, have had a decidedly stimulating effect upon the mining industry of the Cunningham Pass section, and a renewal of mining activities is noticeable throughout the district.

In order to determine the type of reduction works to be installed, experimental milling tests are to be made, and it is highly probable that a pilot mill will be constructed at an early date, pending the proving up of the ore tonnages of the mine.

TUNNEL OF PAY DIVIDE IS PUSHED

Good Progress Reported on Project at Placer Property of Company

W. W. Charles and George M. Brown, of Los Angeles, president and vice-president, respectively, of the Pay Divide Mining Company, who have returned from a visit of inspection to the company's gold placer property in Sierra county, state that excellent progress is being made in the driving of the 2400-foot tunnel, which will serve as an avenue for the opening up and recovery of the rich gold gravel deposits on bedrock of an ancient river channel.

This tunnel is now in a distance of about 600 feet from its portal, and Contractor P. J. Lewelling is making progress at the rate of fifteen feet daily, with a force of thirty men. A few days ago the face of the tunnel was in a hard schist, which delayed advance to a certain extent, but this has been passed, and regular footage is now being made. Reaching the tunnel objective, a twenty-four-foot upraise will be made to reach the deposit of pay gravel on the bed of the channel. This bar is about ten feet thick, approximately 500 feet in width, and three miles in length on company holdings; the gravel running from $4 to $10 in gold to the cubic yard, as demonstrated by drilling tests.

H. W. Stotesbury, experienced gold placer mining engineer, has been employed as general superintendent for the Blue Gravel Mines Consolidated Company, a controlling interest in which is held by the Pay Divide Company. Fred I. Phelps, superintendent, will act as assistant to Mr. Stotesbury, who will devote all of his time at the diggings. The company has a force employed in constructing surface buildings and in getting in winter supplies, as work will be carried on throughout the year. A. T. Welles, well-known Pasadena capitalist and mining man, is secretary and treasurer for the Pay Divide Company.

Granite Slows Up Drilling in Test at Clovis

FRESNO, July 25. (Exclusive)—It is reported that the W. W. Taylor (Long Beach) test well on Sec. 4, 13-22, near Clovis, has drilled into 300 feet of hard granite at 640 feet. A joint of drill pipe, notched on the bottom, is rotated in chilled steel shot to cut the granite, rock bits being ineffective. The finding of the granite at shallow depth in the center of the San Joaquin Valley appears to be a geological freak which somewhat upsets the ideas of petroleum geologists. If oil should be discovered below the granite it would be one of the wonders of the world.

In the Clovis district the Fresno-Madera Oil Company is again standing suspended at 3760 feet, on Sec 18, 12-21.

Just south of Tipton at the western edge of Tulare county, the Federal Exploration Company will soon be drilling its first test on Sec. 15, 22-24 on the Kinsella land, the Taft Well Drilling Company having the contract. It is in wildcat territory east of the Tulare Lake basin.

WOMAN PIONEER DIES

TUCSON (Ariz.) July 25. (Exclusive)—One of Tucson's best-known pioneers was lost in the death of Mrs. Eva Mansfeld, who came here with her husband in 1877, when he founded the first stationery and book store known in Arizona. Four children survive. Mrs. Mansfeld was born in Hamburg, Germany, in 1849. Her seventieth birthday was made notable by a great gathering of friends, who presented her with the largest cake ever baked in Tucson.

MARACAIBO LARGEST IN VENEZUELA

Claim Made as to Extent of Proven anl Potential Oil-Producing Area

MARACAIBO (Venezuela) July 25. (Exclusive)—Although the Venezuela oil country is the latest to attract world attention, the Maracaibo basin already has a greater extent of proven or semiproven territory than any other oil district in the world, according to experts who are familiar with other fields. From the Standard (California) well in Democracia, northeast of the lake, to the Standard (New Jersey) well in Fertija, southwest of the lake, it is a distance of 250 miles, while the distance from La Paz on the west of the lake to Mene Grande on the east is 150 miles. Although the drilling so far has barely scratched that area here and there, all the territory is within the proven limits, giving an area of 37,500 square miles of what can fairly be called proven or semiproven territory.

Drilling in the field began in 1923, and since then seven fields have been developed which are shipping oil for world commerce. No extremely large gushers have been found, but the Maracaibo basin now is producing approximately 9,000,000 barrels monthly, the percentage of dry holes is low, considering the fact that many of the wells are wildcats.

The entire production so far could be considered light oil, the gravity ranging from 18 to 40 deg.

The accessibility of this oil to the eastern seaboard is an important factor, although at present transportation is rather limited.

LOST-BAILER JOB DELAYS BEVERLY OIL

Lewis Well Returned to Production After Halt of Several Days

MARICOPA, July 25. (Exclusive)—The Beverly Oil Company's Lewis No. 9 well, located at the center of the north line of Section 6, 11-23, on the Maricopa Flat, starting off at 1500 barrels at 1900 feet, was off production several days while fishing for a lost bailer, but is flowing again.

Bankline No. 10, an east offset to the Beverly well and 200 feet deeper, is about to go on production and the Standard's No. 17, deepened a few feet, a north offset on Section 31, 12-23, is due to go on production as a close east offset to No. 16, which had an initial production of 3000 barrels.

At 5200 feet the Union Oil Company's Houchin No. 1, a south offset on Section 10, 11-23, to the Standard's Raas No. 2, cored the same cap-rock formation that both Raas wells found just above the oil about 5120 feet, showing a slight dip to the southeast. Standard's Raas No. 3 is ready to spud.

According to field reports the Emigdio test of the Shell company on Section 21, 11-23, had some pipe troubles at about 3300 feet which may delay operations.

On Section 4, 11-23, Maricopa Flat, the Empire Gas & Fuel Company is testing its redrilled well on forty acres at about 3820 feet. This well, completed two years ago at 3970 feet, produced 300 barrels a day for a few months and then declined and showed water. This is the only well in California that has been drilled and operated by the Empire Gas & Fuel Company, a subsidiary of the Cities Service Company.

OUTPUT HELD DOWN

Well in Webb County, Texas, to be Kept on Beam

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) July 25. (Exclusive)—The Associated Oil Company's gusher, Carson No. 2 "A" well in Webster in Webb county, discoverer of a new high-gravity pool, which has been on a three-eighths-inch ocem, making an average of 200 barrels daily, was increased to one-inch, where it doubled its production. Due to no liner or screen set in the hole, it began making sand and was put back on a three-eighths-inch ocem, where it will be left till another well is completed.

The Associated has two offset tests, each down to 1000 feet, and the Texas Company is drilling on three, while Magnolia has spudded in one.

CARIBOU BUILDS RIGS

Site of Well on Tract in Center of Kern River Extension

BAKERSFIELD, July 25. (Exclusive) H. H. Hart of Oakland and J. M. Dearin, Jr., with several other stockholders of the Caribou Oil Company, are building a rig on 100 acres of the southwest quarter of Sec. 14, 28-27 in the central part of the area of the northwest extension of the Kern River field and Poso Creek district—the same section on which the Lenhardt wells of the Getty interests are located.

Mr. Hart is president of the Caribou Oil Company and Mr. Dearin is a heavy stockholder. They are also owners of the Hart-Dearin refinery at Fellows. They own the fee of the southeast quarter of Sec. 8, 28-21.

EXTEND OIL HOLDINGS

Vedders and 180 Acres by Lease on Western Front

BAKERSFIELD, July 25. (Exclusive)—Dwight O. and Richard Vedder have obtained leases on another 180 acres of potential oil lands in the Poso Creek and Kern River west front areas.

In a lease executed by Adah P. Crall and Almo J. Carnes of Los Angeles, Dwight Vedder secured drilling rights on 141 acres of the northwest quarter of Section 30, 26-27, Poso Creek field. Royalty was set at one-eighth.

VALCALDA MINE OPTION BOUGHT

Old Tonapah Estate Taken by Los Angeles Group

New Owners Plan Working on Extensive Scale

Quartz Mountain Stirred by Find in San Rafael

TONOPAH (Nev.) July 25. (Exclusive)—Representing a group of Los Angeles capitalists Charles Kielhofer has taken a bond and option on the Valcalda gold-silver mine near Silver Peak. The price is reported to approximate $150,000. The property has been worked for thirty years by John Valcalda, who is retiring from mining at the age of 87 years.

It is said to contain ore reserves valued at about $200,000, with the grade of ore ranging from $40 to $60 per ton. The vein ranges from twelve to fifteen feet wide and shows strong indications of persisting to depth. The Los Angeles men plan to replace the two-stamp mill with a twenty-stamp plant, and prosecute work along broad lines. The Valcalda is located at an elevation of 7500 feet, with water and timber abundant.

The Hargrove group of silver-lead claims in Lee Canyon, near Elko, has been taken under lease and option by A. P. Spaulding and associates of Los Angeles. The property has been opened by a 140-foot tunnel, and contains a four-foot ledge sampling $30 to $80 per ton. A little gold occurs. By the terms of the lease the owners will receive a royalty of 15 per cent on all ore shipped until the purchase is completed.

The growing excitement at Quartz Mountain has been intensified by discovery of the second vein on the 250-foot level of the San Rafael mine. Manager L. D. Gordon states the cross-cut 185 feet from the shaft has penetrated the ledge for over twenty feet with no indication of the east wall, and that all the ore is of excellent milling grade, with rich shoots showing. The first vein has been opened for 200 feet. On the 200-foot level the cross-cut has broken through the fault and cut a five-foot vein of shipping ore. Sinking of the shaft to 350 feet is proceeding rapidly, and as soon as the veins are tapped at this depth sinking will continue to 450 feet, where the two main veins are expected to come together.

Manager John G. Kirchen of the White Caps Company, at Manhattan, states a deposit of silver-lead ore has been found on the 1310-foot level, marking the first occurrence of lead at Manhattan. Development of the ore is to be conducted while cross-cutting for the gold vein is proceeding. An improved process for treatment of White Caps ore is being developed, and the mill will be operated after extensive work on the new 1310 level is finished.

Negotiations are reported progressing for sale of the noted Potosi mine, in the Pioche field, to the International Smelting Company. The Potosi is one of the oldest mines of Nevada, having been extensively worked by Mormon settlers before the Comstock Lode was discovered in 1862. It is credited with containing 300,-000 tons of ore. The International engineers propose to build a fifty-ton mill and work the mine on a larger scale.

Construction of the new 100-ton plant at the property of the Goldfield Quartz Mountain Mining Company, thirteen miles east of Goldfield, is scheduled to be completed in thirty days. The company is controlled by A. L. Salora and associates of Los Angeles. The management states a twenty-foot vein of profitable ore has been developed, and that over 10,000 tons of ore is in sight. The company is building a 15,000-gallon concrete preservoir, and a pipe line from a large spring.

Bullion production by the Comstock Merger Mines Company in June reached $173,115; 36,083 tons milled. Approximately one-half the tonnage is now coming from the Middlemines group at Virginia City, with the balance taken from the Gold Hill mines. The company reports encouraging results are attending prospecting of the Silver City branch of the Comstock Lode, but deep work in the Overman and Alta areas has been disappointing.

Evans Company Gets Pumper on Fellows Tract

FELLOWS, July 25. (Exclusive)—When the first well, completed by Hugh B. Evans, Inc., on its recent 120-acre purchase on Sec. 4, 32-21, northeast of Fellows, went on production last Monday it pumped 185 barrels of 36 deg. gravity oil from 3140 feet. It may clear up and make more oil, there being some gas, which is handled in a small gasoline plant.

The well is in territory that has furnished a number of wells making from 5000 to 10,000 barrels initial. The No. 8 well has about completed drilling and should soon be on production, with four other wells to be drilled during the year.

On Sec. 34, 30-22, southeast of McKittrick, Claire Livermore has completed his first well at 1206 feet and it looks like a seventy-five-barrel producer. The location is just north of the wells on Sec. 2, 31-22, drilled by the Southwestern Petroleum Company and now owned by the United Oil Company, but edging into nonproductive territory at the west end of the Elk Hills.

DEPOSIT OF HIGH-GRADE JADE OPENS

Work of Development on Property Reported as Making Progress

SACRAMENTO, July 25. (Exclusive) Development of an extensive jade deposit in the Pulga district, near Oroville, is bearing satisfactory results. C. E. Wallace and W. H. King are directing work on the property, with the jade said to be of high quality. Black and dark-green material has been exposed, and a good market is said to be available.

The Eagle Bird Mining and Milling Company, operating in the Washington district, above Nevada City, is milling around 30 tons of ore daily, according to news from the property. On the 700-foot level veins four to seven feet wide have been opened both ways from the shaft, and on the 800 level the main orebody is said to average around 20 feet in width. The ore on both levels averages about $10 per ton in free-milling gold. It is claimed this material is being mined and milled at an approximate cost of $5 per ton. The company is composed of Los Angeles residents.

Good production is reported from the Independence gold mine, Grant county, Or., controlled by W. H. Tharpe and Los Angeles investors. The property is equipped with an oil flotation plant of 100 tons daily capacity, a new cyanide department, and complete mine machinery. Approximately 300,000 tons of excellent milling ore are reported blocked out. The Independence for many years was worked by Wisconsin capitalists, and passed into the hands of the Los Angeles company last October.

Wooley-Jones Well Picks Up Good Oil Sand

ARTESIA, (N. M.) July 25. (Exclusive)—The Wooley-Jones organization, financed by Los Angeles capital, is reported to have picked up a good oil-sand in its Beeson No. 1 on a government permit, Sec. 33, 17-30, midway between the Artesia and Maljamar oil field. The sand was found between 2962 and 2967 feet.

Six hundred feet of oil and about 100 feet of water are standing in the hole. A pumping test is to be made before drilling is resumed. The first hole drilled by this organization in that area was lost at 1700 feet.

STEMWINDER TO HAVE BALL MILL

New Company to Rejuvenate Goldrood Plant

Tom Reed July Gold Output Set at $50,000

OATMAN (Ariz.) July 25. (Exclusive)—About $10,000 is being spent by the newly organized Stemwinder Company, J. E. Shank president, in rehabilitation of a part of the Goldroad mill into a modern 100-ton production plant. A ball mill is being moved to the mill from the Longroad tunnel. Statement is made that start will be on mill tailings that sample well in gold and that then will be treated ore worth $50,000 already blocked out in the new development of years past.

At the Tom Reed mill, July production is expected to be about $50,000 in gold, mainly from ore from the Shank lease on the Ben Harrison estate of the Tom Reed property, which is hoisting from [illegible] to ninety tons a day. The Shank lease on the Aztec is taking ore from a winze that averages six [illegible] about five feet. As soon as a new engine hoist is in place, the mill will be receiving about fifty tons a day from the Shanks-Lynch-Gleason lease on the Big Jim mine of the United Eastern. Ore for the mill also is coming from lessees on the Grey Eagle and from Tom Reed ground in the heart of the town site, just back of the Bank of Commerce building. This is a new discovery, is turning out fifty tons a week of very high-grade ore.

The Gold Dust mill is handling about thirty tons a day, to be increased soon to fifty tons. President A. G. Keating, recently back from Los Angeles, states that about $250,000 worth of milling ore is in sight in the mine, in which three crews now are working.

No Novelty

The dean of St. Patrick's Cathedral in Dublin says that the adoption of the summer daylight-saving time is no novelty. Irish sun dials of the sixth century recently discovered in the counties Down and Kerry confirm the conclusion drawn from the Gezer dial in Palestine that the last thousands of years ago varied in length, according to the season and latitude. The daylight hour is longest in midsummer was eighty minutes, decreasing in winter to sixty minutes.—[Outlook.

Last-Minute News From Petroleum Fields and Marts of Trade

CALIFORNIA OIL FIELDS PUZZLE

Eastern Operators Amazed at Longevity

Signal Hill Record Cited as Most Notable

Santa Fe Springs Another and Stronger Example

Oil operators from fields east of the Rocky Mountains, who come here to look over the petroleum prospects, are amazed at the manner in which California fields hold up. There are fields in some parts of the United States which decline from their peak to one-fourth of peak production in a few months, but nothing of that sort can be found in this State.

Signal Hill furnishes an amazing example. One year ago this week that field's daily output was 106,500 barrels. At present its daily production is 107,000 barrels, but it must be admitted that upward of 100 new wells have been drilled in an extension of the field, with perhaps sixty-five of them in a deep zone.

Santa Fe Springs furnishes a stronger example, perhaps because that field has seen but little drilling this year, and yet its production today is 48,500 barrels—just 2500 barrels a day less than it was one year ago this week. Within the last ten days it has seen one recompletion worth 1500 barrels a day and one completion rated at more than 800 barrels. Now comes the General Petroleum Corporation with the announcement that it is going to drill five new wells on its big lease there within the next six months.

Huntington Beach is putting out 43,500 barrels of oil a day, which is exactly 500 barrels a day less than its production per day this year ago this week. And Huntington Beach stands today on the eve of a revival of field development which is expected to show a peak of 12,000 to 20,000 barrels per day in addition to the settled output of the old area. This means that Huntington Beach may easily be yielding 65,000 barrels a day before the holidays.

Santa Fe Springs is holding up for three reasons. It has some of the most remarkable oil sands in the world, several new wells are being drilled there, and some are being reconditioned. Countless old wells are being rejuvenated by pumping dry gas into them and operating them on compression.

WELL OF ASSOCIATED TURNED INTO PIPELINE

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) July 25. (Exclusive)—The Associated Oil Company's Lopez No. 1 well in Jim Hogg county turned 1500 barrels of pipeline oil into the Humble pipe line in twenty-four hours ending on the 21st inst. The well is approximately one mile north and a little east of the Kitselman and St. Albans discovery well on Block 40 of Sec. 11 of the Holbien ranch. Depth is 2149 feet.

HARKS BACK TO DAYS OF ARGONAUTS

Names of Many Famous Mines of '49 Found in List of Permits

SACRAMENTO, July 25. (Exclusive)—Included in numerous mining permits issued by the State Corporation Department during the last two months are a number reminiscent of the days of '49.

The days of the Argonauts are recalled as a result of the plans of a number of companies to operate placer diggings in a number of the older mining districts of the State. Companies engaged in quartz and hydraulic mining also are represented.

Mining companies granted permits by the Corporation Department recently include the following:

Kirby Development Corporation, which controls property aggregating over 1000 acres between the towns of Angels Camp and San Andreas, Calaveras county.

Golden Poppy Mining Company, operating property near Stevens Bar Bridge on the Tuolumne River.

Little Klondike Hydraulic Mining Company, owners of hydraulic property in Trinity county.

Pilot Hill Mining Company, operating on property known as the Twin Sisters Quartz Mine, located east of Nevada City on the Middle Yuba River.

Mud Springs Mining Company, controls property in Madera county, which has been extensively developed by former operators.

Washington Mining and Development Company controls placer property on the south fork of the Yuba River in Nevada county.

Buckeye Placer Mines, Inc., owner of about 1500 acres of placer and dredging land on the east fork of the Trinity River, Trinity county.

Madrona Dredging Company, owner of 1500 acres of dredging ground near Junction City, Trinity county.

Spring Gulch Mines, Inc., to operate on property on the east belt of the mother lode near Tuolumne City.

Gold-Lead Placer Mines, granted a permit to complete its project, consisting of the development of placer property of the North Bloomfield district of Nevada county.

Red Elephant Quicksilver Mining Company, owner of property known as the Red Elephant Quicksilver Mine near Knoxville, Lake county.

Chili Gulch Placer Mining Company, operating on placer property in the Mokolumne mining district in Calaveras county.

WELL AWAITS TEST

Buchner Project in Corner of Poso Creek Cemented

OILDALE, July 25. (Exclusive)—In the far northeastern corner of Poso Creek, the Buchner Brothers well on Section 22, 26-28 is still standing cemented at about 600 feet, where it was reported that oil sands were encountered, which showed a light green oil.

The Buchners are planning another well within a short time, either on Section 36 in the same township and range, or on Section 1, 27-28, northwest of the Shell Company's Vedder well.

DERRICK RAISED NEAR TIA JUANA

Major Oil Campaign Begins in Lower California

Move First of Importance in History of State

Holdings of Syndicate Reported as 47,000 Acres

The first steel oil-drilling derrick to be erected south of Fullerton on the California coast is towering above a grove of oaks about twenty-seven miles below Tia Juana and two miles inland from the Tia Juana-Ensenada coast boulevard.

This derrick marks the first major oil-drilling campaign in the history of Baja California, not that the section is not a promising one, for scouts and geologists of the big companies have long looked with some favor upon it, but due to political conditions and lack of transportation, actual oil-drilling activities have been delayed.

Baja California's first "oil city" is now being rushed to completion following six months of preliminary work on geological surveys, searching of land titles, consummation of leases, and organization of the Sindicado de Desarrollo Lisfail, S. A.

The syndicate is headed by a group of prominent San Diegans and Mexican officials headed by Talbot Mundy, fiction writer of wide fame, Lewis J. F. Jaeger, Will H. Black, Frank D. Arrington, Roger M. Andrews, George Sample, C. N. Haskel, W. H. Lyne, and Enrique Ferriera, Mexican Consul at San Diego and brother-in-law of President Calles of Mexico.

The new syndicate has acquired oil and gas rights on 47,000 acres of land in Lower California, the area commencing about twenty miles below Tia Juana and running approximately twenty miles along the coast and about eight miles inland. The syndicate is fully financed and has no stock for sale, according to announcement by Roger Andrews, former Los Angeles banker, now an officer of the syndicate. Sufficient casing and drilling equipment for a 3500-foot well is on the ground, and word from Attorney Forres, now in Mexico City, confirming negotiations made with landowners and the Mexican government by Talbot Mundy during a recent trip to the Mexican capital, is to the effect that everything has been verified.

According to Mundy, arrangements are now under way toward obtaining right of way and concessions for a pipe line from the oil properties to San Diego harbor, where refineries may be located if oil is found.

Mr. Lyne, general field superintendent, became interested in the project, canceling his contract with one of the major companies for a survey trip in South America, and after six months' investigation settled on the present holdings. His reports have since been checked and pronounced conservative by scouts and geologists.

An important aid to geologists and drilling companies holding property in the vicinity of the syndicate's field will be the log of each well that the syndicate drills. Well No. 1 should be completed within ninety days, it is believed. Heavy seepages of gas and oil have been located. Natives for the past forty years have used oil from seepages in that district for greasing the axles of their wagons and ox carts.

Toughnut Mine Taken on Lease by Californians

TOMBSTONE (Ariz.) July 25. (Exclusive)—A California corporation has leased the Toughnut mine and dumps from the Bunker Hill subsidiary of the Phelps Dodge Corporation and will start soon on erection of a seventy-five ton mill to cost $15,000. Construction will be by the Frank S. Morgan Company of Berkeley, represented by T. S. O'Brien, consulting engineer, who will remain here in charge of mine and mill operations. The mine was one of the first locations of Ed Schieffelin, made early in 1878, and was one of the richest of the district, one section of its workings, almost under the camp, known as the "Million-dollar Stope." Workings went little deeper than 300 feet, water being struck about that depth. Some of the old workings are badly caved. Another mill of similar capacity is to be added on the Emerald property of the Bunker Hill Company and a mill recently was completed on the Leedy lease.

NEW TRACT LANNED

Shell Project in Poso Creek Area Attracts Attention

BAKERSFIELD, July 25. (Exclusive)—An interesting test well is about to be started on the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of Sec. 1, 26-28, seven miles southeast of the Shell Company's Vedder No. 1 in the Poso Creek district. The Maryland Oil Company, the Barnsdall Oil Company and the Vedder Brothers, Inc., will join interests in the new test, it is asserted, all having holdings in the virgin area north of the Kern River field.

KATHERINE VEIN GAINS RICHNESS

Ore Values Reported as Increasing as Work of Development is Pushed

KINGMAN (Ariz.) July 25. (Exclusive)—Reports from the Katherine strike tell of added richness and size as development is pushed. An eight-foot vein has been followed for more than eighty feet, with ore so rich that it will be mixed in the mill with that from other sections of the mine. Four feet of the ore is said to sample from $150 to $1250 a ton in gold. At one point of intersection of veins, the mineralized area is declared fifty-four feet wide, all of milling grade. It is planned to run a lower level, that the ore may be mined more easily, while the vein will be given that much more development. Statement is made that the Katherine mill at once is to be increased to 300 tons daily capacity. Its power plant is ample for the increased reduction demands.

New work on the noted Tennessee property at Chloride has been started on the 900 level, in the driving of a cross-cut to an ore shoot on the Schuylkill side of the property, ore that was cut off years ago by caving. A station is to be cut in the main shaft for new operations on the 1250 level under ore that has been outlined over 900 feet above.

Milling ore in a body ten feet wide has been cut in the Payroll mine at Chloride, 120 feet from the shaft. Reduction is to be in the new mill of the Chloride Mining Company.

BUILD TOURISTS' CAMP

COSTA MESA, July 24.—A modern auto-tourist camp ground will soon be the boast of this city, if plans of Carl Spencer and Fred Brush are carried out. Spencer and Brush have purchased about two acres just back of the Highway Garage for the purpose of establishing a tourist camp. It will be called Camp Cabrullo, according to reports. Lumber was on the ground today for four cabins and a number of other cabins are to be built in the near future, according to reports.

NEW FIELD MAY BE DEVELOPED

Huntington Beach West End Gives Good Promise

Holds Possibility of 12,000 to 20,000 Barrels Peak

Wilshire Oil Company Meets With Hard Luck

The west end of Huntington Beach looks like the largest oil play of the next two or three months, with the possibility that from 12,000 to 20,000 barrels peak production may be developed there in what most geologists think will be a field entirely separate from the old Huntington Beach field.

If no misfortune overtakes the Superior Oil Company it has a fair chance to complete, some time this week, its Jones No. 1, down near the ocean front. The oil string was run Saturday. This hole is about 3070 feet deep, with approximately seventy feet of oil sand. It is to make a test of the shallow formation. There are not many operators who think that much will be found in the shallow zone, but some of them think that the deeper zone, which ought to exist there, might be of gusher type.

The Wilshire Oil Company has had poor luck with its No. 1, which hit the sand long before Superior did, but developed several kinds of difficulty and is now reported to be going on down for deep stuff. E. J. Miley expects to spud in some time this week his Pacific Electric No. 1 on a strip of town lots near the ocean front. He has bought five new steel derricks and expects to put them up immediately, his plan being to have six holes going down simultaneously.

It was reported yesterday that another organization expects to start a derrick in the new area some time this week, but details concerning it are not now available. A week from now from five to seven companies will be at work in West Huntington Beach.

MACHINERY ON WAY FOR IDAHO MILL

North Star Company to Erect Fifty-Ton Plant on Arizona Property

TUCSON (Ariz.) July 25. (Exclusive)—Machinery for the North Star Company's new mill on the Idaho mine, in the Oro Blanco section, near the international line, now is being hauled from Amado Station on the Southern Pacific. Tunneling is reported to have developed a large tonnage of high-grade ore. The new plant, of fifty tons capacity, of all-steel construction, has been designed by a Los Angeles engineering firm to secure a high percentage of saving from the complex ores of the property. Expectation is expressed of finding secondary enrichment at relatively slight depth. Water for the mill has been secured by development of near-by springs. The company is one that has transferred its operations from Northwestern Arizona, its stock listed in Los Angeles.

Another Oatman corporation that has turned to Southern Arizona is the Tom Reed Gold Mines, which is developing the Allison mine, a silver-lead property in the Baboquivari Mountains, seventy-five miles southwest of this point. About 600 feet of new work has been done and about 5000 tons of gold ore are reported to have been blocked out. In charge is W. B. Phelps, general manager for the Tom Reed interests.

Four claims adjoining the Allison have been sold by C. J. Haggerty and Frank Reynolds to a Los Angeles syndicate, represented by C. O. Stanford, who is preparing to start development as soon as new equipment can be put on the ground.

HOPE FOR OIL FIND IN ARTESIAN HOLE

FLAGSTAFF (Ariz.) July 25. (Exclusive)—Near the Cameron Bridge across the Little Colorado, seventy miles north of Flagstaff, the Babbitt Brothers' interests are reported to be down 1600 feet in a well that was started in hope of an artesian flow, but which is viewed as a possible oil producer. The formation is said to be favorable.

INCORPORATED

CUMULATIVE, PARTICIPATING, PAR VALUE $25

Authorized $3,500,000 — To be presently outstanding $750,000

BUSINESS. Golden Gate Ferries, Incorporated, will own the Golden Gate Ferry Company, successor to Golden Gate Ferry Company, which now handles approximately 90% of the San Francisco-Sausalito vehicular traffic, and will also own Sears Point Toll Road Co., which proposes to construct a toll road from Vallejo to Sears Point.

In the year ended May 31, 1926, the Ferry Company carried over 720,000 motor vehicles and more than 2,180,000 passengers. The average annual rate of growth of the San Francisco-Sausalito automobile ferry traffic since 1917 has been about 37%. In compliance with the order of the Railroad Commission, the Ferry Company has ordered built two new motor boats, which will make seven motor carriers in the San Francisco-Sausalito service in 1927.

EARNINGS. The gross earnings of Golden Gate Ferry Company for the twelve months ended May 31, 1926, were $823,622, and its net earnings, before depreciation and Federal taxes, were $355,957. After deducting annual interest charges on outstanding bonds, this leaves a balance of $250,957 for dividends, depreciation and Federal taxes, or over four times the annual dividend requirement of this preferred stock. After deducting depreciation and Federal taxes, this balance amounts to more than twice this dividend requirement.

These earnings do not reflect any benefits to the Ferry Company from this financing, nor do they include earnings from the Sears Point Toll Road, which is expected to be completed in April, 1927, and which, it is estimated, will have net earnings of $107,000 in the first year of operation.

WELLS FARGO BANK & UNION TRUST CO., San Francisco, Trustee

Interest payable semi-annually, on January 1 and July 1, at the office of the Trustee, Wells Fargo Bank & Union Trust Co., San Francisco. Coupon Bonds, denomination $1000 and $500. Redeemable at the option of the Company as a whole or in part on any interest date on thirty days' published notice, at 102 and accrued interest.

Application has been made to the Superintendent of Banks to certify these bonds as legal investments for Savings Banks in California.

EXEMPT FROM PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX IN CALIFORNIA

The following is summarized from information given to us by Mr. Earle C. Anthony, President of the Corporation:

BUSINESS

The business was organized in the year 1904 for the purpose of engaging in the Distribution and Service of Packard and other Motor Vehicles and Accessories, and it has been carried on under the name of Earle C. Anthony, Inc., for several years. The Company maintains three main stores situated in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Oakland. In addition to these three stores, the Company has dealers handling the Anthony line in forty-three cities in the State of California. The Company also maintains one of the largest and most powerful Radio Broadcasting Stations in the United States known as KFI. The success and continued growth of the business are evidenced by the gross volume of business transacted during the past eight years, as shown below:

1920	7,435,360	1924	6,374,539

SECURITY

This issue of Bonds will be a direct obligation of Earle C. Anthony, Inc., and will be secured by a first mortgage or deed of trust on two parcels of property owned in fee by the Company and located in the cities of Los Angeles and San Francisco. The Los Angeles property has a frontage of 180 feet on South Hope Street between Tenth and Eleventh Streets, with a depth of 165 feet. It is also improved with a two-story Class "A" reinforced concrete building with a 50-foot frontage running the entire depth of the lot. This building is used for servicing cars and as a Sales Department. The San Francisco property has a frontage on Van Ness Avenue, between Ellis and O'Farrell Streets, of 120 feet and a depth on Ellis Street of 247 feet. This property is now being improved by the erection of a four-story Class "A" reinforced concrete building, covering the entire lot and to be used for Packard Sales and Service.

VALUATION

The Los Angeles and San Francisco real estate, together with improvements on the Los Angeles property, have been independently appraised at $734,742. Mr. John Cahill of Cahill Brothers, contractors for the San Francisco building, has estimated the cost of improvements to be erected on the San Francisco property at $285,850, giving a total valuation of $1,020,592 as security for this bond issue in the amount of $500,000.

EARNINGS

The net earnings of the Company available for interest and sinking fund after depreciation and deduction for Federal taxes for the past three years have averaged approximately 12½ times interest charges. Net earnings for the year 1925 were equivalent to more than 20 times interest charges.

SINKING FUND

Under the Trust Indenture, the Company agrees to pay to the Trustee a sum of $20,000 prior to each interest payment date during the life of these bonds to be applied, first, toward the payment of interest, the balance to be paid in the sinking fund for redemption of bonds. The Trustee must call all bonds for sinking fund purposes by lot, at 102 and accrued interest.

INSURANCE

The buildings and improvements will be covered by insurance against fire to the extent of at least 70% of the insurable value.

PURPOSE

The purpose of this financing is to acquire the San Francisco property and to erect improvements thereon.

LEGALITY

All legal proceedings in connection with this issue are subject to the approval of Messrs. Overton, Lyman & Plumb, Los Angeles, for the Company, and Messrs. Chickering & Gregory, San Francisco, for the Underwriters.

These bonds are offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Corporations.

VENTURA'S DEEP HOLES INTEREST

Most New Projects Now Down 4300 to 6000 Feet

Milham Oil Seeking Gusher Zone Around 6000

Shell Ready to Run String in Gosnell No. 22 Well

Most of the drilling projects in the Ventura-avenue field at Ventura are moving along at depths ranging between 4300 and 6000 feet. A well doesn't get interesting up there for about four months, and is hardly worth following until it gets down around 4500 feet.

One of the most interesting projects in the field is the Milham Exploration Company's Sexton No. 1, a wildcat in the eastern part of the district. It is now down 5700 feet, in white sand, having passed up about 100 feet of oil sand at a depth between 5700 and 5800 feet to go farther down for a gusher zone. It now anticipates hitting another sand at about 6000 feet. The hole is in excellent shape and it is believed that it can be taken 6500 feet deep with comparative ease if necessary.

READY FOR STRIKE

Swinging toward the west side of the field there is another deep well which looks interesting. It is the Shell Company's Gosnell No. 22. It is down 6078 feet and ready to run in the oil string. The hole is situated just east of Ventura avenue. According to reports the hole will carry 1400 feet of perforated pipe, which is considerable oil string for a Ventura well and causes Shell to anticipate a good producer. The hole is deeper from ground level than any other in the field, and a few feet the deepest stratigraphically.

Farther west, on the outer rim of the field the Shell's Taylor No. 12 has cemented off at 4589 feet and will drill ahead early in the week. It has found thirty-three feet of oil sand. The location is 1300 feet west of the Taylor No. 10, now the most westerly producer and making 700 barrels a day at 5400 feet.

THICK SAND SHOWN

On the south dip of the field the Associated Oil Company's Lloyd No. 18 is ready to run tubing at 5912 feet, with 400 feet of good oil sand on the log. Some weeks ago the company undertook to complete this hole short of 5500 feet and developed water trouble, so the hole was drilled deeper.

The Lloyd No. 32, a twin to Lloyd No. 7, is down 4290 feet, in an oil sand. Lloyd No. 33, a twin to the Lloyd No. 12, is down 5296 feet, in oil sand. These two wells represent the second and third producing zones at their present depths.

The Bolsa Chica Oil Company, on the north dip of the field, is building derrick for its Hartman No. 2 just west of its Hartman No. 1, and has bought a steel derrick for its Hartman No. 3. It is reported in oil circles that the McKeon interests, which recently obtained some acreage rather far on the north dip of the field, may decide to indefinitely delay making a test there, but nothing official in that regard has been obtained.

Dividend Notice

At a meeting of the Board of Directors held July 20th, 1926, the following resolutions were adopted:

RESOLVED, That a stock dividend of ten per cent (10%) on the Common Stock of this Company be and the same hereby is declared, payable on October 15, 1926, to the holders of the Common Stock of the Company in proportion to their respective holdings of said stock of record at the close of business on September 15, 1926, in Cumulative Stock of the Company, at par, so far as the same can be so paid in full shares, and the balance thereof payable in cash to the extent of the par value of the fractional shares which such stockholders would otherwise have been entitled to receive had this dividend been payable in fractional shares.

RESOLVED, That a quarterly dividend of one and three-fourths per cent (1¾%) on the Preferred Stock, and one and one-half per cent (1½%) on the Common Stock be, and the same hereby is declared, payable September 15, 1926, to stockholders of record September 1, 1926.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analyses will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or ½ in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the short-estimate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Tripoli

HILLSIDE (Ariz.) July 14.—Question: Under separate cover you will find a specimen of ore which I would be pleased to have you analyze and state what it is. I would also like a little information as to its market value and where it can be sold. S.

Answer: The sample is a compact crystalline mass having a lamellar structure and a cleavage in three directions perpendicular to each other. It is clove-brown in color; of flat conchoidal fracture, and No. 5 in the scale of hardness. Chemically it is a mixture of over 90 per cent phosphoric acid; approximately 90 per cent manganese protoxide; 90 per cent iron protoxide, and probably 2 per cent phosphate of lime. It is somewhat a rare mineral variety.

Just what the value is of ore represented by the sample is rather hard to determine. Owing to the high percentage of phosphates present, it would not be suitable for metallurgical fluxes, nor high-grade alloys of manganese. The oxides of manganese are the desired ore for alloys, and the higher the percentage of manganese in such ore, the greater the commercial demand.

It would appear, however, that, the high percentages of phosphates in the sample, similar ore should be salable, and it is respectfully suggested that you mail a specimen of the mineral to Dr. Frank L. Hess, geologist of the United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

Crystallized Gypsum

LOS ANGELES, July 14. Q.:—I would like to have this piece of rock analyzed for mineral contents. It occurs in the eastern part of San Bernardino county, California. MRS. B.

A.: The sample very much resembles potash-alum as found in California and Nevada. It is sulphate of lime, chemically, and high-grade gypsum.

Turquoise Absent

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—Q.: Please analyze these Arizona samples for bismuth and cobalt. Is there a trace of turquoise in the specimens? I have had similar ore assayed for gold, silver and copper; the returns were gold 638. Copper $45, per ton ore, and the ledge is three feet in width at 100 foot depth. I think that the ore carries bismuth and cobalt because the coatings resemble bismuth carbonate. The walls on both sides of the vein are pegmatyte. Locality seventeen miles northeast of Wickenburg, Ariz. J.

A.: The samples carry quite a percentage of hematite with some 17 per cent copper. The copper being present as chrysocolla and malachite, cobalt and bismuth absent.

Free Gold Absent

NIPTON, July 15.—Q.: I am sending by parcels post a sample of ore which runs parallel to a body of fluorite. Will you kindly state what it contains and if of commercial value? S.

A.: The sample is chiefly silicate rock. It carries a low percentage of fluorite (fluor spar;) traces of copper; traces of turquoise, and a slight reaction for zinc.

A Mixture

PASADENA, July 16.—Q.: The sample is from Mohave county, Arizona. Please test it for valuable minerals. G.

A.: The specimen consists of a mixture made up of malachite, hematite, baryte, gypsum, calcite and quartz.

Of Doubtful Value

NEEDLES, July 17.—Q.: I am sending you six samples for analyses. No. 1 appears to be an iron sulphide, but does not act like iron in assaying. Nos. 2 and 3 I believe to be feldspar and, if so, what is the market price of such mineral? Please classify No. 4. Are the yellow crystals in No. 5 vanadium bearing? No. 6 occurs in a large quartz vein. S.

A.: The pencil numbers on the envelopes containing samples were rubbed off, probably the result of a shake-up in transit, and but few of the numbers could be made out. The whitish specimens are silicious mixtures of quartz, feldspar, lime carbonate and some baryte. No. 3 is impure (contaminated with iron oxides) feldspar (orthociase.) One other sample is red feldspar. No 5 is garnet rock. The yellowish matter in one sample is limonite. Another specimen is a mixture of pyrite and arsenopyrite in a quartz-feldspar matrix. One of the envelopes had no sample in it.

Carbonates

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—Q.: Samples found in the Santa Ana Mountains. Do they suggest anything of commercial value? What are the two white samples? The locality is on a good dirt road about fifteen miles from a shipping point. B.

A.: The two white samples are lime carbonate and not tested for magnesia. The remaining specimens are lava-like, spongiform, altered rock, and carry lime carbonate with more or less soda.

Pyrite

MONROVIA, July 18.—Q.: Will you kindly assay minerals I have sent you today? I have a quantity of this ore located, and will appreciate any help you can give me. Kindly return samples not used by you in analyses. J.

A.: The massive samples were qualitatively analyzed and found to be of pyrite content (iron disulphide,) with pyrrhotite (magnetic pyrite, also iron disulphide.)

The granular matter in vials consisted of sulphides, which were not analyzed, and have been mailed back to you.

Correspondents should know, by this time, that samples are not returned by this department of The Times, and we have many specimens on hand which cannot be analyzed for the reason that there is no name or address marked on wrappers.

Free Gold Absent

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—Q.: Please assay the two samples for gold, silver, and copper. F. R. V

A.: The samples carry copper in low percentage. No fire assays are made by this "In the Earth" department of The Times and for other gold and silver values please consult assayers.

Silicates

LOS ANGELES, July 19. — Q.: Found near Bandsburg; tunnel fifteen feet in. Please inform me what the principal ingredients are, and value—if any? D.

A.: The samples are mixtures of hydrous silicious aluminum silicate, and magnesium silicate. There is a trace of halloysite of pink color in the specimens. The commercial value of such mineral is problematical, even if separated from the quartz present, and rather low grade for filtering purposes.

Not Bentonite

LOS ANGELES, July 18. — Q.: Please analyze sample. R.

A.: The samples carry hydrous aluminum and magnesium silicates with more or less quartz and a low percentage of halite (common table salt.)

Drew the Line

During a dust storm at one of the army camps a recruit sought shelter in the cook's tent.

"If you put the lid on that camp kettle you would not get so much dust in your soup," said the recruit.

"See here, my lad," said the cook, "your business is to serve your country."

"Yes," replied the recruit, "but not to eat it."—[Vancouver Province.

SOUL STRUGGLE TYPIFIED IN ISRAELITES' JOURNEY

KHJ Speaker Draws Lesson of Life in Modern Day Application From Story of Exodus

Comparing the journey of the Israelites from Egypt to Canaan with the experiences of every soul that seeks the peace of God, Rev. Carl L. Howland, elder of Los Angeles district of the Free Methodist Church, addressing the KHJ audience of The Times broadcasting station yesterday, declared that those who are pressing toward the highest goal must follow the Master without reservations and without a single compromise with the Prince of Hell. Mr. Howland spoke in part as follows:

"The text you will find in Exodus: 'And I am come down to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that land into a good land and a large, into a land flowing with milk and honey.'

"The books of Moses contain some of the most intensely interesting history. It is not general history, but is limited in its scope. It is written that we might have a personal account of the progress of the Kingdom of God. It was written because much of it is typical and experience. Because it is important to what I wish to say, I ask you to note that the great book, discussing the Exodus history, says: 'Now, these things were our examples.' Continuing the history, and discussion to the eleventh verse, it says: 'Now, all these things happened unto them for ensamples; and they were written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the world are come.'

"It is well for us to note, however, that though we are so sure that the names intended in this history are types are like all illustrations and allegories—they never go on all fours. If a type is true, it is true in its outstanding features, but may not be in its details. Of course, Egypt is a type of the land of sin. Pharaoh, who rules over that land, is a type of Satan. The taskmasters are typical of pride, greed, self-will, and other evil qualities, passions or appetites that rule in the hearts of those who live in the land of sin. Israel is a type of the born-anew. Moses, the deliverer, is a type of our Lord Jesus Christ. The opposition of Pharaoh, the desire of Moses, and the struggles of the children of Israel all have their counterpart in the soul struggle from sin to holiness.

NO COMPROMISE

"In the midst of the plagues, Pharaoh, feeling that he is fighting a losing battle, proposes various compromises. The Israelites serve their God in the land of Egypt. They may go, but not very far away. The men may go, but they must leave their wives, children and goods behind. Moses rejects all his suggestions. Israel is to go, to go far, and to take all. The trouble with most of our modern serving of God is that it is done with the acceptance of the devil's compromises. The thing is a failure, as thousands can testify.

"To Egypt a good land in which to live! It was a land of corn and wine. Perhaps there were fewer cities there than in any other country of the East. Israel, no doubt, had enough food and the people did have their mirth-times after the day's work was done. You may laugh at Egypt's attractions in the very gaudiest colors, but when you are through I must say that I have nothing against the country—it is a good one and it cannot rest. I shall need something 100 miles from today as well as today. I shall have need 1000 years from now. I shall be needy 1,000,000 years hence. Being immortal, I refuse to settle or give myself up to a country that is passing.

"There was a long time getting Israel out of Egypt, but that was not because he, under God, was weak, or because Pharaoh was strong, but because Israel was slow in getting ready. Moses's chief trouble was not with Pharaoh but with Israel. When Israel was ready to go the Lord let the taskmaster strike and Israel was gone.

"Israel passed from Goshen to the Red Sea, saying that the Lord had assigned them. This journey to the crossing was a repentance, restitution, and a turning of the evil of our lives. It was a cheap and foolish conception of God that enables people to believe that they can live in His world and still be unrighteous. No; there was one cross from the land of sin to the land of the sun—we must turn right the wrong of his life, before he has to cross the territory of lost sheep.

"When Israel came to the sea there was no way over, but God made a way and they passed over into the land of deliverance. Is it a good land in which they have now come? It is a land of deliverance from bondage, from Pharaoh and taskmasters. Here was typified the perfect condition 'sin shall no more have dominion in your mortal body.' What a blessed state! Also it was a land of bread from heaven and water miraculously given. 'But the land was not meant as a resting place but as a passage-way. The promise said that He would bring them up out of that land (Egypt) into a good land (Canaan.) They did not enter Canaan because of their unbelief, but many did enter, having come to the place of the cross and having followed divine directions.

"It is interesting to note that Israel lived in three lands, Egypt; the wilderness, or the land of delivery; and Canaan, or the land of victory. There was a definite crossing from the first land into the second, and another definite crossing into the second land into the third. It says that it is typical history. Apply it yourself to soul experience. Is Canaan a good land? It is a land of warfare. The Jebusites and Hittites and other enemies are in it, but thirty it cannot be a type of heaven. But it is a land of victory. The Lord helped them to overcome. It was a land of definite discipleship. It is a land of hills and valleys. The Mount of Transfiguration and the Garden of Gethsemane are there. Egypt and Paran and Canaan all have hills and valleys. More important than whether you live on a hill or in a valley is the question of the hill or the valley. It is a land of plenty, favored with rain and sunshine, with every blessing. The people who live there are well satisfied that they are not continually reaching for the cheap pleasures that this world has to offer. Egypt's things do not look good to them.

"Blessed are those who are wise enough to follow God out of Egypt into Canaan."

"Christian Amusements" is the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Rev. William C. Isett at Amanda Chapel. Mr. Isett spoke in part as follows:

"The early Christians said there was no such thing as Christian amusements and they were right. At that time all the amusements were connected with heathen worship. Paul refers to feasting and to meat offered to idols. The games of the arena were parts of celebrations in honor of the gods. Christianity had to develop its own amusements. But it has been afraid. This part of life has been the easiest one in which to go wrong. So the attitude of the church has been to have nothing to do with it. To become a Christian was to renounce all the pleasurable things which youth holds dear.

"We are in a new age and are studying as never before the relations between religion and the social side of life. Much progress has already been made, although the outer fringe has scarcely been touched. Christians have emerged from the monastery and convent. Emaciated faces and feeble muscles are no longer signs of a pious life. We have taken the old Greek and Roman games and, as their religion was transformed by Christ, so their games have been transformed by Christianity. Ball games are the national sport of America. On the playground we teach children how to be good losers. Gentlemenliness and not rowdyism is the characteristic of the national sport. This is because character counts more than the winning of the game.

"With the study of religion we have found that nature teaches us much concerning God. From this study of God in nature has grown all the sports of mountain, ocean, stream and forest. Saturday night on the beaches is a revelation of the good will and neighborliness created by Christianity. Sunday morning the mountain resorts have religious services. Christianity has brought prosperity to the masses. Prosperity means leisure. Leisure means social life—the mingling of congenial groups. Great outdoor gatherings under the stars to listen to wonderful music; suppers, banquets and feasts in which drunkenness, profanity and lust have no part; social dances and games of cards in which decency and companionship are more important than that which serves to bring the group together.

"Motion pictures play a large part in the amusement life of the people. Religious films are the order of the day and scarcely a week goes by that in most theaters the name of God is not reverently thrown on the screen. Look at the public playgrounds, parks, municipal golf and tennis grounds, swimming pools. I have not time in which to point out in detail how Christianity has entered all forms of amusement.

"But I do want to say that the church has proved derelict in its duty regarding the social life of its members. There is no more reason why a Christian should not have a good time than one who is not a Christian. Christianity is a religion of joy, but Christians have not yet learned how to be joyful together. The time is coming when the church will again have its own theaters and amusement halls. In fact we see them being built all over Christian countries. But the time is here when the church must pronounce most emphatically against any evil in amusements. A Christian cannot, dare not, compromise with evil. Just denouncing it does not eliminate it from social life. Only by good can we overcome evil. Only by giving our young people something better than the world can give can we satisfy them. My hope for clean motion-pictures is not in censorship but in Christian films. My hope for ridding the world of jazz and the Charleston is rhythmic movement of the body in a clean, pure atmosphere. If it is impossible, then we must acknowledge these are some things God cannot do. Amusement is not immoral. Only people are immoral. 'As a man thinketh in his heart so is he.'"

WOULD PLACE BIBLE IN HEARTS OF MEN

Dr. M. Howard Fagan of Wilshire Boulevard Christian Church preached yesterday on "The Word of God." He said in part:

"The Bible is the word of God. Not every word in it is God's word, for it contains the words of angels, of demons, of men and women, some of whom are wicked and some righteous. Not everything that God has said to man is recorded in the Bible, but it is God's word in the sense that in a special way He has caused it to be written. The Bible is more than a man-made book. God and man working together have given to us this wonderful volume. Because the Bible is the word of God it is indestructible. The enemies of Christianity have attacked this book and have ought to keep it from the people, but it is still the world's best seller. The Bible is wonderfully adapted to the needs of humanity. Regardless of race, color or condition, the Bible meets the needs of man as does no other book. The more we can get the Bible into the hearts and lives of the American people, the cleaner will this nation become and higher in the scale of all other books that have been printed."

TELLS HOW HUMANITY WAS BROUGHT TO GOD

Rev. Rufus Keyser, pastor of West Hollywood Baptist Church, preached yesterday on "God in the Midst of His People." He said in part:

"It is axiomatic that man has sought God in all ages. The call to worship and to service comes to youth at the threshold of life. Our God demands a practical answer to the call to the religious life. It must become a dynamic and corrective force. Again, if God is to be found in the midst of His people, a unified Christianity is essential. Christ is the focal personality about whom this unity may be achieved; for Christ is acknowledged to be our truest representation of God. Christ came to introduce people to God."

SHIPPING and Los Angeles Harbor NEWS

PORT BUSINESS IN NEW GROWTH

Report Tells Increase Over June of Last Year

Shipments for Month Run to More Than $70,000,000

British Engineer Seriously Hurt at Harbor

Los Angeles Harbor did $70,144,181 worth of business during June, according to the monthly report the Board of Harbor Commissioners will publish today. A total of 1,767,716 tons of commerce passed in and out of the port during last month, as compared to 2,093,283 tons, valued, however, at only $63,068,993, in June, 1925.

Five hundred and twenty-six ships arrived and 523 vessels departed to all ports of the world during June. An increasing dominance of the port's trade by American flag ships was shown. Of the total arrivals, 450 were of American registry, as compared to but twenty-nine British, eleven Japanese, four Mexican, four German, two Holland, sixteen Norwegian, four Swedish, two French and one each under the flags of Denmark, the Danzig Free Port, Argentine and Panama. The 526 arrivals had an aggregate net tonnage of 1,434,521 tons.

The coastwise trade continued to predominate, with 308 vessels, as compared to 110 ships in foreign trade and 108 in intercoastal traffic. Intercoastal inbound cargo had the greatest value, $7,406 tons, valued at $21,535,162. Coastwise inbound cargo totaled 289,253 tons, worth $16,708,742; and foreign inbound commerce had a total of 48,981 tons, valued at $3,006,587.

Of the total of all commerce, 405,643 tons, valued at $41,250,481, arrived at the port, while 1,362,074 tons, valued at $26,893,700 tons were shipped out.

The greatest percentage of Southern California products received by any one country during June went to England, she getting 114,316,912 pounds, valued at $2,240,448. It was largely fuel oil, gasoline, oranges and canned goods. China was second in getting our exports, with 80,530,380 pounds, worth $997,702. In last position was Switzerland, to which place was shipped but 150 pounds of household goods, valued at $15.

In Los Angeles' imports, the Straits Settlements led, sending a total of 3,239,464 pounds of copra and rubber, with a value of $307,637. In second position was Germany, sending 8,300,212 pounds of her products, worth $237,507. It was largely iron and steel products, chemicals and clocks and watches. Brazil was third, shipping coffee and cocoa beans to the amount of 910,241,32 pounds and valued at $212,720, while from Turkey Los Angeles in June received but two pounds of art works, worth $200.

There will be a busy period in offshore traffic at the port with twelve foreign-trade carriers of approximately 85,000 net tons due. Notable among the departures will be the liner Monticello, 17,000 ton flagship of the Panama-Pacific Line, sailing at 11 a.m. for Havana and New York with 500 passengers and 6000 tons of California freight. The Pacific Mail's liner Dresbach of the Asiatic-American Line will also come in from the north at daylight and sail for Rotterdam, London and Antwerp tonight, after loading oranges, canned goods and other cargo for many ports.

The Dollar liner President Polk, on her eighth successive circuit of the world, will arrive at daylight with 120 passengers and 4000 tons of freight from twenty-two ports about the globe. She is in command of Capt. K. A. Ahlin, commodore of the Dollar fleet.

Other arrivals today will include the steamer Pennsylvania, from Le Havre, on her maiden voyage here in the service of the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique; the Quaker liner Ontooon, in from the north to load for the Atlantic Coast; the United American liner Myrtle, from Baltimore and Savannah, and the chartered steamer Agnes Allen, from Tacoma for Atlantic ports.

L. P. Perry, refrigerator engineer of the British motorship Pacific Trader, is in a serious condition at the San Pedro General Hospital, following an accident on board the vessel yesterday in which his right shoulder was crushed. The Pacific Trader was loading oranges for the United Kingdom at the Furness Line terminal.

Steady improvement in the eastbound intercoastal cargo situation is reported, according to M. J. Wright, Pacific Coast manager of the Intercoastal Conference, and predictions that the lumber rate will particularly show decided stiffening during the coming two months.

"There is plenty of lumber for August and September, and the August bookings call for $12 per 1000 feet, while that booked for September is fixed at a rate of $13," said Mr. Wright. "This is a considerable increase over the present the average lumber tariff is $11, while some cargoes have been reported handling at $14.50. There seems to be no doubt that lumber offerings will be plentiful for the next two months, which, coupled with the increased rate, make the ship operator more optimistic."

Lumber is not rated by the Intercoastal Conference, each line being permitted to book the commodity at its own rates.

Capt. H. L. Rae has arrived at the port from England to assume command of the British steamer Shearwood, on her way here from Sydney for delivery to shipowners at Wilmington. The Shearwood is a unit of the tramp fleet of the Shaw Steam Shipping Company of Newcastle.

One hundred and twenty-eight vessels anchored at Los Angeles Harbor during the week just closed, a decrease of ten ships, compared to the previous seven-day period. Of the total of 128 arrivals, 111 were of American registry, while eight were British, two Norwegian, two German, two Mexican and one each of Japanese, Italian and Danish registry. There were forty-two passenger carriers, forty general cargo vessels, thirty-three tank steamers and twenty lumber carriers.

Oil exports during the week totaled 2,656,752 barrels, an increase of 347,106 barrels. Lumber imports were 25,778,000 feet, an increase of 2,650,344 feet over the previous week.

OIL COMPANIES' PROTESTS WIN

Carriers' New Commodity Description Canceled

Commerce Commission Holds Schedules Unjustified

Action Defeats Rate Rise on Certain Products

WASHINGTON, July 25. (Exclusive) — The Interstate Commerce Commission today canceled proposed commodity descriptions and specifications for petroleum products, which various carriers had intended putting into effect between Southern California points and destinations in the Southwestern States.

While the apparent purpose of the carriers was to put into effect new specifications clearer than those used in existing tariffs, the effect would have been to raise rates on certain classes of oil products. The commission, while holding that the proposed schedules have not been justified, says "they are a step in the right direction and are approved in principle," but states the classifications as drawn "do not appear to be founded upon any logical basis or definite scheme."

The commission's action was based on protests of the Rio Grande Oil Company, Julian Petroleum Corporation and Independent Petroleum Marketers' Association. The Union Oil Company, Shell Company of California, the Pan American and certain independent producers, among the original protestants, withdrew before the decision was announced.

The protests were directed at the proposed descriptions of petroleum crude oil and fuel oil, taking a rate, for example, of 36 cents from Los Angeles to Phoenix; gas oil taking a rate of 38.5 and engine distillate with a rate of 70 cents.

Americans Flee to Canada From Terrible Heat

MONTREAL (Que.) July 25.—This little island of Montreal has recently been invaded by a record number of American tourists. Every train from the south has brought its quota of tourists fleeing from the heat wave sweeping the United States, while the highways have experienced a heavy movement by motor.

In their search for more comfortable temperatures the visitors have not been disappointed. While the thermometer has gone over 100 in some States, the record was reached here last Thursday, when 87 deg. was recorded. Thunder showers relieved the air, and the following day was balmy, with plenty of sunshine and breezes.

Automobile camps and summer resorts along the lake shore report record business in American tourists, while hotels of the city have experienced their greatest tourist week of the year.

CAPTAIN SCRAGGS

OR THE GREEN PEA PIRATES

by Peter B. Kyne

OUR STORY:

Three Musketeers of the Sea there are; each as strange a character as the other; each subject to the same impulses and emotions; each as stubborn, cranky, impulsive and loyal as the others—meet them:

CAPT. PHINEAS P. SCRAGGS, rat-faced, smuggle-toothed and furtive, master-owner of the steamer "Maggie" and a freighter of vegetables in San Francisco Bay.

ADELBERT F. GIBNEY, a large, imposing, capable but socially indifferent person of a somewhat adventurous experience who is cursed with too much brains and imagination and a third. He holds a license as chief mate of steam, any ocean or tonnage and is chief mate of the Maggie.

BARTHOLOMEW McGUFFEY is a good engineer gone wrong. He nurses the ancient junk in the Maggie's engineroom with loving care and is a fit mate for the other two.

So much for the three musketeers—they're with us all through the tale. With one Nells Halvorsen, a stowaway Swede who constitutes the sole forecastle hand of the steamer, they have just run the "Maggie" aground near the Cliff House in Friars Bay.

McGuffey killed his engine, banked his fires and came up on deck, wiping his anxious face with a fearfully filthy sweat rag. At the same time Scraggs and Nells Halvorsen came crawling aft over the deckload and when they reached the clear space around the pilot house Capt. Scraggs threw his brown derby on the deck and leaped upon it until, his rage abating ultimately, no power on earth, in the air or under the sea could possibly have rehabilitated it and rendered it fit for further wear, even by Capt. Scraggs.

This petulant practice of jumping on his hat was a habit with Scraggs whenever anything annoyed him particularly and was always infallible evidence that a simple declarative sentence had stuck in his throat.

"Well, old whirling dervish," Mr. Gibney demanded calmly when Scraggs paused for lack of breath to continue his dance, "what about it? We're up Salt Creek without a paddle; all hell to pay and no pitch hot."

"McGuffey's fired!" Capt. Scraggs screeched.

"Come, come, Scraggsy, old tarpot," Mr. Gibney soothed. "This ain't no time for fightin'. Thinkin' an' actin' is all that saves the Maggie now."

But Capt. Scraggs was beyond reason. "McGuffey's fired! McGuffey's fired!" he reiterated. "The dirty rotten wharf rat! Call yourself an engineer?" he continued, witheringly. "As an engineer you're a howling success at shoemakin', you slob. I'll fix your clock for you, my hearty. I'll have your ticket took away from you, an' that's no Chinaman's dream, nuther."

"It's all my fault runnin' by dead reckonin'," the honest Gibney protested. "Mac ain't to fault. The engine-room telegraph busted an' he got the wrong signal."

"It's his business to see to it that he's got an engine-room telegraph that won't bust——"

"You dog!" McGuffey roared, and sprang at the skipper, who leaped nimbly up the little ladder to the top of the pilot house and stood prepared to kick Mr. McGuffey in the face should that worthy venture up after him. "I can't persuade you to git me nothin' that I ought to have. I'm tired workin' with junk an' scrap an' copper wire and pieces o' string. I'm through!"

"You're right—you're through, because you're fired!" Scraggs shrieked in instant rage. "Get off my ship, you maritime impostor, or I'll take a pistol to you. Overboard with you, your greasy, addle-pated bounder! You're rotten, understand? Rotten! Rotten! Rotten!"

"You owe me eight dollars and six bits, Scraggs," Mr. McGuffey reminded his owner clamly. "Chuck down the spondulicks an' I'll get off your ship."

Capt. Scraggs was beyond reason, so he tossed the money down to the engineer. "Now git," he commanded.

Without further ado, Mr. McGuffey started across the deckload to the fo'castle head. Scraggs could not see him but he could hear him—so he pelted the engineer with potatoes, cabbage heads, and onions, the vegetables descending about the honest McGuffey in a veritable barrage. Even in the darkness several of these missiles took effect.

Upon reaching the very apex of the Maggie's bow, Mr. McGuffey turned and hurled a promise into the darkness: "If we ever meet again, Scraggs, I'll make Mrs. Scraggs a widow. Paste that in your hat—when you get a new one."

The Maggie was resting easily on the beach, with the broken water from the long lazy combers surging well up above her water line. At most, six feet of water awaited the engineer, who stood, peering shoreward and listening intently, oblivious to the stray missiles which whizzed past. Presently, from out of the fog, he heard a grinding, metallic sound and through a sudden rift in the fog caught a brief glimpse of blue flame with sparks radiating faintly from it.

That settled matters for Bartholomew McGuffey. The metallic sound was the protest from the wheels of a Cliff House trolley car rounding a curve; the blue flame was an electric manifestation due to the intermittent contact of her trolley with the wire, wet with fog. McGuffey knew the exact position of the Maggie now, so he poised a moment on her bow; as a wave swept past him, he leaped overboard, scrambled ashore, made his way up the beach to the Great Highway which flanks the shore line between the Cliff House and Ingleside, sought a roadhouse, and warmed his interior with four fingers of whiskey neat. Then, feeling quite content with himself, even in his wet garments, he boarded a city-bound trolley car and departed for the warmth and hospitality of Scab Johnny's sailor boarding house in Oregon Street.

Another installment of this rollicking tale of the Three Musketeers of the Sea will appear in tomorrow's Times. Watch for it.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

Por el Profesor E. Guerrero

DEL DEPARTAMENTO ESPANOL DE "THE TIMES"

Número 452

Al finalizar el penúltimo párrafo de la Plática 450, dice: "La humanidad está saturada de calcodilato. Así de cacodilato. Así anda todo.", y debe decir: "La humanidad está saturada de cacodilato. Así anda todo."

Concluye el artículo de Fernández-Flórez:

El veía ya en esqueleto a toda aquella multitud. ¿Vosotros no podéis ver a las gentes vivas como si fuesen esqueletos? Yo sí. Es otra ventaja de la neurastenia. El día a que me refiero vi toda la calle de Alcalá llena de esqueletos. Precisamente esto fue lo que me hizo parecer más cómico su trajín. Si ustedes lo viesen se retorcerían de risa, y también pensarían cosas de tal ternura, que humedecerían sus ojos. Ensayen ustedes. No es difícil. ¿Son ustedes capaces de adivinar debajo de un vestido el cuerpo de una mujer . . . ? Pues es más sencillo adivinar el esqueleto bajo las carnes. A mí no me ha costado trabajo alguno.

Decía que estaba toda la calle de Alcalá llena de esqueletos. Uno, enfundado en un gabán, corría detrás de un tranvía dando zancadas absurdas. Otros, desmoronados en los divanes de un café, dejaban pasar las horas. Un esqueleto de hombre transcurrió dialogando con un esqueleto de mujer. Ella parecía enojada by él triste. Dentro de un quiosco estaba otro esqueleto. Llegaban muchos esqueletos, compraban tabaco, y marchaban echando humo por todos los huecos de la cavera . . . Y yo pensaba:

—¿Por qué corre aquella armazón de huesos, si al fin . . . todo es igual? ¿Qué asunto pequeñito, del que ya no se acordará mañana, le hace exponerse a un tropezón? Y este ser encerrado en el quiosco, ¿oreará que vice? ¿Cuántos años hace que está así? ¿Cuántos estará? Es un vendedor de humo. Vende humo y le compran humo. ¡Qué curiosa bagatela! Sin embargo, parece un esqueleto muy serio, y los que se acercan a comprarle son serios tambien. Desde su cama viene a este cajón; desde este cajón se marcha a su cama. Un día lo llevarán a otra caja más estrecha, y . . . he ahí una vida. En cuanto a estos enamorados, ¿por qué se hacen sufrir? Si yo la conociese a ella, le diría: "Mírese usted al espejo muy fijamente, muy fijamente, hasta que consiga ver su propio esqueleto; entonces pensará usted que la vida es un breve don y amará usted más y con mayor impaciencia al hombre que la ama, y verá usted cómo muchos prejuicios que le parecieron importantes, no lo son. ¡Aprisa!"

Y si me dijesen que eran sugestiones demasiado fúnebres, yo sabría contestar gravemente:

—No. Esto que descubrió un filósofo en el cadalso, y que comprobé yo inmovilizado por la neurastenia en una esquina, es un estímulo para la bondad humana. Si todos consiguiésemos ver en vida nuestro esqueleto y los de los demás, seríamos mejores. Las pasiones se dulcificarían, y un aliento cordial envolvería el mundo. Más que los vibrantes artículos escritos por el admirable Martínez Sierra en favor de los niños rusos pesó en la piedad de las gentes un fotograbado en que se veían unos cuantos de esos infelices reducidos a la piel y a los huesos. Y no es por comprobar así la terrible realidad del hambre, sino porque el esqueleto nos recuerda más que nada nuestra hermandad, nuestro parecido fraternal, y también nuestro triste fealdad interior, nuestra miseria substancial. Cuando esté usted a punto de sucumbir a la ira, a la vanidad, a la codicia, a cualquier pasión baja, acuérdese de su esqueleto. Yo poseo este gran principio moral desde que me domina la neurastenia.

El artículo de Fernández-Flórez que he dejado transcrito en las Pláticas precedentes comienza por la frase: "Voy a permitirme defender una teoría que se me ha revelado recientemente" (I shall take the liberty of defending a theory that has but recently revealed itself to me). Usase mucho el reflexivo "permitirse" en frases españolas de cortesía, con la significación de "to take the liberty", "to beg," etc.: "Me permito molestar a usted para pedirle estos informes" (I take the liberty to trouble you for this information); "Señor Ministro: Me permito dirigir a usted la presente solicitud, etc." (Hon. Minister: I beg to address you this petition, etc.).

Un poco más adelante topamos con esta frase: ". . . se advierte el mundo tal y como realmente es" (. . . the world can be spied just as it really is). Parece increíble que no conste en los diccionarios inglés-español de Velázquez y de Cuyás la expresión adverbial "tal y como" o "tal como": "Sucedió la cosa tal y como te la había yo predicho" (The thing occurred exactly as I had foretold it to you).

En el segundo párrafo del artículo de Fernández-Flórez encontramos esta oración: "Mis trabajos acerca de esta cuestión no persiguen ningún fin utilitario, sino especulativo". Para hablar con cabal corrección, debería haber dicho el escritor: ". . . no van en pos de ningún fin utilitario. . . ." Véase en lo que a continuación transcribo lo que dice el señor Cuervo sobre "perseguir":

Ahora cincuenta años, como antes, "perseguir la ciencia, la libertad, los los ideales" (esto en profecía, pues en esas calendas no corría mucho la palabra) hubiera sido una bellaquería; pero "ya lo hemos arreglado de otra manera", como decía el "Médico a palos" para sostener que el corazón está del lado derecho y el hígado del izquierdo.

Ahora todo aquello es pura algarabía de gente desmemoriada que no sabe que en castellano "perseguir" connota siempre hostilidad, intención dañada, o, a lo menos, fastidiosa insistencia, y lo toman, como el francés "poursuivre", por buscar o procurar con empeño, correr en busca o en pos de algo. Forzoso es convenir en que para traer galicismos, ha de haber siquiera el mérito de la buena elección: imitar frases que dicen lo contrario de lo que se intenta es pecado contra el buen sentido.

Ejemplos del uso corriente, universal: "Si me persiguieren mis enemigos, . . . El mal me defenderá" (Granada, "Mem. de la vida cristiana, Trat.", VII, pte. II); "Lejos de perseguir ni coartar en ningún sentido la libertad filosófica, dejó crecer y desarrollarse la mezquina planta del sensualismo" (Menéndez y Pelayo, "La ciencia española, tomo 1, p. 19); "Siempre las desdichas persiguen al buen ingenio" (Cervantes, "Quij.", pte. I, cap. XXII).

En la próxima Plática nos dirá el señor Cuervo cómo debe expresarse en español la idea del francés "poursuivre".

YOUTH CONVICTED IN DOUBLE SLAYING

WOLF POINT (Mont.) July 25. (AP) A jury in District Court here yesterday found Ferdinand Schlaps, 18 years of age, guilty of first-degree murder in connection with the slaying last May of Anton Geisler and wife, his employers. Schlaps had confessed he shot the Geislers to death on their farm near Homestead, to obtain a small sum of money and their automobile. The jury's verdict demanded the death penalty.

PureWater!

As Important as Pure Food.

That From Natural Springs Is Best

Pure water helps eliminate, keeps system clear of poisons, aids in offsetting acidosis. Doctors everywhere are saying, "Drink more of it."

But they mean water that is free from all injurious minerals—a natural, soft water.

Arrowhead Springs Water comes from deep, clean, uncontaminated mountain springs, at the base of Arrowhead Mountain.

Clear as crystal, it is famous as one of the purest waters of the world.

Phone WEstmore 4231 and ask to have a 5-gallon bottle delivered. If it's not everything we claim for it, it's FREE, for we will gladly refund your money if you are dissatisfied.

Folks are so partial to it that 7,000,000 gallons are consumed yearly in Los Angeles and vicinity alone—more than all other kinds combined. If it's "Arrowhead" you're sure it's pure.

Veteran Negro Police Officer to be Retired

Detective Lieutenant W. L. Stevens of the Newton street station, oldest negro police officer in the State, will retire on August 1 after twenty-one years of service under eighteen police chiefs.

He was appointed detective sergeant October 16, 1913 and later promoted to lieutenant of detectives. He is said to have been the first negro detective in the State and the first negro officer to be retired on a pension.

Stevens has participated in many important cases, and will leave the force with the high commendation of his superiors.

Lake Elsinore Visitor Drowns; Wife Overcome

Walter E. Archer, 35 years of age, 1246 Flower street, Walnut Park, drowned yesterday at Lake Elsinore according to a telephone report to Sheriff Harrod at the Sheriff's office. The report said Archer's body had been recovered.

Archer went to the lake, it was said, with his wife. She became ill from hysteria after the drowning.

ART MELBA ON STAGE

From a Friend Changed Noted Diva's Mind

Writing for a book that Nellie Melba published shortly after her debut in London, a singer might have retired some years earlier. She had met considerable success in opera in London when extraordinarily unfounded gossip about her began to circulate. She went to dine with the Countess, Lord Hardwicke being one of her first teachers and a good friend, mentioning the rumors, Melba announced.

"I am going to give up my career. The season is over I shall never sing again."

"Answer, Lord Hardwicke left," writes Melba in the London Chronicle, "to return a few days later bearing a book in which I had written my name.

"I said that when you get home,' and that night, in my own room, I opened the book to read. I was still reading when the light crept through the windows. I had forgot the persecution of all these years. I had made a name in the world. I had explained again of any lie, any loss."

WOMAN TAKES POISON IN CHURCH YARD

Mrs. Ida Wicklode, 60 years of age, 1246 Constance street, drank poison in the yard of the Christian Church at Alvarado street and Terrace last night, police said. According to Detective Stevens, she at first refused to tell her name. She was treated at the General Hospital by Police Surgeon Lenehar and later taken to the psychopathic ward of the General Hospital in a serious condition. Fearful of her act to ill health, and pain in one eye, they said, her arms are bent as if from paralysis.

Coffee will be served and the general public is invited.

CATCHES ALLIGATOR IN CANYON

Officer Routs Saurian From River

Pals After Scrap
Detective Lieutenant John Adams and His Alligator

DETECTIVE LIEUTENANT JOHN ADAMS of University Police Station put in a quiet Sunday afternoon yesterday fighting an alligator in a swampq area of the Santa Ana River in Santa Ana Canyon several miles east of Yorba.

The officer, in company with De La Vega and the latter's family, neighbors living at 1622 East Thirty-eight street, was returning from an automobile ride when the alligator was seen basking in the sun by the roadside.

The saurian, seeing the officer, immediately plunged into the swamp, unhesitatingly followed by Adams. The officer succeeded in getting a small rope around the alligator's neck, landing it after a terrific tussle. The captive then was given a ride in the automobile.

Adams placed the alligator, which is forty-two inches long, in a small pond in the front yard of his home at 1624 East Thirty-eight street, where it was viewed by large audiences of neighbors. A check of stripes on its tail resulted in its age being figured at fifteen to eighteen years. It weighs about fifty pounds.

Adams was unable to determine how the saurian got into Santa Ana Canyon. Residents of the vicinity were not slow to assert they had never seen alligators in the neighborhood. They believe it was eating small fish in the swamp.

The theory was hazarded by Adams that the alligator came to California when the Florida boom blew up. He may give it to a zoo.

GOES TO COLLECT FLIES

Dr. J. M. Aldrich, a curator of insects at Smithsonian Institute, has gone to Guatemala to collect flies. His purpose is to fill out th museum, which will contain a collection of Central American flies which parasitize other injurious creatures, and which are therefore useful to man.

TRAFFIC TO GET 'GO' SIGNAL

Bottlenecks of Vermont and Western Avenues Soon to be Widened Through Court Decision

Western avenue and Vermont avenue, the two most important north and south traffic arteries in the western section of the city, soon will be widened in places where the present narrow roadways form a "bottleneck" traffic.

This is disclosed by City Engineer Shaw, who states that following the completion of condemnation suits, plans have been prepare for the actual construction. Both projects are included in the Major Traffic Street Plan of the Traffic Commission.

Final judgment in the condemnation sui for the widening of Vermont avenue from San Marino avenue to Washington street was filed a few months ago. Plans for the construction now complete, call for the paving of a sixty-foot roadway from Ninth to Washington streets, with a lowering of the grade at San Marino. There will be ten-foot sidewalks, making a total width of sixty feet, instead of the present width of sixty feet.

Western avenue, now sixty feet wide between Pico and Washington, is to be widened to allow for a fifty-six-foot roadway and twelve-foot sidewalks. The final judgment for condemnation for this street has also been filed, and construction plans were completed last week. The ordinance of intention is now being drawn.

In the case of Vermont avenue, the ordinance of intention has been passed and the date for hearing protests set for August 5. Vermont avenue will be widened to 100 feet from Wilshire Boulevard to Hollywood Boulevard. The condemnation suit for the acquiring of additional property for this proceeding is now in court.

Western avenue will also be widened to eighty feet from Twenty-fourth street to Santa Barbara avenue. The final ordinance has been passed, and the City Engineering Department now is making a search of title preparatory to the filing of the condemnation suits.

GUIDING ROYALTY SOLDIER'S SPECIALTY

Col. O. N. Solbert

Col. Oscar Solbert, U.S.A., retired, comes from a long line of American soldiers, but, he admitted Saturday morning just before the train carrying the Crown Prince and Princess of Sweden left for Yosemite Valley, is developing a royal complex. Also he also admits is not bad at all. It all comes about through the colonel's familiarity with foreign princes and crowns and has resulted in his appointment as American official escort to visiting royalty. The colonel is President Coolidge's personal representative on the present American tour of the Swedish royal couple, and it is the second time within two years that he has been named the chief aide to the visiting its visits in this country. [illegible] first assignment being with [illegible] Edward, the Prince of Wales, during the latter's visit here in December of 1924.

However, the colonel's appointment as an escort of visiting crowned heads is not merely due to his knowledge of the countries from which they come, or even the visits just because it was Col. Solbert who engineered both the visit of the Crown Prince and Princess and that of the Prince of Wales.

It was while he was an attache of the American Embassy in London that Col. Solbert first met the Prince of Wales and also Crown Princess Adolphus of Sweden. In the case of the former, their meeting resulted into a friendship that the colonel's friends declare has been cemented. And in the case of the latter, consideration between the army officer and the Crown Prince resulted in the former receiving an invitation to visit the royal house of Sweden.

Early in 1924, Col. Solbert, then a major, was transferred to his own request and immediately placed in charge of the White House police force. It was while serving in this capacity that he was approached and made aside to President Coolidge.

FIND NEW ORMISTON TRAIL WITH MYSTERIOUS WOMAN

Witnesses Say ex-Temple Operator and Goggled Companion Stayed in Carmel Retreat Ten Days

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
BY READ KENDALL

MONTEREY, July 25 (Exclusive)—Identification of Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at Angelus Temple and long sought for questioning in connection with the mysterious disappearance on May 18 of Aimee Semple McPherson, as the man who occupied a bungalow here from May 19 until May 29 in company with a mysterious goggled woman, was declared positively established here tonight following a three-day investigation by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ryan of Los Angeles.

The new information marked a startling turn in the investigation of the evangelist's disappearance, and, according to Monterey county officials, also aids in establishing beyond question the identity of Ormiston as the mysterious man accompanied by a veiled and goggled woman in a flight from Salinas to Santa Barbara on May 29.

Identification of Ormiston was made through Mrs. Daisy Bostick and Miss Viola Cofer, employees of the Carmel Realty Company, located in Carmel, four miles west of here, and where the mysterious couple rented one of the most pretentious of the many cottages in this section.

STATEMENT UNDER OATH

According to the statement issued under oath today to Mr. Ryan, Dist.-Atty. Campbell and Chief of Police Gabrielson of Monterey, Ormiston, under the name of McIntire, applied to Mrs. Bostick on May 14 for a house in the most "secluded" spot she could find. Mrs. Bostick told officials that she procured a list of several houses, and after a six or seven-hour search, in which Ormiston refused several places because they were not isolated enough, finally selected a beautiful six-room house owned by H. C. Benedict of Carmel.

At the time Ormiston, according to Mrs. Bostick, told her that he had just arrived from Seattle, where he also told her he had just purchased the blue Chrysler coupe which he was driving at the time.

Ormiston's acceptance of the house was expedited because of the high rock fence surrounding it, the realty employee told Ryan.

After accepting the Benedict home, Ormiston, Mrs. Bostick told Ryan, deposited $100 and told her he would pay the balance of the rent when he returned from Los Angeles and San Diego, where he was to meet his wife, who he said was ill. The house was rented for a three-month period, from May 19 to August 19.

ARRIVED MAY 19

The realty people were told by the renter that he would return either late on the night of May 18, or early morning of the 19th, the blue coupe with its mysterious couple arriving at the house at 4 a.m., on May 19.

The arrival at the bungalow was recounted to the officals by Mr. and Mrs. Percy Parks, who lived next door. According to their account, their baby, which was two weeks old then, became ill during the early morning hours and Mrs. Parks was forced to arise to heat water for it. She had just entered her kitchen when lights of a coupe flashed through the window and the car turned into the house next door. Mrs. Parks continued to observe the couple over the fence top until they had disappeared in the house.

Immediately after entering the house all shades were drawn and later all curtains in the house were found pinned together, the shades never again being raised during the time the couple occupied it.

Later in the morning of their arrival, Mr. Benedict, who had been told by the realty firm that the house had been rented by newlyweds, called to ascertain whether everything was

EVANGELIST CHAMPIONED AS SHULER VOICES DOUBT

Temple Visitor Tells of New Desert Huts

Appearing before a filled auditorium at Angelus Temple as an uninvited but none the less heartily welcomed guest, Dr. Joseph E. Howard, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of Douglas, Ariz., and among the first to greet Mrs. Aimee McPherson when she reappeared there more than a month ago, yesterday afternoon emphatically declared his friendship for and belief in the widely-known proponent of "The Four Square Gospel."

"I had seen her five years before and when I saw her there in the hospital at Douglas, it seemed to me like she had aged twenty years," he said. He declared that he had talked with Officer Cook and that the latter had sent in an affidavit attesting to the state of physical exhaustion of Mrs. McPherson when she arrived there.

He expressed the belief that her physical condition, coupled with a period of unconsciousness, was "responsible for the incongruity or apparent incongruity of some statements made by her." A wonder it was to him, he added, that Mrs. McPherson had remembered as much of her experiences as she did.

AIDED SHACK HUNT

Dr. Howard, who also is president of the Cochise Ministerial Alliance, went with the searching party when on several occasions it sought the shack in which he believes Mrs. McPherson was held a prisoner by kidnapers. "And I am here to say that recently there have been found four shacks any one of which, officers admit, may be that in which Sister McPherson was held captive," he resumed.

"Furthermore, I will say that the country about Douglas is a strange, unusual type; for some years it was the hiding place of bandits. On one of these expeditions to locate the shack officers came upon two stills and this was significant because, if those stills were so well hidden as to escape the eye of United States officers, then it is evident that other things might escape the eyes of even veteran plainsmen.

"You have read in the papers the statement of the Mayor of Agua Prieta—that she was first seen about four miles out of Agua Prieta—that they found the automobile tracks and that Mrs. McPherson was dumped out at that point. I have the word of C. E. Cross, who says he traced her steps for three and one-half miles away from that shack and toward Niggerhead."

TELLS OF TRACKS

Dr. Howard then related that several officers had seen what they believed to be a woman's footprint extending "at least nine miles farther," and that he had encountered a Mexican who had traced the apparent footprints of a woman a distance of three and one-half miles from that point.

He took issue with the statement of the Agua Prieta Mayor in that he did not believe, asserted Dr. Howard, that the lights of the city could have been visible to Mrs. McPherson from the guard shack in which she is said to have taken shelter.

As for her shoes being unscuffed and her clothing not so torn nor soiled as some might expect, the Douglas pastor declared that he himself had trekked on the desert and

Grand Jury Gag Under Attack by Pastor

An attack on "this damnable policy of silence" in respect to the failure of the grand jury to file a comprehensive report on its three-weeks investigation of Aimee Semple McPherson's story of her kidnaping was launched yesterday afternoon by Rev. R. P. Shuler before a crowd of more than 3000 persons in Trinity Methodist Church.

Mr. Shuler declared that a great crime had been committed as the result of Superior Judge Kestel's instructions to the grand jury to eliminate a full report in the event the kidnapers were not indicted.

"If Mrs. McPherson's story is true," he shouted, "then an infamous injustice has been done her, for she is the butt of derision and ridicule and every humorist in the country is busy concocting jokes and verses. But if her story is false, and if she has fabricated the whole affair for purposes of her own, then an outrage has been committed against true Christianity."

DOUBTS STORY

Mr. Shuler made it clear that he did not believe portions of Mrs. McPherson's story of her abduction, saying there was no "shack in the desert," and pointing out what he called discrepancies in her story of the chloroforming, her life with her abductors, her physical condition and the condition of her clothing when she appeared at Douglas, Ariz.

"It is against Christianity and Christ that the shafts of ridicule are directed," he declared, while deep "Amens" rose from the congregation. "If her story is false then it is the churches of Christ that suffer. The Angelus Temple movement will go on. Why, she'll cash in another $1,000,000 in the next five years. She is crying persecution, persecution' and she will bring in hundreds of deluded persons.

Mr. Shuler began his meeting informally by removing his coat and advising the men of the congregation to do likewise. He took up a collection which he said would be devoted to a reprint of a pamphlet he issued two years ago concerning Angelus Temple, to which he has added about fifty pages.

WOMAN REBUFFED

A young woman rose in the congregation shortly after he began and asked permission to speak on behalf of Mrs. McPherson. Mr. Shuler said he would not turn his meeting into an open forum, and suggested that the young woman speak in Mrs. McPherson's own temple. He offered Dist.-Atty. Keyes and Judge Keetch the opportunity to respond, but they were not present.

Mr. Keyes was attacked along with Judge Keetch for the silence of the grand jury. Mr. Shuler held himself forth as the champion of free speech, referring to a meeting between four judges and two representatives of the Bar Association, at which time, he said, they discused the question of filing contempt charges against him.

Mr. Shuler intimated that Mrs. McPherson has been able to assemble a large political following to prevent attack upon her story. He said Superior Judge Hardy had been extremely active in Mrs. McPherson's interest, and declared that Superior

FILM COMEDIAN TAKES BRIDE

Bert Roach Weds Gladys Johnstone

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Roach

MISS GLADYS JOHNSTONE became the bride of Bert Roach, film comedian, yesterday afternoon at the Beverly Hill home of Mrs. Erle Kenton, sister of the groom.

The wedding was a simple one with only members of the two families and a few intimate friends attending. The bride was attended by Mrs. Kenton, and Mr. Kenton, motion-picture director, acted as best man. Rev. E. P. Ryland of Los Angeles performed the ceremony.

Miss Johnstone and Roach have known each other for two years, and announced their engagement a little more than a year ago. They are moving immediately into their new home in Beverly Hills, but plan to take a delayed honeymoon when the actor's work permits. At present Roach is finishing a leading role in "Tin Hats" at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, where he is under contract.

WATER SURVEY FUND ASKED

Chamber of Commerce Stresses Need of Continuing Work Throughout California

Efforts to have the State Legislature appropriate sufficient funds to insure a continuation of study of the water resources of the State, will be made by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce board of directors, it was revealed yesterday in a resolution adopted at the meeting of the board last Thursday night. Provisions for such an appropriation is contained in the statutes of 1921, when $200,000 for a water survey by the State Dppartment of Public Works was set aside.

Particular effort will be directed toward obtaining data of a fundamental nature and stream gauging, chamber officials announced.

According to chamber officials, the 1921 appropriation, while inadequate to complete the task, produced a comprehensive plan for the maximum conservation of State's waters.

The report of that survey described

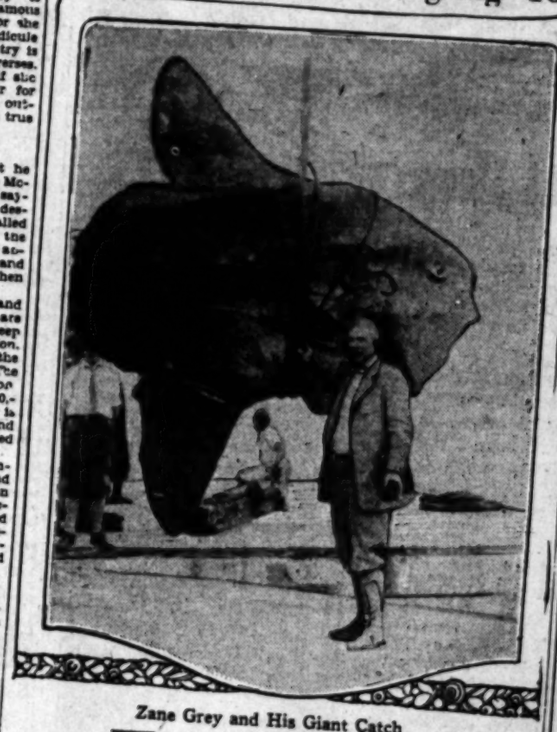
NOVELIST LANDS SEA MONSTER

Brings in Sun Fish Weighing Ton



Zane Grey and His Giant Catch

AVALON (Catalina) July 25.—Zane Grey, the novelist-sportsman, has made his biggest catch of all time, a monster sunfish, weighing more than 2000 poundr. The huge fish was brought to the pleasure pier here and Mr. Grey, when questioned regarding details of bringing the leviathan to gaff, smilingly explained that he towed the monster ashore to give the thousands of Catalina visitors a thrill and to get the thing out of the way so he might be able to catch a broadbill swordfish.

The big sunfish was seen lying on the surface of the sea in the Channel half-way between Catalina and Balboa by Mr. Grey and his brother, R. C. Grey. They observed its tactics for a time and noted that it apparently was unable to handle itself and sink, probably having remained on top of the water until inflated much like a balloon. Mr. Grey gaffed the sunfish with his regular fish gaff and made the rope fast to his fishing cruiser the "Gladiator," and towed the big catch to Avalon where it was viewed by thousands of spectators. Too heavy to hoist on the game-fish derrick at the pleasure pier, the sunfish had to be towed to Sugar Loaf, where it was noisted out of the water by one of the big derricks used for unloading mining equipment.

Mr. Grey is having the sunfish mounted by Mrs. Charles Parker of Catalina for scientific preservation.

WHEN women judge women, the result is extraordinarily interesting.

They are so—what shall I say—so horrifyingly shrewd.

"AND NOW—THIS"

Not long ago I received a very pitiful letter from a middle-aged woman whose husband had fallen in love with somebody else.

She had persuaded him to pull up stakes and come to California to get away from the charmer. But, unfortunately, the charmer has now come trailing after. And is writing the wife letters, begging her to get a divorce that the true lovers may marry.

"I have devoted my life to him—and now this," the wife wrote.

BACK TO MAMA

Cutting off the signature, I showed the letter to two women.

One is the wife of a famous writer—herself a shrewd, sagacious woman—a woman of paris—of brains and force.

"She is in tough luck," she said, handing back the letter.

"What do you think she had best do?"

"Stick it out; swallow the heartache and wait until he comes back to mama. That's what he will do. Judging from the age of the people, he isn't so much in love as he is pathetically hanging on to the last gleam of his youth. He will come back, and they will both be a little sadder. And he will be sadder than she. For he will be licked."

THWARTED LOVE

I showed the letter to another woman. She is a very young girl, but already famous as a movie star and a beauty. She has lived a sheltered life, but wisdom, tolerance and faith shine from wide eyes.

"She never really loved him," she said with finality. "Somewhere in the course of her married life, she denied him a love that he ached for. And now, weary of waiting, he has leaped the fence and has wandered off into the sweet-scented fields of romance. I don't feel half as sorry for her as I do for him. She is alarmed, but he is starved."

PITY OF WOMEN

The pity of women is a curious commodity. Well, also that of men.

Generally speaking, men do not feel sorry for anyone who went into a situation, as the saying is, with his eyes open.

It was women, not men, who sympathized with Clara Phillips. It seems to be the pathetic predicament that appeals to the pity of women. What wrings the heart of men is the actual sight of sorrow. That is to say, tears.

Tears do not affect women very much because they know, in nine cases out of ten, the tears of women come from self-pity.

TORTURED TEARS

I have to judge the capacity of men for pity by myself.

I have seen a whole city of people turned out of their homes by a great disaster without much emotion.

But I have been absolutely tortured to the point of misery by seeing a little girl cry at a high-school party because her dress looked cheap and shabby compared with those of richer girls.

The truth is, these flappers of ours are so sweet and so brave that if they don't have everything they want, it is entirely too much to bear.

LIGHTS REQUESTED

The installation of ornamental lights on San Marino street from Ardmore avenue to Western avenue has been requested of the City Council by property owners.

FAR-EAST SONGS FEATURE AT KHJ

Japan, China, India, Arabia Numbers Broadcast

Program at Noon Hour Only One for Today

Disabled Veterans Visited by "The Times" Artists

BY MAE PRYCE BROOKS

A novel entertainment was given at the tower studio last evening. On the program were songs in Japanese, Chinese, Hindoo and Arabic, in addition to the usual concert. The Orpheus Four, continually striving to make their Sunday-evening broadcast just a little different, gave their usual half-hour of hymns, then presented Marguerite Turnbull, contralto and pupil of Sam Glasse, in songs in the dialect of the Gujerats of India. Miss Turnbull, as the daughter of a missionary, lived in India for thirteen years, going there when only 1 year of age and learning the Gujerati dialect when but a tiny child. She also told some of the legends of the East Indians.

The Chinese songs were sung by Arthur Hays, who has lived in China for fifteen years.

SINGS NIPPON LYRICS

The Japanese Association sent Miss Ishi Kami to sing the lyrics of her native land, and they were beautifully done.

Myra Hatch, who formerly lived in Palestine, gave some songs in Arabic. She also gave the muezzin's call to prayer, wierd and interesting.

The Orpheus Four then sang their groups, including Americanized songs of India, Japan, China and Arabia.

The balance of the program was furnished by Ethel Glassman Clark, soprano, a splendid broadcast artist; Frederick MacMurray with his viola, Charles Dimond, who plays the steel guitar, that calls to mind coral isles and wave-lapped shores, and the little concert pianist of the studio—Mona Content.

NOON-HOUR BROADCAST

Today our only program will be the noon-hour broadcast, which will bring the Piggly Wiggly Girls, James Neill Northe, tenor; Isofarad Pat Lee, popular singer, and Eddie Miller's Dixie Boys.

It is gratifying to know that KHJ artists are willing to give of their gifts to those who are not able to get out to enjoy things. The disabled veterans at the new San Fernando Hospital were entertained on Friday and Saturday evenings by KHJ's friends. On Friday a merry group, comprising E. K. Barnes, Freeman Lang, Louis Klein and Lenore Killian, contralto, carried cheer to the boys. On Saturday Roberts's Golden State Band went out to play for them. On the same program were Uncle Remus (E. M. Bonnell) and Constance Jeanette McCoy, "Sweet Maria of KHJ," pupil of Marshall Stedman.

MRS. LOOMIS LEAVES ESTATE OF $100,000 in June of 1924 by representatives of the international polo matches, with the request that he use his influence to induce the Prince of Wales to visit this country in September of the same year and attend the games. His overtures to Edward proved successful, and immediately after the British heir accepted, the White House announced that Col. Solbert would be the visitor's official aide during his stay in this country.

SOLDIER ROYAL VISITORS' GUIDE

Early last year Col. Solbert received his second commission to induce a royal household member to visit this country. At that time a committee representing a national Swedish society heard of the army officer's success in bringing about the Prince of Wales' visit and asked him to use his "magic" upon Crown Prince Adolphus and Princess Louise of Sweden. Although rather dubious about the attempt, the officer declared he was game to try anything, and that it couldn't be worse than the war, in which he served eighteen months overseas. Obtaining leave of absence, Col. Solbert went to Stockholm, where he readily gained an audience with Adolphus by announcing that he was paying the call which the Crown Prince had invited several years before in London.

While the Swedish Prince at first felt that he could not take the trip within the next two or three years, as Col. Solbert pictured the desire of thousands of his countrymen now living here who were anticipating the visit, the Prince gradually weakened in his resistance and within two weeks agreed to come.

After getting the acceptance in writing the American returned home, where he was immediately commissioned by both President Coolidge and the Swedish committee, as well as the Swedish Embassy, to prepare the itinerary of the present tour.

Col. Solbert lives in Washington and has a 6-year-old son who he declares plans to become a general and possibly handle the royal entourages of the future.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE OVER MONEY WORRIES

The body of Miss Effie M. Nelson, about 45 years of age, was found yesterday in a gas-filled bathroom at 5624 Buchanan street. The cracks of the room had been filled up and the door locked. No note was found, but notices that her automobile and furniture had been repossessed and another directing her to move, were found in the room, police said. Neighbors said Miss Nelson had not been seen since Tuesday, and they investigated and found the doors locked; police were notified and forced an entrance. Miss Nelson's body was sent to the county morgue. Police have been unable to discover any relatives.

JUGO-SLAVS GREET PRELATE

Solemn pontifical mass was celebrated at St. Anthony's Church here yesterday by Dr. Nokola M. Dobrechich, Archbishop of Jugo-Slavia and national hero during the World War. Greeted here on Saturday by Jugo-Slavs upon his arrival from Chicago, where he was a leading figure in the Eucharistic Convention, he was yesterday greeted by a church filled to overflowing.

Appropriate words of introduction and praise were spoken by Rev. Fr. Anton Glumac, pastor of St. Anthony's Church, and who with Rev. Fr. Bernard Dolan, participated in the ceremony as a deacon of honor. Archbishop Dobrechich then spoke of patriotic adherence to American principles and loyalty to church; he spoke in the mother tongue.

Also participating in the celebration of the service were Msgr. Francis Conaty, pastor of the Church of Immaculate Conception of this city; Rev. Thomas K. Gorman, deacon of the mass, and Sub-deacon Stephen Emidia.

Dr. Dobrechich will remain in Los Angeles until the latter part of the week as the guest of Joseph Scott. Yesterday he was the honored luncheon guest of Bishop Cantwell at the latter's home.

Because the celebrated churchman is unusually interested in agricultural conditions, he will be taken on an inspection tour of many ranches and groves during his stay.

was "satisfied one's shoes need not be scuffed nor clothing torn."

"The attitude of the press—I shall not attempt to explain it; it has not been explained to me," he continued, "but it may be illustrated in this way. It was told to me (It is wise to put it that way) that one of the reporters of one of the Los Angeles papers said, 'We haven't got—' (and he used very vile language and called your pastor a very vile name) '—We haven't got her yet, but we're going to get her.'

DEVIL GETTING MAD

"I also saw an editorial—in large headlines—in one of the papers which ran, 'The Danger of McPhersonism.' There is no question about it, your church is stirring this country. The devil's getting mad."

In conclusion he said that "If the success of Angelus Temple is hypnotism, then I say that a few more of us pastors ought to have the same thing."

In introducing him, Mrs. McPherson stated that Dr. Howard had come from Douglas, unsolicited, paying his own way, but added: "I feel sure that the good friends of Angelus Temple will not let it be that way."

Rev. T. H. Weaver, pastor of the First Christian Church of Douglas, accompanied Mr. Howard here and was introduced at the temple last night. He also announced his belief in Mrs. McPherson's story.

Although many requests were received by Mrs. McPherson to comment on the mass meeting held yesterday by Rev. Robert P. Shuler, demanding that the grand jury record of the McPherson case investigation be made public, the evangelist dismissed the requests with the statement that "a dog may bark at a queen, but the queen does not necessarily have to bark back at the dog."

GRAND JURY SILENCE ATTACKED BY SHULER

Judge Gates was "enamored" of the Temple movement. Mayor Cryer and Boyle Workman, president of the City Council, were declared by Mr. Shuler to be close friends of Mrs. McPherson.

KEYES BELITTLED

He derided Keyes for acquiescing to the jury's short report after Keyes had answered the letter of the Church Federation, assuring them of a full investigation and comprehensive report. Some "outside source," he said, must have advised and pressed Judge Keetch to issue his instructions to the jury.

He referred to Judge Keetch's action as "a horrible iniquity." He spoke of the judge's "heavy hand" and said he should see to it that the public received the report of the Douglas Chief of Police, which was sent to Los Angeles.

"Poor Asa Keyes," he said, "had hold of a hot potato and didn't know what to do with it. Keyes is the most helpless man in Los Angeles county in a crisis. He's as helpless as a baby. I know him well and there's mighty little to him."

Mr. Shuler prophesied that several months from now the detective agency employed by Mrs. McPherson, which, he said, had collected the evidence in 5000 divorce cases, would discover the kidnapers, "Steve" and "Rose," in some foreign country, where they would sign confessions and admit their sin.

At their homes Judge Keetch and Dist.-Atty. Keyes were reported out of the city last night and could not be reached for statements.

WATER SURVEY FUND SOUGHT

an economic program of physical works for importation of water into Tulare county, while a survey by chambers of commerce from all sections of the State shows that other sections of San Joaquin Valley and Southern California are approaching conditions similar to those found in Tulare county. Chamber officials contend that these other sections also can have permanent relief only through extensive works that require complete co-ordination of programs for constructing and distributing new supplies. Present information is inadequate to carry out a program of this nature, the chamber board declares in its report.

The Legislature of 1925 appropriated an additional $150,000 to carry on this study and a report of the progress is to be made at the next session.

According to President Bent, of the local chamber, the plan to ask for continued surveys was started following exhaustive engineering study and a report issued by the organization's committee composed of Col. Charles T. Leeds, A. L. Sonderegger, J. B. Lippincott, D. W. Murphy, L. C. Hill and Dyer B. Holmes. Their report was approved by the water and power resources committee of the chamber.

MYSTERY OF BONE SACK DEEPENING

Wife of Osteopath Sought to Explain Grewsome Find Said to be Missing

The mystery of the bag of bones found in a garage at the rear of a house at 1408 West Sixty-eighth street deepened yesterday when police detectives learned that the wife of the osteopath, Dr. Elma J. Bare, who is said to have rented the premises, and who disappeared three weeks before his rent was up, also is missing.

According to Detective Lieutenant Thompson of the Seventy-seventh-street Police Station, the doctor occupied the house for one month and a week after depositing two months' rent with the owner, Edward L. Fritt. His wife was with him during the occupancy of the house, Thompson stated, but was not seen with him the last time he was seen in the house by neighbors.

Detective Lieutenants Jarvis and Craig of the central homicide squad, who made the preliminary investigation, stated that the bones may have been used for medical purposes.

The bones were those of a woman between 40 and 45 years of age and about five feet, ten inches in height, according to County Autopsy Surgeon Webb.

BRACES NOT NEEDED IN NEW CITY HALL

The solid, square structure of the Hall of Justice and the heavy steel members used in its frame render unnecessary any special earthquake bracing, the Board of Supervisors is informed in a letter from the McClintic-Marshall Company of California, fabricators of the steel in the building. The letter, it was explained, was written to correct published criticisms of the design of the Hall of Justice.

NEW ORMISTON TRAIL PICKED UP

to their satisfaction, including the profusion of floral decorations which Mr. Benedict had prepared the previous night for the supposed newlyweds.

Ormiston, according to Benedict's account, met him at the back door and stated that they were well satisfied. Mr. Benedict, he told officers, noted the woman standing in the background when Ormiston opened the kitchen door, but due to the darkness of the interior he did not get a good description of the woman.

WOMAN IN SECLUSION

For several days after their arrival the woman did not leave the house, Ormiston explaining that she was seriously ill and did not wish to be disturbed. However, a few days later she left the house for several short trips, always wearing goggles and a tight-fitting turban pulled well down over her head.

Although Ormiston is asserted by officers to have signed for the rent and groceries as "McIntire," he signed deposit slips for gas and lights as "McIntyre."

On the morning of May 29, Mr. Benedict returned to the bungalow and found that the couple had mysteriously disappeared. However, the man had informed Miss Cofer that he was leaving for San Francisco on a business journey and that his wife would remain behind, and that if he sent any messages he inquired if Miss Cofer would deliver them. However, Mr. Benedict called at the house on May 29 and found that both of his renters had disappeared. Later that day he received a letter from Salinas, postmarked at 6 a.m., stating that they were sorry to leave in a rush, but that the man's mother was seriously ill in New York City. The letter also stated that if Mr. Benedict desired to communicate with him that he could address him care of the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York City. The letter was written on a typewriter, the name being signed by type, and spelled "McIntyre."

LETTER RETURNED

Benedict, according to his account to the officials, wrote a letter to the address given and it was returned as uncalled for. The return postmark was June 21. However, a letter postmarked New York City three days previously, June 18, written on stationery of the same hotel and signed by "McIntire," was received by Mr. Benedict requesting a refund of $150 of the $450 paid for the three months' rent, the letter explaining the couple were unable to return. Mr. Benedict mailed them a cashier's check for the amount, which has not been cashed to date, the latter told Ryan.

More than a half-dozen persons around Carmel, with whom officers say Ormiston became acquainted with, declared in their statements issued to the authorities that the man had a pleasing personality and rapidly was gaining many friends around the resort. For ten days, residents say, his blue Chrysler coupe was seen running in and out of the town.

The former Angelus Temple radio man is declared by officers to have been positively identified as the man who drove into the Salinas Garage late on the night of May 28, and called for it a few hours later, 1:30 o'clock a.m., May 29. At the time he announced he was driving north, but his movements were traced through San Luis Obispo and into Santa Barbara nearly twenty-four hours later, where all trace of him was lost.

BATH SUIT ON LINE

The new clews in the mystery of the evangelist's disappearance were developed from meager clews supplied Dist.-Atty. Campbell and Chief of Police Gabrielson during the visit of Deputy Ryan to the north several days ago. At that time Ryan's information took him from Salinas into Monterey, but due to the necessity of returning for the grand jury's investigation, he placed his clews in the hands of the northern officers.

Yesterday afternoon the authorities obtained seven statements under oath from Monterey residents, and three other witnesses, whose names would not be revealed at this time, are said to have vital information pertaining to the case.

It was learned that in the statement taken from Mr. Benedict, he told officers that on the morning of his first arrival a bathing suit was hanging on the clothes line in the rear of the house.

RYAN REFUSES TO TALK

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ryan refused to make a statement as to the reports issued by the Monterey officials declaring that he was awaiting word from Dist.-Atty. Keyes, and that his information was being sent to Los Angeles.

It was later learned that the identification of the woman is dependent upon three witnesses, one of whom is believed to be the grocery boy who delivered to the house. The names of all are being withheld. One witness, it is understood, described the woman as "5 feet 6 or 7 inches tall, with thick ankles."

A radio set and three newspapers were found on the premises. The papers included the Los Angeles Times, the San Francisco Call and the Pennsenular Herald, all of Wednesday, May 26. It was learned that the couple attempted to obtain a paper from Los Angeles of May 19, but were unable to do so.

All San Francisco papers were ordered delivered as fast as received, through the grocery store where supplies were purchased, it was learned from the proprietor.

The witnesses who have positively identified Ormiston as the man declared it impossible to be mistaken due to his limp, prominent ears, bald spot, and gray suit, according to Monterey officials.

ATTORNEY DENIES THAT PASTOR WAS IN CARMEL

When Arthur L. Veitch, attorney for Mrs. McPherson, heard of the report in Carmel he made the following statement:

"Mrs. McPherson was not in Carmel or its vicinity at any of the times referred to in the story ema ating from Carmel—particularly during any of the time she was absent from this city.

"Mrs. McPherson is not interested in the movements of Mr. Kenneth G. Ormiston or the identity of any woman or women, goggled or otherwise, who may have been in his company at any time except in so far as gossip has undertaken to link such circumstances with the facts of the kidnaping of Mrs. McPherson.

"Proof of the movements of Mr. Ormiston or the identity of his companion or companions would demonstrate the falsity of the gossip referred to."

Suspect Seeks Reduced Bail in Auto Death

Arguments will be heard today by Judge Burnell regarding an application for reduction of bail, now amounting to $25,000, for William McKee, accused of manslaughter and of being a "hit-and-run" driver.

It is charged that on November 4, last, McKee ran into and killed Dora M. Fleming, and failed to stop and render her aid. He was later arrested, but was released on heavy bail.

Opposition to the reduction will be made by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Kemp, who will prosecute the case.

DR. S. G. INMAN TO SPEAK

Dr. Samuel Guy Inman, well-known authority on both South America and Mexico, a lecturer on international law at Columbia University and author of several books on the subject, will address a joint meeting of the Council on International Relations and the Los Angeles City Club at the latter's banquet hall next Wednesday noon. He will speak on "Our Relations with South America."

An Unusual Service For "Unusual" Feet

You, perhaps, have an unusual foot. "Unusual" because it is proportioned different than the average foot.

With Mellinkoff's Arch Relief Shoes we are prepared to fit those unusual feet that find the ordinary shoe "too tight here," "too loose there," a good fit at one point, a poor fit at another.

Built over a special measurement last, with a normal toe part and a smaller than usual instep back.

Your toes are not cramped, nor do your heels slip in the shoes, as we fit them, for if our measurements show that the heel is smaller in proportion to the ball of your foot, we fit you to our combination last with a heel measurement several sizes smaller than the ball.

Regardless of what your foot measures, we can supply a shoe to fit it.

Sim Crabill Says

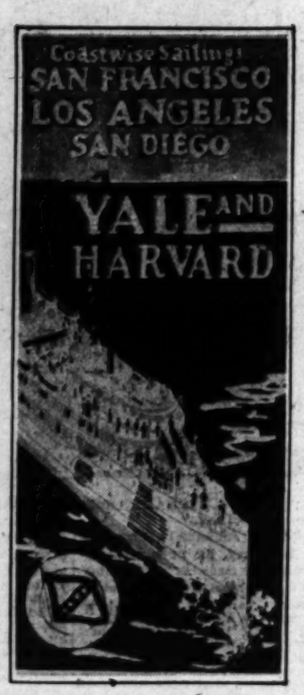
"They've got to 'walk the plank' in goodly numbers if the passenger steamship companies are to put by any treasure. And as a 'persuader,' Direct Advertising has no equal."



WELL designed and printed literature is an absolutely essential part of successful passenger steamship advertising. By no other means can a provider of water travel facilities tell the necessarily complete, colorful and convincing story of what it has to offer.

This is no less true of many other advertisers, some of whom have yet to recognize the fact.

Many of the Southwest's most successful advertisers depend upon Times-Mirror Printing & Binding House for the printing of their Direct Advertising — folders, booklets, blotters, catalogues, display cards, broadsides, and the like. Many, too, depend upon our special Service Department which exists solely to assist in the planning and preparation of every kind of printed salesman.

STORIES OF LOS ANGELES

Sidewalks of Mud—or Dust

"The City Council did a good thing in compelling every property owner on Main Street, as far south as Third, to lay stone or Brea sidewalks."
L. A. Newspaper, March 29, 1884

EARLY Los Angeles sidewalks were like the early streets—just plain dirt, dusty in dry weather and muddy in wet.

In 1860, John Temple tried the experiment of a sidewalk made of bricks covered with Brea asphalt and sprinkled with sand.

Sidewalks of stone, brick, and boards later made their appearance in scattered instances, but wooden walks were condemned by one newspaper as a "waste of time and money."

Sidewalks perform a sort of utility service in a community; and the City Council, in 1884, in ordering sidewalks laid, acted somewhat as a public utility regulating body.

Today, in like manner, the California Railroad Commission regulates the entire business of public utility companies such as Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, in such a way as to insure the public the best quality service at fair and reasonable rates.

SPECTORS TO CE DRAIN QUIZ

enty or More Expected to Testify at Hearing Today

Inquiry Will Sift Asserted Personnel Reassignments

Report to State Jefferson Extras Not Authorized

Twenty or more city public works inspectors who were assigned to the West Adams improvement are expected to testify this afternoon and possibly this evening before the City Council's Public Works Committee, which is investigating the facts in connection with Contractor Peter B. Kyne's bill of $298,981 for "extras" on the storm-drain part of the improvement. The bill of extras, which is greater than the entire contract price for the storm drain, caused more than 1000 property owners in the West Adams district to protest to the Council and as a result confirmation of the $1,072,000 assessment, which included the bill of storm-drain "extras," is being withheld.

ACTION PREDICTED

It was considered almost certain at the City Hall that the committee, which may complete its investigation this week, will render a strong report in which a definite "bill of particulars" will be presented as reasons for recommending that the assessment be confirmed, excluding in full or in part the bill of storm-drain "extras." If the Council adopts the report and the contractor is dissatisfied with the Council's action, he may then sue for the extras.

The purpose of summoning the inspectors, the members of the committee said, was to determine if it was true, as reported, that several inspectors asked to be assigned to other jobs because of the manner in which the West Adams job was being handled, and that inspectors were taken from the job and others assigned at the request of the contractor. Among those to be called is Chief Inspector Markell and Inspector Bainville, in charge in the absence of the Inspector of Public Works assigning inspectors to the various public improvements under construction.

BOOK TO FILE REPORT

In connection with the unauthorized $60,000 West Jefferson street storm-drain extras, Public Works Inspector Rook will file with the Board of Public Works today a report stating that, as early as June 19, the contractor was informed by Inspector Rook under that "no rock mattress or tile subdrain would be laid except at his (the contractor's) own expense." On July 23, Inspector Rook's report said, City Construction Engineer Cortelyou informed the committee that any of the drainage system of rock mattress the contractor was then constructing was being "done without authority from me (him) and upon his (the contractor's) own responsibility." The purport of Inspector Rook's statement was to show that the West Jefferson street extra foundation work was not directed by the Inspector of Public Works and that the inspector had notified the contractor that the latter would not be paid for the work.

Local Chamber Plans for Ninth Trip to Islands

Charles P. Boyer, field secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has again been selected to head the chamber excursion to the Hawaiian Islands in October, according to Arthur S. Bent, president of the organization, who said that the chamber directorate has passed on the proposal to run another trip this year.

The coming excursion will mark the seventh time Mr. Boyer has headed the chamber party to the Islands, and he is well known in the Islands as he is throughout the State of California, it is stated.

Plans for the excursion in October were instigated at the request of several prominent members of the chamber who expressed their desire to take a belated vacation in the Islands, and suggested this means of making an excursion party. This will be the ninth Chamber of Commerce excursion and business tour to be run to this destination.

The trip to and from the Islands, as well as several interisland trips, will be made aboard the steamship City of Los Angeles.

Birnbaum to Succeed Self, Observers Say

A president of the Police Commission will be elected when that body holds its regular meeting tomorrow morning. Although none of the commissioners will commit themselves, indications are that I. W. Birnbaum will be named to succeed himself.

The election will be held in accordance with the provisions of the city charter, which sets the last week of July as the time for the election of officers of the various commissions. The terms are for one year.

Birnbaum's reappointment to the Police Commission for a five-year term was recently confirmed by the City Council.

Commissioner Foss served during the fiscal year just closed as vice-president, and is slated to succeed himself, according to present indications.

Parents to Get Estate Left by Actor C. Foote

Courtney Foote, stage and screen actor, who died March 4, 1925, in Rome, Italy, left a $64,361 estate to be divided equally between his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Foote, according to an inheritance-tax report on file in the offices of State Controller Riley.

The property consisted largely of cash and bonds, according to the report, which set the California inheritance tax at $136. Foote was a resident of Southern California, but had appeared several times on the Russian stage, according to inheritance-tax appraisers.

THOUSANDS TAKE PART IN NOVENA

Procession for Feast of St. Ann at Santa Monica Marked by Solemnity

SANTA MONICA, July 25.—Four thousand persons this afternoon took part in the procession of the Novena for the Feast of St. Ann, which has been in progress since the 17th inst. The procession to St. Ann's Shrine at Twentieth street and Colorado avenue was led by a cross-bearer and two acolytes bearing lighted candles.

In the procession were sanctuary boys, members of the sodalities of St. Ann's and St. Monica's parishes and members of the Knights of Columbus. Religious banners and relics and figures of St. Ann were carried.

The statue at the shrine stands on a pedestal of rough stone. From a niche in a pedestal flows water, of which the worshipers partake.

Among those taking part in the ceremonies today were Rev. Nicholas Connealy of the united parishes of St. Ann and St. Monica, Rt. Rev. Mgr. John Cawley, vicar-general of the diocese of Los Angeles and San Diego, and Father Andrew of the Carmelite order.

Services were conducted this evening, and the Novena will end tomorrow morning, the Feast of St. Ann, with high mass, procession of the children, and solemn benediction.

The procession to the shrine of St. Ann is in the nature of a pilgrimage to worship at the shrine and to drink of the holy water of St. Ann's well. The pilgrimage is conducted at regular periods and one of great solemnity. There are numerous similar shrines in all parts of the country, one of the foremost of which is the shrine of St. Ann de Baudery in France. St. Ann was the mother of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

In observance of the Feast of St. Ann the period of the Novena is an important part. The Novena is a period of nine days of devotion in prayer.

The Shrine of St. Ann at Santa Monica was originated about five years ago by Father Patrick Hawe and since has been in constant use during the Feast of St. Ann. Father Connealy of the St. Ann an, Santa Monica parishes is planning to erect a new shrine in the near future.

BURGLARS BLOW OPEN OFFICE SAFE

Southern Service Plant Entered by Hole in Roof; Plunder Undetermined

Breaking their way into the Southern Service Company establishment at 5701 South Main street early yesterday morning by lowering themselves through a hole cut in the roof, yeggmen took the office safe into a clothes closet and blew it open with a charge of nitroglycerine, it was reported to the police.

The value of the contents of the safe will not be known until a check is made by the shopowners today. The robbery was discovered by a private watchman who notified the police.

Detectives found that the thieves had gained the roof of the building by a ladder placed in a rear alley. A hole cut in the roof let them into the service shop below.

The safe was taken out of the office and placed in the small clothes closet. Soap from the storeroom box, used in "souping" the strong box, while a heavy mattress was used to deaden the sound of the explosion.

Detectives were inclined to believe that the safe-blowing was the work of a gang of burglars who made four futile attempts to blow open safes last week.

AMONG THE MISSING

American professors are going into Russia to study methods of civic training. It was not generally supposed that they had any.

THE QUEEN'S PARTY

The King and Queen of England gave a garden party to 15,000 guests on the grounds at Buckingham Palace. No one was permitted to smoke and nothing but tea was served. It must have been about as jolly as a day in the operating room at a busy hospital.

WHAT'S THE USE

An eastern newspaper is campaigning for a national sleep week. But how can folks get ahead on their ration of sleep while all this broadcasting of jazz is going on? It is too much to hope for. Nobody seems to want to go to sleep, anyhow.

FREEDOM OF CREEDS

Under the auspices of the French government a mosque of Islam has been erected and consecrated in Paris. This is said to be the first Mahometan temple on Christian soil. The world is becoming very liberal in the matter of its faiths.

PEDESTRIAN'S OUTLOOK

The innocent pedestrian, who was looking on aviation with such hope, is beginning to realise that, so long as all which goes up must come down, he will never be out of danger. Injury may fall on him out of a clear sky as never before. Still, the age of aviation will constantly inspire us to look up, not down.

MUCH WORK, LITTLE PAY

Besides being Premier and dictator Mussolini holds about six different portfolios in the Italian Cabinet. Yet for all his services he is drawing a salary of only $400 a month. It cannot yet be said that the Duce is feathering his own nest. Imagine an American politician holding down six different offices for the pay of one! It simply isn't being done in this country.

THE BIG FIGHT

Hinted that Estelle may seek to stay Jack from fighting. But if the champion can haul down $400,000 for half an hour of boxing he should be willing to risk his plasticated nose in the controversy. Once heard of an Irishman who thought it a wonderful thing that men could get paid for fighting. In those times a battler might draw $10 for fighting half a day with bare fists.

THE ITCHING PALM

An Indiana lad of 9 years is a puzzle to the authorities. He has stolen three cars and driven them hundreds of miles. He was picked up when he tried to sell in Illinois a car he had stolen in an Indiana town sixty miles away. He admits that when he sees an idle car his hands itch to set it running. It is suggested that the parents lock him up in the home nest and rub his hands with sandpaper now and then to keep the itching down.

THE MILK TREE

The Yale scientists who are exploring in wildest Guatemala confirm the story of the milk tree, which grows freely in that section. It is so called because when the bark is slashed with a knife a regular stream of a milk-white liquid follows. It really tastes exactly like milk and is known to be highly nourishing. The man who had a milk tree and a bread fruit tree in his yard could snap his fingers at the high cost of living and live happily ever after. It sounds like a better combination than our own vine and fig tree.

TIT FOR TAT

A Yankee is said to be doing a wonderful business in Bombay as an occult healer and deep-sea philosopher. He follows the footsteps of the Hindu ascetics in a way, but throws in a few frills of his own in the form of miraculous cures for sundry ailments. He is reported as drawing thousands of natives to him and he has become an object of worship on the part of some of his admirers. Incidentally, he is said to be accumulating more money than any other medicine man in India. This is one way of getting even with the brown men of Hindustan. They have been sending all kinds of mahatmas to this country and they have garnered much coin to repay the pilgrimage. They may now discover that they are not the only fakirs in the world.

LOVE AND WHISKERS

In a local court a husband complained that for twenty years he went unkissed because the wife spurned his whiskers. She said that she could not abide being caressed by a thistle patch. Finally he had his map mowed and came to her with a face as smooth as a platter. But she still fought him off and kept him away for another five years. Now the husband is seeking a legal separation. He thinks any man is entitled to a kiss every twenty-five years. It is possible that this ship would not have been wrecked had the husband clipped his crop a generation ago. He stood behind his whiskers so long that they grew into an insurmountable barrier. Even when they were shorn the recollection of those years remained and left love cold. There is no moral in this except that a man who coddles a beard does so at his own risk.

"LOS ANGELES' OWN"

One thousand young California patriots are going to enter the citizens' military training camp at Del Monte on August 14, there for fifteen days to perform voluntary service under the Stars and Stripes to prove their worth and increase their value in maintaining the future peace of America.

To these thousand stalwart westerners Los Angeles will have the privilege of contributing 300 of her sons, members of the One Hundred and Sixtieth Regiment California National Guard, proudly known through the Southwest as "Los Angeles' Own." They will go forth to their annual round of intensive training, mental and bodily, with the godspeed and best wishes of their friends and compatriots acknowledging the importance of the duties they have undertaken.

All who give earnest thought to the great questions and issues before America in the uncertain years ahead admit that the National Guard is a vital line of defense to the country. These young citizen-soldiers are responsive to the call of civic duty alone. They are a long way from the old days when a fighting British regiment inscribed on its banners the slogan "Bloody War and Promotion." Los Angeles' Own is marching under the nobler mandate of Alexander Pope in his immortal declaration, "Order is heaven's first law. Defense is not defiance."

While the training received in our citizens' military training camp by the youth of America will prove of inestimable strength to the nation should an aggressive foreign power attempt to destroy our peaceful progress by violent means, either inside or outside our gates, that is but one—and not the most vital—of the reasons for supporting and encouraging the individual members of the National Guard.

These boys are receiving lessons in the power of discipline as useful to the orderly development of the nation's resources in times of peace as to the protection of its liberties in times of turmoil. Through this discipline, moreover, their characters are strengthened, their initiative and resourcefulness uncovered and their services to their employers in civil life rendered more effective and valuable.

These boys will return from the military camp at Del Monte in better physical shape for the training undergone there. The spot chosen in Monterey county is one of the most healthful and invigorating on the American continent. The open-air life, the regular living and the regulation drills and exercises will store up in their bodies vigor and vitality to tackle the old tasks with renewed spirit and energy. The health and strength gained in a military training camp are valuable to the executive and man of affairs, no less than to the employee, released for the two weeks of patriotic service.

Fortunate is the employer able to engage the services of men of the type to be found in the ranks of "Los Angeles' Own"! Whole-hearted and spontaneous should be his co-operation with his country, his State and his city in encouraging and aiding the young citizen-soldier to take advantage of the opportunities offered by such all-round admirable training.

Perhaps in some cases a business may be hampered temporarily by the absence of an employee who has felt the urge to serve his country for two weeks in return for the fifty weeks of opportunity that country has offered him to serve his employer. That small inconvenience is negligible in comparison to the greater good conferred on every individual citizen, be he corporation magnate or ditch digger, by the confidence inspired that in case of need their homes and businesses will not go undefended.

Such security is the purpose of our citizens' military training camps. To obtain that security we must have a National Guard. To fill the ranks of that National Guard our young men and our business leaders must co-operate, must each be willing to make some sacrifice for the general good. Thus is character formed and character is the first line of national defense.

FRESNO'S AWAKENING

Fresno has awakened at last to the realization that it has been outrageously imposed upon and maltreated by union labor. She has risen in her wrath over recent exhibitions of insolence on the part of union leaders and, with belated courage, challenges them to a fight to the finish.

This is what an outsider may deduce from reading the report of the action taken by the Valley Industrial Association, whose headquarters are in Fresno, in the adoption of the American plan for the employment of labor by the building contractors and subcontractors of that city. The association was formed after a period marked by the persistent pyramiding of wage scales by the Fresno Building Trades Council and the enforcement of working rules designed to slow down production.

The men of the Builders' Exchange, according to unbiased reports, always have dealt fairly with the Building Trades Council. They have been liberal in their concessions to the demands of the union leaders and never have refused to meet and discuss with them any disputes that have arisen. They have had a written agreement with the council containing stipulations, some of which have been anything but acceptable to builders, but were agreed to in the interest of industrial peace.

Of late, however, when the renewal of the agreement came up for discussion, the union men demanded wage increases for thirteen crafts, all for $1 a day for each employee, with the exception of the plumbers, who demanded a $2 increase. The painters, in addition to the proposed $1 increase, demanded a reduction of working time to five days a week.

Taking the position that not only was a wage increase unwarranted, but that economic conditions in Fresno actually justified a material reduction, the Builders' Exchange said it could do no better than to renew the old agreement, which it would do, as it desired to keep the wages paid in Fresno in line with those paid elsewhere in California. It would seem from the report of the newly formed Valley Industrial Association that the cost of living has decreased in Fresno, that there is no shortage of mechanics there and that the local wage scale compares favorably with the scales in effect throughout the State.

When the proposals of the Builders' Exchange were contemptuously rejected by the union men, the new association was formed and the unions were told that the builders would set their own scale, which would be a fair one for both sides and that the old working rules would be abolished. About 1000 men, all members of building trades unions, are affected by this decision, as well as 200 contractors and subcontractors.

The adoption of the American plan for Fresno should not only receive the hearty support of every employer in that city, but it should be indorsed by all outside firms doing business there. Local managers of branches doing business in Fresno should be instructed to stand solidly behind this plan.

Fresno is to be congratulated on the fact that it has had moral courage enough to withstand the extortionate demands of the union leaders and has come out openly and firmly behind the American plan, the only policy that will result in industrial freedom.

MIDSUMMER VICTORIES

It is not surprising that Senator King of Utah, upon arriving in Los Angeles, claims the next Congress for the Democrats. The history of that party is replete with midsummer triumphs.

By a comfortable system of political philosophy Democrats are always victorious in the primary season. It is natural for a political aspirant to shrink from a gruelling primary contest if his party's skies are overcast. If hope of victory at the election is lacking he either withholds his candidacy or, for the sake of keeping his name in the public eye, enters the lists and makes a debilitory campaign.

Thus, in all the primary contests that have excited general interest, the combatants have been Republicans. The fights have been energetically waged because, in practically all instances, nomination appears equivalent to election.

Here the engaging philosophy of the Democrats comes in. Every time a Republican defeats one or more Republican opponents in a primary contest—a result unfortunately inevitable when several men seek an office—the Democrats hail the event as a Republican defeat—therefore a Democratic victory.

It is apparent there is considerable sophistry in the reasoning process by which this conclusion is reached, but a detailed examination of the premises is unnecessary. The Democrats seem to derive comfort from the thought, and comfort, in view of the party's present condition, is something no one will deny them.

During the long, hot days preceding the fall elections the Democratic politicians disport themselves much in the manner of the grasshopper. Then comes the bleak day of reckoning, Republican ballots fall like snow, and the blithe optimists of midsummer find themselves shivering in sere and yellow fields from which the harvest has been reaped. But nature is kind. There will be other midsummers.

One need only inquire how large a percentage of the general public even knows the names of the Democrats nominated in primaries. It might be unfair to contrast the number of votes cast in the primaries of the two parties. Democrats frequently enter Republican primaries. Often they stay for the elections.

THE UPWARD TREND

In a sermon on "Christianizing the Professions" a Los Angeles minister declared that one of the best proofs of the success of Christianity is to be noted in the profession of journalism, "which has had more to do with bringing about the democratization of the world than any other force."

This compliment to the press is not entirely undeserved, for along with the "yellow" press and even worse forms of periodic literature there has developed, among the general run of newspapers in America, a sincere regard for the higher, better things of life which is having its effect upon the readers of the nation.

For obvious reasons editors of newspapers and magazines, and even of religious organs, usually seek to avoid printing anything that would lead to controversy, but the fact that the press, generally, is imbued with those ideals which tend toward the spiritual unity of denominationalists and of the people of the world is evidenced by the increasing amount of space devoted to churches and to religious subjects as well as by the thousands of editorials dealing with the fundamentals of practical Christianity.

Perhaps in no other field of modern life, unless it be journalism, has the upward trend of civilization shown itself so conspicuously as in the theatrical profession. There was a time, and not so long ago, when the theater was held—and often rightly—to be an institution of the devil. Today the playhouse is generally regarded as one of the greatest educationally uplifting institutions in the world. It is true that we still have those theaters, both of the spoken and silent drama, that do not cater to the best instincts and qualities of human nature, but we also have, in ever-increasing numbers, those palaces of dramatic art which depend for their success upon their appeal to the ideals of the wholesome-minded majority. In spite of all that may be, and that should be deplored in modern civilization, the general trend of the race is forever upward.

DOUBLES AND DIVORCE

At least half a dozen times in the past six months Los Angeles county courts have been called upon to separate couples because of auction-bridge quarrels and 50 per cent of these quarrels, it has been noted, arose over the failure of one spouse to respond properly to the other's double of a one-bid.

In one of the last cases decided a nonbridge-playing judge held that to slap one's wife's face for passing a double is cruelty. He must have been a nonbridge-player, because no devotee of auction would consider that the husband had administered a punishment sufficiently severe to fit the crime.

But evidently the situation is becoming critical. If the connubial condition is to be wrecked habitually on the rock of the informatory double something should be done about it. Automobiles, gin and radio have done enough to break up the American home, and this new menace seems to call for legislative interference.

The promise to "obey" has been dropped from the wedding service and nothing has been suggested to take its place. It might be a good idea to require the bride to covenant to bid her best suit or a four-card major when her husband doubles and to add to the groom's obligations a requirement that he do no doubling with less than six high cards. Such promises made and kept would avoid much marital unhappiness.

Failing this, some of the more salient auction conventions might well be specified in the Penal Code. A fine of $500 would not be too much penalty for an original bid with less than two quick tricks, and $10 fine might well fit the case of the man who leads low from an ace against a suit declaration. Six months in jail and $1000 fine, on this basis, would be about right for passing an informatory double with weakness.

And think of the wonderful opportunities for political jobs! An army of bridge-whist inspectors would have to be named to enforce the laws and what a fine time they would have!

HAVING OPENERS

BY EUGENE BROWN

There are thousands of homes founded on nothing much but a can opener. Anyhow, that is what might be called the piece de resistance. It is the prime factor in making the world go round.

With a can opener and a folding bed that can be turned into a telephone booth in the daytime the apartment-house life of a great city is ready for business.

Many and many a family had its beginning on a can opener and a prayer rug. They still have both—slightly worn, but usable. If there was no rug there would be a can opener, anyhow.

There is a rising idea that our home life comes in tins and is in full revealment when the prowess of the can opener is exercised. It is the most important service weapon in the American household. We used to hear much of the hatpin and the corkscrew, but there is larger cry for the can opener. The hatpin went out when women bobbed their hair and the corkscrew subsided with Andrew Volstead. The liquor we get comes either in bottles that are automatically stoppered or in flasks that have screw heads. So the greater call is for the can opener. It will open anything from work in the second degree to a round of jackpots.

There are more than 100 different brands of can openers in the market and yet no man is perfectly satisfied. The faultless tool has not yet been designed. The inventor who could create perfection in can openers could get about all the money in the world, except that which Ford and Rockefeller have. What is wanted is something whereby a man can press an electric buzzer in the dark and then find his can of beans neatly emptied into a fresh container.

One curious citizen has accumulated his fifty-seven varieties of can opener. He keeps them all parked in a single drawer in the family kitchen. When there is call for service he shuts his eyes and clutches the first one upon which his fingers fall. The system is as good as any. All openers are endurable, but few are flawless.

There is suggestion of burglary in their use. There is a breaking and entering. There was a day when it was almost as hard to get into a can of lobster as it was to crack the safe of the Cross Roads Bank. But since then they have better openers and stouter safes.

The can opener is mighty important in these times because almost everything comes in tins—even to our Fords. The food we eat, the refreshment we crave, the beauty we admire and the baths we need all arrive in the metal package. Most of the family meals come from the cannery. One may serve a twelve-course dinner and start every round with a can opener. The fruit or crab cocktail, the fish, the entree, the salad, the roast, the relish, the various vegetables, the pudding, the coffee—all come in neatly labeled tins and need little but a can opener to be set before the company. It is estimated that there are nearly 1,000,000 different brands of fodder and supplies that are put into cans for the world's market.

No wonder that the urge for the perfect can opener is so fierce.

In vacation days the family climbs into a tin car with nothing much but a can opener and a dozen tins of soup, beans or what have you? With this modest equipment they sally forth into the wide, wide world, fearless and unafraid.

With an ordinary can opener a trained American can accomplish miracles. Wars are fought and love made on canned goods. Bring on your openers.

THE POWDER PUFF PERIL

BY IRENE WILDE

"God made him, therefore let him pass as a man."

Portia makes this remark not because her suitor has all the feminine vices, but because he has all the masculine vices.

The comment of bright, womanly Portia on her admirers ought to be illuminating to the gentleman who writes with so much emotion in the Chicago Tribune on the peril of powder puffs to modern manhood. Portia accuses the beefy English baron of being badly dressed and the "virile" German noble of being "little better than a beast." Neither does her choice fall upon that fierce "he-man" whose sword is red with the blood of the Sophy, but upon a penniless Venetian scholar who, we know, wore a lady's ring and may have been guilty of a wrist watch.

We know nothing of the fight in the fist under the famous slave bracelet of Valentino, but we do know there was a cloud—much bigger than a man's head—on the name of a certain he-man professional fighter during the late war. We are not defending Mr. Valentino, who is said to be responsible for the fall of man. He announces he will defend himself. We can't help wondering, however, what this renowned quarterback, halfback or fullback—cognomen McCarty—for whom the Tribune writer is so profanely thankful, is contributing to the world more than Valentino is contributing. Is his occupation more necessary?

When a young male begins to think of life in terms of powder puffs and "London lapels" he is despicable not only to men, but to women as well, just as a young female who thinks in terms of Pekingese poodles is ridiculous to both men and women. However, when powder and poodles are incidentals—indicators, betraying a character too big to neglect little things—they attain the dignity of hallmarks.

"Chewing tobacco and spitting," wearing "torn carpet slippers," swearing, swashbuckling and caveman cudgeling may occasionally be concomitants of manly virtue, but they are more often allied to coarseness and brutality. Coarseness and brutality have been masquerading for centuries under the name of "virility." Is it not possible that this masculine attention to externalities may indicate a corresponding internal improvement?

CAPRICES OF FASHION

BY THOMAS F. FORD

Bobbed hair and bobbed skirts have been a boon to the newspaper paragrapher. Likewise, when milady ditched her corsets the gentleman, regardless of whether his preference ran to blonds or brunettes, found much material for fun and frolic at her expense. Little has been said, however, as to the effects on certain industries of the caprices of Dame Fashion, as sidusously followed by women. There are, nevertheless, serious economic consequences to every sudden change in clothing or culture.

When bobbed hair came in the notion counters of the big and little stores suddenly found that they had on hand stocks of hair nets that it would take months to dispose of to the stiff-necked women who still clung to their locks. At the same time, hairpins developed an ability to stick that was both new and tiresome. And so for the departments devoted to rats, so much in demand when a rat bun atop the head or at the nape of the neck was considered a thing of beauty and a mark of taste, the business threatened to disappear.

In China alone over 14,000 women in one section, whose entire time was occupied in the weaving of hair nets, lost their jobs. The firms buying their product had their market and had to go out of business or seek other articles of merchandise in which to deal. The firms, being composed of shrewd business men, could do this. But the women, many, if not all of them, knowing no other craft, were at once hopelessly out of employment and hence out of a means of livelihood.

Inch by inch the modern skirt has shortened to a place where it must stop unless it chooses to turn into kilts. And as the skirt has dwindled so has the yardage required for its making. And along with it has come into vogue the straight-line dress, which can be easily conjured out of three or four yards of silk or cloth, instead of the six or eight or ten yards that the mother of today's flapper required. It needs no mathematical demonstration to prove the effect on the textile trade.

The garment manufacturer, being astute and well intrenched, has perhaps been the gainer in this, for he finds himself able to get a price for cut and line, never so important as now. But the producer of cotton and wool and silk has seen his market decreasing. A wool grower of Montana, feeling the pinch and tracing its cause correctly, petitioned his Congressman to introduce a bill prohibiting the short skirt. Thus he, from economic motives, added his voice to the moralist chorus, which sees sin in a well-turned ankle or a trimly garbered knee, frankly crossed over its mate.

The cotton producer has suffered, too. For even a few inches off every dress and apron means vastly decreased demand for cotton. It has been said that if we could induce the Chinamen to add two inches to his shirt it would raise the price of our raw cotton as much as 2 cents a pound. Put graphically stated, the full import of "cutty sarks" becomes apparent. As for the effect upon the cotton and silk trade of the wholesale discarding of the petticoat, which was once so voluminous and so beruffled, who shall say?

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE PRISONERS

The prisoners are doing time and think their fate is hard and raw; and each one thought, when trying crime, that he could beat or dodge the law. Oh, countless hosts of sad-eyed men are finding life disgusting, stale, in boneyard, calaboose and pen, in reformatory, quod and County Jail. Deprived of freedom's precious boon, they drag on, weary and forlorn; the morning's worse than afternoon, the afternoon is worse than morn. It is a living death to dwell behind a prison's frowning door and gaze out from a dreary cell and think of happy days of yore. Once all the prisoners were free and had no fear of laws or courts; they romped and gamboled on the lea as innocent as other sports. Then came the forking of the road: one branch led on to wealth and power, the other to that stern abode where tenders are the grim police. One road suggested honest toil and fortune gained by slow degrees; the other hinted midnight spoil and dungeons dark and gallows trees. And not a prisoner can say there were no warning signs in sight to keep him from the downward way that led him to his present plight. For both these roads are paved well, the signs in every region shake, and at the crossing each can tell which road to shun and which to take. But there were prisoners' souls who laughed at all the prophets and their reds: "Your heaven's too slow a graft and to the hot we will proceed. We're too astute for courts and laws, too cunning for sleuths who work by stealth; we take the downward path because it is the quickest way to wealth." And now they look out from their cells and see the free men, marching on rank, the honest workers working bells and packing benefits in the bank.

HE DISLIKED LOAFERS

A certain colonel in the Regular Army was in need of a man-servant, so he inserted an advertisement in the local weekly. One of the applicants for the place was an Irishman.

"What I want," said the colonel, "is a generally useful man who can cook, drive an automobile, look after the horses, clean the boots and also the windows, feed the chickens, milk the cow and, if necessary, do an odd job of painting and paperhanging in the house."

"Excuse me, sor," said Murphy, "but what kind of man do ye take me for?"

"Soft," snapped the colonel. "What has that to do with it?"

"Well," said Murphy, "I might do if it was clay, sor. I could make a few bricks in me spare time."—Short Story Magazine.

is a living death to dwell behind prison's frowning door and gaze t from a dreary cell and think happy days of yore. Once all e prisoners were free and had fear of laws or courts; they mped and gamboled on the lea, innocent as other sports. Then me the forking of the road; one anch led on to wealth and peace; other to that stern abode whose nders are the grim police. One d suggested honest toil and forne gained by slow degrees; the her hinted midnight spoil and ageous dark and gallows trees.
d not a prisoner can say there re no warning signs in sight to p him from the downward way
t led him to his present plight. r both these roads are posted ll, the signs in every zephyr ake, and at the crossing sages which road to shun and which take. But there were buoyant ls who laughed at all the prophand their rede; "Your honesty's slow a graft and to the left we proceed. We're too adroit for urts and laws, too smooth for uths who work by stealth; we e the downward path because s the quickest way to wealth." now they look out from their s and see the free men, rank rank, the honest workers wear-bells and packing bundles to

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

The annual exodus from Paris after a strenuous social season has commenced in earnest. Every train is taking its load, and the roads, especially in the direction of watering places, have a constant stream of automobiles. Vichy and other resorts in the Auvergne are having their season, many Parisians as well as foreign visitors rushing there for their "cures" after too many dinner parties during the June season in Paris. July is considered the best month for cures, not only to repair too much gayety in the French capital in June, but to reinforce for another gay season in Deauville early in August and later in Biarritz.

Mrs. Preston Johnston and Miss Johnston of Hollywood and Paris entertained a few friends at their apartments in Deauville for the weekend, Miss Preston giving a delightfully planned dinner last week for Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Marshall, who returned to Deauville from Budapest, Hungary, before sailing for America.

Mrs. Lily MacDonald was the guest of honor at a tea given in Paris last week by the Comtesse del Campo. Mrs. MacDonald is traveling around the world and since has left for Italy with her attractive daughter, Miss Catherine. At the tea Mrs. MacDonald was presented by the Comtesse de Caen and among those included were Mme. Perre, wife of Gen. Ferre, Comtesse des Sieges and Comtesse de la Chautte.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Cruickshank of Pasadena have arrived in Paris and are at the Hotel Plaza-Athenee, coming up from Biarritz.

Mrs. James Bufus Martin, with her two daughters, Miss Margaret and Miss Elisabeth, is in the French capital, registered at Hotel Crillon, while Miss Lulu D. Miller and Miss A. H. Smith, who have been touring the Scandinavian countries, were recent visitors to Oslo, Norway.

Mrs Orson Hoyt of New York and Mrs. William Thomas Jefferson of Pasadena have arrived in Paris after a motor trip from Rome by way of the French Alps. They will be in Europe until October, stopping at the Hotel d'Albe.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Latimer and their attractive daughter, Miss Carol, who have been making a trip around the world, are at present in Nauheim, Germany, but will leave shortly for Lucerne, Switzerland, Paris and the British Isles. They will sail for the United States August 31.

Mme. Marius de Brabant and her cousin, Mrs. Hopkins Reft of Ardsley-on-Harbor, have left Paris for the Hotel Radio in Vichy.

Two hundred callers, most of them Americans, celebrated the 150th anniversary of American Independence by paying their respects to United States Ambassador and Mrs. Houghton who threw open the entire Embassy in London for the occasion. Californians noted included Dr. and Mrs. Wesley Oakley of Los Angeles, Rev. George Wallace of San Diego and Mrs. Benjamin Lathrop.

Mrs. Agnes L. Swobdi-Meade has arrived in Paris from New York and is stopping at the Hotel Continental.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robey Simons, who for the past six months have been traveling abroad, came back several days ago, and are being welcomed by their friends at their lovely home, 201 South Plymouth Boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gillespie Bullock have arrived at Hotel Crillon in Paris, while Mrs. Daniel Campbell, of Glendale was among those taking tea at the American Women's Club of Paris during the past week.

A California luncheon party was given last week by Mrs. George Pinckard at her pretty home on Chesterfield street, London, to meet two Western American artists, George Dennison and Frank Ongerson. Marchioness Townshend, Lieut.-Col. Windy and Mr. and Mrs Lily Converse of Philadelphia were among those present. Mrs. Pinckard is leaving shortly for a trip to California.

The Excelsior Hotel on the Lido, the beach just across the lagoon from Venice, is rapidly filing up for a summer season which promises more gayety than ever before. Guests of the Excelsior include Miss Anne Barnall of Santa Ana, while Miss Sadie Douglas, Miss Bella Baker, Mrs. Barbara Besancon, Mrs. Martha Gabriel, Mrs. Rosetta Leitelb and Mr. and Mrs. William Werner of Los Angeles are stopping at the Grand Hotel in Venice, and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Peck, Mrs. Edward Sears and Allan Hoover, son of Herbert Hoover, are at the Excelsior, Earl D. Biggars of Pasadena and O. D. Starr of Los Angeles are at the Royal Danieli.

Miss Lucy Amado, who has been traveling in Switzerland, was a recent visitor to Geneva, stopping at the Hotel Beau-Rivage. Other Californians in Geneva include Gen. and Mrs. C. F. A Last and G. P. Griffith of Los Angeles at the Hotel de la Paix and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Nicholl of Claremont.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wayne arrived in Zurich during the course of a Swiss tour, and are stopping at Hotel Baur au Lac, while A. B. Peck and family are enjoying the summer season in Baden-Baden, the German resort in the heart of the Black Forest, where they are domiciled at Brenner's Stephanic Hotel.

Following an extensive German tour, Mr. and Mrs. Trigg Garner have gone to Lucerne, Switzerland, where they are registered at Hotel National, and Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Durant of Pasadena are stopping at the Palace Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kleinberger were recent visitors to Vienna, Austria, registering at the Grand Hotel, while a number of Californians visiting in Nuremburg, Germany, during the last fortnight included Mr. and Mrs. John Seits of Los Angeles, who are stopping at the Grand Hotel. Mrs. Irene Scott and son, and Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Granger of Los Angeles also are at the Grand Hotel.

California visitors to Berlin include Mr. and Mrs. William Chase of Los Angeles, staying at Hotel der Fursten, as are also Henry Deventer and family of Hollywood, while Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Leur and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Behm, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kaplan and Mrs. R. G. Peasley are at the Bristol.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Burroughs and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Tally and family of Los Angeles are at the Montreux Palace in Montreux, Switzerland, while Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wishon of Fresno are at the Continental.

Birthday Anniversary

In celebration of her birthday anniversary, Miss Dorothy Gray entertained Wednesday with a most charmingly appointed luncheon at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, taking her guests afterward to the matinee at the Mason. Those included were Miss Louise Mitchell, Miss Elizabeth Harwood, Miss Charisey Gray, Miss Elizabeth Belt, Miss Dorothy Robinson, Miss Mildred Pearson, and Miss Betty Payne of Portland; Miss Gray is enjoying her summer vacation with her mother, Mrs. Alice M. Gray of San Dimas, and her aunt, Mrs. Norman C. Robinson, returning to New York in the fall, where she lives with her aunt, Miss Carroll McComas, attending the Art Students' League there. Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Robinson have taken a house for the month of August at Catalina and plan a series of entertainments for Miss Dorothy Gray and Miss Charisey Gray, their nieces, while there.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson entertained with a dinner-dance at Club Casa Del Mar Wednesday evening, through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Powell, their guests of honor being Mr. and Mrs. Mel Nathan of San Francisco, who are enjoying a delightful visit in Southern California, and while in Los Angeles are domiciled at the Ambassador. The other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Powell, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Larsen, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whipple, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bremer and Frank Bower.

Wedding Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ehrgott of 4116 Budlong avenue formally announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Virginia Lucille Ehrgott, to Herbert George Weick of Chicago, the ceremony taking place the 14th inst. at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. Donat officiating. Miss Florence Ehrgott assisted her sister as maid of honor, while Mrs. Grace Haley was matron of honor and little Yvonne Ehrgott and Marion Schultz were flower girls. Preceding the ceremony Art Schultz played "I Love You Truly," and the wedding marches. Emil Johnson served Mr. Weick as best man.

The bride wore a becoming gown of white taffeta embroidered in seed pearls, the veil of tulle crowned with Duchesse lace and orange blossoms, and she carried lilies of the valley, sweet peas and bride's rosebuds. After a honeymoon at St. Catharine's, Catalina, Mr. and Mrs. Weick will be at home to their many friends at 2428 Raymond avenue.

Several Affairs

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Selverd of South Sycamore avenue have been this week at Club Casa Del Mar, Santa Monica, their dinner-dance guests including Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tuffli, Mr. and Mrs. William Beck, Miss Betty Blackwell, Harry Probasco, Mr. and Mrs. Texas E. Schram, Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Boyd and Mr. and Mrs. John Huck. Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Selverd entertained Mrs. C. C. Higgins, Mrs. H. H. Hoffman, Mrs. John Link, Mrs. V. Sandbeck, Mrs. Harold Hungate, Mrs. J. J. Huff, Mrs. Ray Uglow, Mrs. Guy Owen Mrs. Craig, Mrs. Morris Hirschborn and Misses Vera Mullis, Leona Elwell, Eloise McCune, Rose Gardner and Claire Foster.

The Woman and Her Job

BY VALERIE WATROUS

(Questions concerning the problems of women will be answered in this column if addressed to Mrs. Watrous at The Times.)

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Dear Mrs. Watrous: I like to fuss around out-of-doors, and at the same time I really like to cook. I'm going to teach, I think, but what? I've done well with physical training and teachers all tell me I have a sense of balance. I've also done well with domestic science. What would you choose if you were in my place? ELIZABETH M.

This choice of a vocation is difficult, isn't it? Yet you are right in weighing both of these aptitudes carefully. I answered almost this very question in this column quite recently; perhaps it is all right to repeat since colleges will soon be opening and thousands of girls clamoring at the vocational desk for guidance.

If you have a vigorous, muscular body you would thoroughly enjoy teaching physical training. And I can assure you that this work is growing in importance in both schools and colleges. There is a steady demand for such teachers.

Domestic science has a wider field. Large organizations are engaging college women to demonstrate the advantages of their wares. These women must know food values, and have had sufficient foods chemistry instruction to be able to answer intelligently the questions of eager mothers.

This work is no longer called "demonstrating;" it is "public relations" or "home service," and is a new and interesting occupation for women.

Another factor is that teachers of domestic science seem to be in demand as wives. As a rule they marry well, and another good teaching job goes begging.

Dear Ida L. S. I believe you must have misunderstood my article about studying merchandising. To take such a course in the University of New York you must have had at least two years of college. This requirement also is made by other schools teaching personnel work.

While your business training would be greatly to your advantage and would enable you more quickly to understand merchandising, you would have to begin as a saleswoman. The first requirement would be your ability to sell. Merchants buy goods, but it must be sold, and they always are on the alert for the woman with selling ability. That is the apprenticeship every buyer must have. Through contacts with the trade you come to understand the people to whom you must cater, you learn there the dependability of manufacturers, and you know what your customers will buy.

It is a known fact that what sells well in one community will not go in another; that merchandising methods that succeed in one town will fail in another.

In taking a merchandising course in a university, students spend half the day in a department store, working in the different departments and actually facing the merchants' problems.

You would be more valuable as a stenographer or bookkeeper, at your age, than trying to master a new vocation at a beginner's wage.

Dear Mrs. G. If you had sent me a stamped envelope I would have written you personally. I sympathize with you, but it is next to impossible to suggest a remedy. Since you have spent your life in household work, you could not take up a trade or profession now. It is difficult for the expert office woman of 50 to find employment, and for the inexperienced it would be practically impossible. You might secure work in a cafeteria, but the pay would be small. I honestly think you will have to stick to housekeeping, perhaps adding to your income by taking boarders.

Dear Frances: Photography is taught in the Polytechnic Evening High School, and I believe the University of California also offers that work in its extension courses.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

For the Picnic Table

One Mother Says:

Neil's arrangement of our picnic table gave it a gala appearance. She drew a saucy face in the bowl of each paste board spoon. Then it was dressed up in a paper napkin and this was held upright over the paper cup of lemonade so placed as to prevent blowing away. Each diner was greeted with a smiling face atop a fancy dress which resolved itself into spoon, napkin and lemonade cup.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Keeps Them Sweet.

When putting away a metal tea or coffee pot that is not in use every day, lay a little stick across the top under the lid. This will allow fresh air to enter and prevent mustiness.

Broken Glass.

Wet a heavy rag and pat gently the broken glass on the floor. In this way the smallest slivers are picked up without any handling. Wrap the rag in paper and throw into the ashes.

Avoid That Bill.

Many plumber bills can be saved by proper care of the kitchen sink. A solution of a gallon of boiling water, two tablespoons of soda and one teaspoon of ammonia poured down the sink once each week will prove an efficient disinfectant and cleanser.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

ARE YOU AN OPTIMIST OR A PESSIMIST?

Many of our followers enjoyed my article, "Are You an Optimist or a Pessimist?" written a short while back, and several have asked me to write more along similar lines. One writer stated that people need such articles as often as they need to count calories!

Inspiration to become, and to help us stay, optimists is undoubtedly important, for an optimistic outlook on life does markedly affect, for good, the health and well-being of the person who practices it. Yes, it also affects those around him. And there is no question that a cheerful person attracts health and other valuable things.

However, my column has to do more especially with the more concrete things pertaining to maintenance and improvement of health. We know, though, that with the improved health will come a more cheerful frame of mind, so indirectly I do write on optimism often.

This little talk calls to my mind an apparatus I saw recently at a physiotherapy institute. It is one for strengthening the chest and arm muscles, and consists in the main of heavy weights placed on rods or levers which are lifted by pulleys strung high over the head. The weights placed at one end of the rod require a great deal of effort to lift, while placed at the other end they are easily lifted. (This is related to the law of leverages, I suppose.)

I couldn't help but think, as I lifted the weights in different positions, that life's burdens and their effects on us are similar to these weights and levers. When we are well and therefore optimistic, they are at the light end of the levers and easily handled. But when we are under par in health and depressed mentally, the same burdens are much heavier, and sometimes seem greater than we can bear.

The optimistic thought for one to hold in any disease is that it is normal to be well an dnature is always working toward the normal, and, if she hasn't been too much injured, will succeed with the proper help. Sometimes this may mean surgical or medical help combined with the practice of the known hygienic rules. And sometimes nature will succeed with only the use of the hygienic measures.

In case of disease or other unhappy conditions, do remember, however, that the mere parrot-like saying of: "Oh, everything is all right," and other Pollyanish jargon is not necessarily being optimistic. You have got to actively make efforts to help yourself.

TUBERCULOSIS

J. writes that her relative has tuberculosis and he has been told that through accompanying inflammation of the pleura, the lungs will become adherent to the lining of the chest and he will suffer with pain more or less, after he is cured. She wants to know how this will happen and other things about tuberculosis.

I've had no personal experience with tuberculosis, J. However, I have an article on the subject which contains the titles of two books on tuberculosis, written for the layman. I wish you would send for that. (Simply send self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request, and allow at least two weeks for its receipt.)

If the lungs would become adherent to the chest wall, they would do so through scar tissue, and probably many thousands of cured cases are living in good health with this condition. I don't believe it is necessary for your relative to worry about the pains he might have after being cured. I regret that he was told of the possibility, for the treatment of tuberculosis has been improved markedly in late years and he may not be reminded of his former ill health at all after his cure.

Tomorrow: Blood Pressure

My dear Followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose ten cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the stamped, self-addressed envelope if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

The LAST WORD

By ALMA WHITAKER

HIRING RELATIONS

"I want to get a job working on a ranch this summer," writes Bob, "and my folks want me to work for an uncle of mine that has an apple orchard.

"Now, he has a lot of pruning to be done, which pays $4 to $5 a day to a hired man. But because I'm a relation, I am to work for $2 a day and my board. My board's not worth more than $1 a day at the outside. Why do folks always expect their relations to work cheaper for them?"

And, of course, relations always do expect more work for less pay from relatives. But it usually works the other way round, too, and people who work for their own relations usually take privileges and put forward claims that no ordinary hired help ever would exact. Although Bob feels injured, for instance, he would certainly expect all sorts of extra little liberties and privileges from uncle than uncle would have to accord an ordinary hired man.

THE CASE OF AUNT JOAN

Take the case of Angie and John, who are nicely fixed in a modest way, have a pleasant little home and can afford to keep a maid. But Aunt Joan needed a job very badly, poor lonesome old dear. So instead of hiring a regular maid who would "keep her place," and take care of her own leisure, they have to have Aunt Joan at the table with them, and take her with them to shows and out driving—or feel pigs to leave her alone at home—and she sits in whenever their friends call. Sure, Aunt Joan works faithfully and well, and they don't pay her quite as much as they would a professional maid in actual money . . . but neither would a professional maid be everlastingly on their conscience and under their noses like Aunt Joan. And if they should ever prefer Aunt Joan's room to her company it will be thrice as difficult to "sever diplomatic relations."

Of course, we often hear of politicians and motion-picture producers who show a remarkable penchant for giving jobs to their relations—but in such cases their pay rarely comes directly out of their employing relative's own pocket. But even so the other employers are usually pretty critical about these hired relations—either because they don't do their work so well, or because they put on too much arrogance and usurp extra privileges because they are related to the boss.

MORE FRIENDS THAN RELATIONS

"Why not keep the money in the family?" is a question we often hear asked in this connection, and it is an argument that often wins, too. But, except in very exceptional cases, relations are happier when they are not associated as employer and employee.

You see, it is the very exceptional relation who can treat a relative with the same consideration and courtesy that would be required, between ordinary business associates—or ordinary friends, for that matter. There is just something about "being related" that makes people take liberties and usurp privileges with each other—that are usually most unjustified. That is why in-laws so often fall out. And we find that wherever in-laws do remain good friends, they have managed to avoid these transgressions of assumed intimacy and conducted themselves more as friends than relations.

I recall a wealthy old aunt of mine chuckling with satisfaction about a young cousin of mine. "It is a joy to help that boy," she told me, "because he is so businesslike. He always gives me a note for the money, pays his interest on time, and meets the note when due. He could not treat me more respectfully if I were his bank."

So, don't feel touchy about that job with uncle, Bob. But if you take it, do a little more than is expected of you and do it a trifle better than a regular hired man would. Then your conscience will be clear, anyway.

TRAEGER CLUBS TO COVER ALL COUNTY

With sixteen Traeger-for-Sheriff clubs actively functioning, plans to spread the organization to blanket Los Angeles county will be put into effect today by Charles W. Cradick, chairman of Traeger's executive committee. Organization of a flying squadron of orators, composed of sponsors of the Sheriff, headed by Bertin A. Weyl, former Superior judge; Arthur C. Verge and others, is being completed under the direction of Judge Thomas P. White, chairman of the speakers' committee. The squadron will visit every club in the county. "Since the 1924 county grand jury committee unqualifiedly commended Traeger's administration of the Sheriff's office, business men in all parts of the county are rallying to his support," says Cradick.

APRICOT JELLY

Wash and halve a four-pound box of apricots, place in a preserve kettle with a pint of water, let slowly melt and then boil for twenty minutes. Strain through a white strainer so that the fruit may be used up in a pie then strain the juice again so that it is clear, add three-quarters of a pint of sugar to each pint, boil twenty minutes, then fill the little tumblers. This is specially designed to serve with dessert dishes, to garnish ice cream, to serve with fruit salads, or as the center of custards with whipped cream.

TRIPE

Fine grain or honeycomb tripe may be washed, dried and broiled on a buttered broiler, fried in butter, stewed in cream or in a brown mushroom sauce, or cooked in casserole.

To cook it in a casserole cut it in pieces, add to it a cupful of potato balls cut with the cutter, a sliced onion, a diced carrot, and a half-cupful of peas. Put in dish with a cupful of brown sauce, half tablespoonful of butter, a quarter saltspoonful of pepper and a saltspoonful of salt. Serve boiled rice with the tripe.

FROZEN CHEESE SALAD

To make it beat one package of cream cheese with a quarter of a cupful of sweet cream, six finely chopped raisins, a saltspoonful of salt, a half-saltspoonful of paprika, a saltspoonful of sugar, a tablespoonful of sherry and a teaspoonful of powdered pecans. Mix well, turn into a freezer, but do not freeze hard. Remove in time to mold, then pack in ice until ready to serve, when it is to be sliced onto lettuce leaves and covered with mayonnaise made without mustard.

PEACH SHERBET

Pare and cut fine two quarts of fresh ripe peaches, then mash them through a sieve. Dissolve one heaping tablespoonful of gelatine powder in a quarter of a cupful of hot water; add to it a cupful of milk, a cupful and a half of sugar and one pint of cream. Mix all thoroughly and when cold pour into a freezer and freeze.

CREAM OF BEET SOUP

FATHER FILES WRIT FOR SON'S CUSTODY

Declaring his 2-year-old son is being kept from him by Mrs. Anna H. Grime, 1332 West Fortieth Place, Bernard H. Paul has filed a writ of habeas corpus action in Judge Keeler's Juvenile Court asking that Mrs. Grimes be compelled to release the child to him. The boy in the case is Theodore Joseph Paul. The boy's father asserted in his petition that he left his son in charge of Mrs. Grime because the child needed a woman's care. He says he has since demanded that Mrs. Grime return his son to him, but he declared she has refused to do so.

BUS LINE AT UNIVERSITY SITE ASKED

Operator Seeks Permit to Run His Machines on Westwood Route

The first application to establish transportation service to the new University of California in the Westwood district has been made to the State Railroad Commission by Fred C. Brunner, a bus operator.

The petition sets forth that the applicant desires to run four buses on hourly schedule between the Pacific Palisades and the intersection of Fifth and Olive streets in Beverly Boulevard and way points.

At the present time Brunner has nearly $50,000 worth of equipment consisting of four twenty-nine-passenger busses, which he is operating between the Palisades and Topanga Canyon, according to the application.

New territory is being opened along the line of the proposed bus route and newly established residents as well as men employed in constructing university buildings have urgent need for the convenience of service, it is set forth.

The case will be set for hearing next month, when it is expected that other applications to establish transportation service will be made.

PROTEST ON ARREST OF DRIVERS IMPENDS

A protest by W. Fowler, manager of the William L. Hugham Company, Ford dealers, against the arrest of two employees for driving new cars without licenses from the factory at Seventh and Santa Fe ... salesrooms at Tenth and Olive, will be heard tomorrow by the Police Commission. A communication from Fowler to the commission declares that the police department for years has overlooked the practice of moving the cars a short distance without licenses, but that two drivers recently were arrested and taken to the police station immediately and had to be paid $30 fines in Police Court for violation of the motor vehicle law.

FORECASTS SHOWING OF STATE GAINS

McGilvray in Prediction for Increase in Business and Employment for Year

Business and employment conditions throughout California at the close of the current year will show a 15 to 20 per cent increase over 1925, according to a prediction made by State Industrial Accident Commissioner McGilvray.

The State compensation insurance fund and the pay rolls of hundreds of employers were used as a barometer and made the basis of the commissioner's prediction.

Examinations of pay rolls made throughout the State by the Industrial Accident Commission in enforcing the Workmen's Compensation Act reveal, according to Commissioner McGilvray, that pay rolls have generally increased from 15 to 20 per cent during the last three months and are still on the upgrade.

A similar tendency is reflected in the business and growth of the fund, he declared. Employers are permitted, if they desire, to insure their workmen with the State instead of private companies.

Last year the State fund did a business totaling $5,811,000. As more men are employed in prosperous old firms, new industries are established, wages are increased and the business of the fund mounts. Sufficient increases already have been made this year to warrant a conservative prediction that the fund will handle approximately $6,250,000 by the end of 1926, according to Commissioner McGilvray.

CONSERVING OF WATER STRESSED

Head of Reforestation Association Says Trees Great Need of Country

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LAKE ARROWHEAD, July 25.—With a word of praise for the foresight which caused Los Angeles to build its aqueduct and recognition of the value of man-wrought means of storing water supply, George Barnes, president of the American Reforestation Association, today told members of the Conservation Association at the close of their two-day session that "if more money had been spent for the conservation and replenishing of trees, less would have been required in 'water bonds.'"

"In the infinite scheme of things, trees came first," he declared, "then the all-seeing God put man on earth. The reason for that was that man could not exist without the trees. They enter into every function of man's life—from the cradle to the grave."

The speaker stressed the importance of reforestation. He regretted that the United States found it necessary to import each year lumber and wood products valued at several millions of dollars. "We could, if we would, provide the entire world with wood and wood products," he declared.

Much of the blame for the upward trend of tornadoes and floods, with their resultant increase in fatalities throughout the Middle West, he attributed to the existence of vast areas that have been stripped of tree life.

The session ended, members then made a tour of the lake region and inspected on their return trip various projects of interest being conducted by reforestation and conservation agencies.

VETERAN OF WORLD WAR SUCCUMBS

W. F. Rhodes Dies After Long Illness From Injury Received Overseas

Willard F. Rhodes, 29 years of age, a World War veteran and mining engineer, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rhodes of 2800 West Twenty-seventh street, died yesterday at Tucson, Ariz., after a long illness, which was the aftermath of an airplane accident that he suffered during the World War.

Rhodes was born in Los Angeles and attended California Institute of Technology. He was a director in the United Investment Company, with offices in this city and New York at the time of his death. He was a first lieutenant in the flying corps and served eighteen months overseas. He was a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, the University Club, Sons of American Revolution of Los Angeles and the American Legion Post No. 8 of this city. In addition to his parents he leaves a sister, Mrs. Richard W. Hanna of Piedmont, an uncle, Allen Rhodes, president of the California Title Company, and an aunt, Miss Mary A. Rhodes of Glendale. His father is vice-president of the United Investment Company and a director of the Security Trust and Savings Bank of this city.

Three Boys Accused of Trying to Rob Plant of Soft Drink Company

The story of three boys in a soft drink factory, as told in complaints filed in Judge Keeler's Juvenile Court, had a tragic ending for John Belangue, 17 years of age, Emory Stokes, 14, and Robert G. Ponce, 16.

According to the complaints, which accused the youths of burglary, the three staged a night raid on the plant of the Nugrape Manufacturing Company, 818 East Sixty-second street.

John Bowen, night watchman, caught the three boys apparently bent on an expedition to satisfy a youthful appetite for soda pop.

Rubber Expert Visiting Los Angeles Says Growers Curtail Production

Motor-car owners who anticipate a lowering of the price of rubber tires are doomed to disappointment, according to H. C. Candrix, rubber expert from Singapore. Candrix, who is the son of H. A. Candrix, head of the Sennah Rubber Company of Paris and Singapore, arrived at the Biltmore yesterday. He is en route to Paris after six months spent at the company's establishment in the Far Eastern city.

"The rubber market at this moment is stable, but I don't anticipate any lowering of prices," he said. "The English government still maintains curtailment of production, though the restrictions in this direction will not be so great as they were last year and the year before."

Last Tribute by D.A.R. Paid to Mrs. J. F. Kent

Led by the Hollywood chapter, the Daughters of the American Revolution of Los Angeles yesterday afternoon paid their last respects to Mrs. James Franklin Kent, who died last Monday at Riverside. The memorial services, which were conducted in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Hollywood, were attended by regents from the ten chapters of the organization in this city. Mrs. Kent was a past regent of the Hollywood chapter and also past State librarian and past corresponding secretary of the organization.

Dr. Arthur H. Wurtele, pastor of St. Thomas's Church, officiated. Mrs Lyman B. Stookey, vice-president-general of the D.A.R., read the ritual of the order. During the reading of the ritual Mrs. Stookey praised Mrs. Kent, who, she said, practiced loyalty and patriotism as we as voicing it.

Mrs. Kent was the wife of James Kent, a retired capitalist, and was buried at Riverside last Thursday. She was a member of the Woman's Club of Hollywood and of the Friday Morning Club.

WARNINGS PREVENT FIRES

Co-operation of Public Given Credit for Lack of Blazes in Forest Over Fourth

Forest-fire warnings broadcast throughout the newspapers and from radio stations enlisting the co-operation of the general public are given the major amount of credit for preventing fires in the Angeles National Forest reserve during the Fourth-of-July holidays, according to a statement issued yesterday by Federal forest officials.

"Despite the fact that there were 47,000 people who entered the main canyons of the Angeles Forest during the holidays," says the statement, "there were no fires caused by campers or picnickers. Two fires burning in the reserve at the time were caused, one by the explosion of a gasoline stove, and the other was of supposed incendiary origin."

Not all of the thousands that entered the reserve, however, heeded the pleas that were broadcast through newspapers and on the air, the statement revealed as it related that rangers took fireworks from 512 automobiles and firearms from thirty-one machines. The San Gabriel Canyon inside the forest boundary line is in a State game refuge, where the carrying of firearms is prohibited. The number of automobiles and people registered as entering different districts were listed by the Federal officials, as follows:

This is not a record crowd, it was stated, as many took advantage of the three-day-holiday period to motor to more distant points.

NITROGEN SEA PERIL

One of the dangers of deep sea diving is the absorption of nitrogen by the blood. Recent experiments indicate that a mixture of helium and oxygen permits divers to descend to depths greater than have been attained and to ascend more rapidly without danger.

Woman Faces Court Today in Death Attempt

The preliminary hearing of Mrs. Alexander Hollander, charged with the attempted murder of the newborn son of her daughter Helen, 19 years of age, will open this morning in Municipal Judge Ballard's court. She will be represented by Attorney S. S. Hahn.

According to police officers who were summoned to 132 East Eighty-fifth street last week, they found Mrs. Hollander in a distracted condition and attracted by the plaintive wails of a baby, discovered a newborn child lying uncared for in a wash tub on the back porch of the house. The officers had been summoned to the house by Alexander Hollander, 60, who declared his daughter was dying.

Mrs. Hollander emphatically says she had no intention of harming the new arrival, but was so overcome with surprise at its birth that she did not know what to do.

POLICE RAID PICNIC SLOT MACHINES

Excitement Reigns When Officers Arrest Seven at Jewish Relief Meeting

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, July 25.—Excitement was occasioned at the annual picnic of the Jewish Consumptive Relief Association of Los Angeles at Palisades Del Rey today, to raise funds for the Duarte Sanatorium at Monrovia, when Police Officers Lane and McDonald arrested seven persons on charges of operating gambling devices. They reported confiscation of fifteen slot machines and six peddle wheels.

Police said they understood the purpose was to raise funds for charitable purposes, but the law was violated nevertheless.

Police reported the following persons were arrested on the charge of operating gambling devices: Miss Capman, Neil Veorhees, Harry Gold, Dave Ludel, Harry Weisbur, Ryman Helper and Miss Emma Bader.

NOT SO NEAR A COMPROMISE

More Monkey Wrenches in School Machinery

Arcadia, Monrovia Still in Dispute

Location of Building Fly in Ointment

MONROVIA, July 26.—Arcadia has hurled a new wrench into the compromise machinery recently set up to settle the 3-year-old Monrovia-Arcadia squabble over the Monrovia-Arcadia-Duarte High School district, it was learned today, when the result of a special meeting of intercity school representatives and the school board was revealed.

The joint committee, from both sides, had chosen two sites near the line which divides the two cities, one lying in Arcadia and one in Monrovia. These sites were to be presented on a referendum ballot.

But, when the committee went before the school board, A. N. Multer of Arcadia, chairman of the joint committee, hurled a new ultimatum, declaring that Arcadians would accept nothing except a site, half in one city and half in the other.

This bombshell raises several peculiar difficulties, since the city boundary is the west side of Fifth avenue, and the consummation of the Arcadia plan would necessitate the closing of the street.

The committee representatives also "somewhat startled the school board by demanding that one of the three Monrovia members resign immediately to make a place for a second Arcadia member, to give Arcadia equal representation with Monrovia on the board. The school board took the entire proposition under advisement, according to Mrs. Annetta Monroe, board clerk.

The joint committee, consisting of fifteen Monrovians, fifteen Arcadians and three from Duarte, will meet again Tuesday night at the Buena Vista school in Duarte, to further consider their compromise proposals.

BUY BANK SITE

New Huntington Park Financial Institution to Build

HUNTINGTON PARK, July 26.—Temporary directors of the new City National Bank, which is being organized here, have purchased the building formerly used as the Woman's clubhouse at 222 South Pacific Boulevard, as the location on which to erect the new bank building. This property has been owned for the last few years by Fulmer & Hutchcroft, real estate brokers, of this city.

The property has a frontage of fifty feet on the boulevard and extends to the east a distance of 150 feet. For the past few years it has been used as an office building in the front, while the rear has been used for dances and public gatherings.

A. M. Price, who is at the head of the new bank, gives out the information that architects are now at work on plans for a new building, but that the bank may be started within the next thirty days in a temporary building, as the call for the first payment of subscriptions has been made and responded to. Practically all the stockholders will be local men.

This new financial institution when opened, will be the only independent banking house in the city, the other three banks here, the Hellman, the Bank of America and the Pacific-Southwest, being branches of the banks in Los Angeles.

Arcadia Makes New Attempt to Organize Chamber

ARCADIA, July 26.—Four chamber of commerce organizations having collapsed in in two years, a new slate of chamber directors has been presented for a straw vote of Arcadia citizens regardless of chamber affiliations.

The entire board of directors, headed by R. H. Schwarzkopf, recently resigned because of "unjust criticism an l lack of co-operation."

The proposed new board is Judge F. M. Brown, H. L. Bowers, F. L. Cuccia, G. S. Eberley, J. J. Granville, W. A. Koehler, John S. Lay; Robert Lefler, J. W. Lambert, William Pickard, F. C. Sheldon, Frank Sible, Morris Trumbull and O. E. Winkler. Mayor A. N. Multer was nominated but declined to serve.

MAKE PLANS FOR BIG SCOUT CAMP

OXNARD, July 26.—Scoutmasters, troop committeemen and first-class Scouts of Ventura county are looking forward to the older Scouts' camp, to be held in the San Bernardino Mountains August 2 to 13, next. The camp is an annual affair and usually well attended. County Scout Executive Victor Tenney of Santa Paula and Walter Whidden will be in charge of the camp this year and are making plans for an interesting time.

Hikes to Big Bear Lake, the headwaters of the Santa Ana River and other places will form part of the diversion, while regular instruction sessions will be held every day. The camp gives Scout heads an opportunity to discuss problems and draft plans for Scouting activities in the various localities of the Southland.

REMEMBER REDLANDS

REDLANDS, July 26.—The editors certainly did like Southern California and spoke nicely of Redlands, according to clippings A. E. Isham, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce has received from scores of eastern papers with stories telling of the visit of the N. E. A. delegates. And most of the stories spoke of the action taken at the dinner in this county when the editors went on record as favoring the Boulder Canyon dam.

PLAY BASEBALL

SAN FERNANDO, July 26.—Through the efforts of Manager Pesquerira of the grammar school playgrounds, four teams of business men have been organized to play indoor baseball on the school grounds this summer. The twilight league consists of the following teams: Auto Dealers, Business Men, American Legion and Oil Men. Another league will be organized later. It is announced and a series of elimination games played.

ADVENTISTS GATHER AT GLENDALE

Camp Meeting to Attract Many Hundred Members of Denomination

GLENDALE, July 26.—The annual camp meeting of the Seventh Day Adventists will be held in Glendale from August 26 to September 5, according to an announcement today by Elder O. O. Bernstein, president of the Southern California conference, who has already launched plans for holding the meetings to be held at that time.

The location of the camp meeting will be at Verdugo Road, on the same spot as that on which it was held last year, and it is expected that more than 8000 members of the denomination will attend, representing more than fifty churches. Workmen will begin in a few days to erect the 600 tents to house those attending the services which will be held in special tents, with a large main auditorium capable of seating 6500 persons as the scene of the principal sessions.

A cafeteria will also be established capable of serving four lines of patrons at one time. Every possible precaution to insure the sanitation of the camp will be taken.

Among the leaders of the denomination who will be in attendance will be Elder J. L. McElhany, president of the American division of the Seventh Day Adventists, Prof. E. M. Kern of Washington, secretary of the young peoples department of the general conference, and O. Montgomery, first vice-president of the general conference, who also has headquarters in Washington, church mission fields in foreign countries will also attend and present reports on their work.

To Celebrate Completion of Mountain Road

REDLANDS, July 26.—A good roads day to celebrate completion of the road from Redlands to the heart of the San Bernardino Mountains more than a mile above Redlands will be held on August 6 and plans have been made to make it one of the greatest ever held here.

Go. Richardson will be the guest of honor and will see for himself how the people are spending their money in opening up the mountains for a great playground. The celebration will be at the forty-acre tract at the end of the road near Valley of the Falls, which has just been leased by the city from the government.

The new paved road which has just been completed from Camp Kill Care to Valley of the Falls, a distance of about seven miles, is the first paved road to a mile-high resort in the mountains. It is macadam and is almost a high-gear road, although in some places it is necessary to go into second for the average driver, especially if the day be warm. It opens up all that country around the two peaks of San Bernardino and Grayback and makes accessible the Big Pine country to all the Southland.

Is Auto Camp Good Method of Publicity?

MONROVIA, July 26.—Do tourists prefer to stop at a municipal auto camp, rather than one privately operated?

This question is causing considerable worry for the City Trustees of Monrovia since they advertised for bids to lease the municipal camp in Recreation Park. City officials presented the argument that the camp was not a paying proposition for the city and offered to lease it to private parties with privilege of erecting a store, service station, and several camp cottages for rent.

The plan immediately met with public opposition from many prominent business men and resolutions condemning the lease have been passed by the Chamber of Commerce directors and Monrovia Merchants' Association. The opposition contends that the auto camp is one of the city's best advertisements and should remain under municipal control regardless of cost.

BROTHERHOOD TO MEET

HUNTINGTON PARK, July 26.—The Men's Brotherhoods of the church of District No. 12, of Los Angeles county, will hold a meeting in the First Methodist Episcopal Church in this city tomorrow night. Rev. Walter L. Thornton of Los Angeles, will be the principal speaker on this occasion.

ACCUSE PRISON GUARD

Attorney Says Officer Struck His Client Staggering Blow Without Reason

SAN DIEGO, July 26.—Branding the story that J. D. Austin of Los Angeles, on trial in Federal court here on charges of subornation of perjury, attempted to escape frim his guard in the Federal Building Friday afternoon, as false, Atty. E. J. Kelly yesterday declared that Austin was handcuffed at that time and that he was struck a staggering blow in the face for no apparent reason, by the guard.

S. A. Lee, a big Leavenworth penitentiary guard, who brought Austin here for trial, said Austin hurled an "insult" at him and "tried to break away" as the pair were leaving the Federal courtroom at the close of the morning session Friday.

Austin said Lee dealt him a blow on the face, and staggered him, causing him to scatter a number of important papers in the cases on the floor.

Attorney Kelly said yesterday that Lee was handcuffed to the prisoner and as they left the courtroom Austin asked if he could return a few minutes and confer with Kelly, who was appointed to defend him by Judge E. J. Henning. According to Kelly, Lee struck the blow as soon as Austin made that request. Kelly said Austin's face immediately became swollen and it was apparent that he had been injured by the blow.

Request of Kelly that the jury trial be continued until Tuesday was granted by the court shortly after the incident. An examination of Austin's face by a government physician was ordered by the court also.

PICTURE OF BATTLE OF LONG AGO

Marines Gather Data on Bloodiest Engagement of the Mexican War

SAN PASQUAL VALLEY, July 26.—Under the general direction of Brig.-Gen. Smedley D. Butler, commanding the United States Marines at San Diego, data are being secured for the filming of a reproduction of the historic battle of San Pasqual, between the Americans under Gen. S. W. Kearney and the Californians under Gen. Pico, and which is said to have been "the bloodiest battle of the Mexican War." With $5000 appropriated by the State memorial grounds, commemorating the encounter, the marker including a bronze tablet, bearing the names of the American heroes, set in a huge boulder, was recently dedicated.

The actual work of getting the data is in charge of Lieut. Eugene Kilgour of the United States Marine Base at San Diego, who, a few days ago, conferred with some of the old-time residents of the valley at a gathering convened at the home of C. G. Marchus, whose ranch is in what was the path of Gen. Kearny's men as they entered the scene of slaughter after breaking camp in the San Marie Valley, seven miles further inland. Juan Martines whose grandfather participated in the battle, has given Lieut. Kilgour important information.

While the marines will film the reproduction of the battle the hope is expressed that commercial film concerns will also film it at the same time. The battle, according to announcement, is to be reproduced with men in the uniform of the soldiers of 1848. Men to assume the characters and dress of Gen. Pico's forces will also be secured.

Director to See Theaters in England

PASADENA, July 26.—Gilmore Brown, director of the Pasadena Community Playhouse, will leave here this week for Europe with his associate director, Maurice Wells, in the course of which they plan to establish contact with the newest developments in European drama, and hope to bring back ideas and inspiration that will prove to be of great value to future productions of the noted local little theater.

The trip will be Brown's first long vacation in the eight years since the Pasadena Playhouse, now recognized as one of the two or three most important little theater groups in America, was established. He plans to be gone about three months and will visit London, Birmingham and other British dramatic centers, Paris, Berlin and probably Vienna and Prague.

During the director's absence, Irving Pichel, director of the Berkeley Little Theater, will be guest director here.

RATHER PAY TOLLS THAN WASTE TIME

MONROVIA, July 26.—Monrovians, who use telephone service to Arcadia, would rather pay a five-cent toll than spend fifteen minutes to half-a-day getting a connection on the present free line, according to the Chamber of Commerce directors, who last night directed a petition to the State Railroad Commission.

The only solution, it was said, is establishment of sufficient toll lines to handle the business which is now carried on one free line. The chamber also will ask installation of public booths in all Monrovia drug stores.

No opposition to the proposed change was anticipated.

TAKES BANK JOB

ARCADIA, July 26.—Quitting his place as manager of the Santa Anita Riding and Hunt Club here, Walter L. Pike, will assume charge of a newly organized industrial bank at San Diego, it was learned here today. His successor at the club has not ben revealed.

Predeath Plan of Father to be Legally Tested

Whether the informal provision made by a father before his death for the care of his child will stand up under legal fire is to be determined soon in Judge Keeler's Juvenile Court, where the petition for a writ of habeas corpus, instituted by Mrs. Hettie A. Diehl for the custody of Melvin Jacobi, her 4-year-old nephew, is to come up for hearing.

Mrs. Diehl directed the petition at Ella Cotter, who, she asserted, now has the child. According to the petition, the late Arthur Jacobi, the boy's father, made provisions for the child to remain with Mrs. Cotter shortly before he died.

Mrs. Diehl, sister of the dead man, asserted she will seek to gain Melvin's custody on the legal ground that Mrs. Cotter is not a relative of the child and has no lawful claim to his custody.

The petition is scheduled to be heard the latter part of the week.

SUNDAY AMUSEMENTS SHOCK AUSTRALIAN

INGLEWOOD, July 26.—Shocked surprise at finding dancing, motion pictures and beach concessions in full sway on Sunday in this country was expressed here last night by C. R. A. Levy, J.P., ex-Mayor of Ballarat, Australia, addressing an Inglewood Chamber of Commerce meeting as the guest of Mayor Charles M. Miller of this city. The Australian is in the United States studying municipal affairs, and, as Inglewood is about the same size as Ballarat, although the latter is the largest inland metropolis of Australia, he is particularly interested in city planning and paving plans here.

"I was astounded when my brother took me down to the beach last Sunday and I saw the extensive amusement activity going on there. In Australia we couldn't even get a Sunday newspaper until very recently," he declared.

COUNTY MAY BUY PROPERTY

Consider Project of New Health Center Located at Alhambra

ALHAMBRA, July 26.—A project is under consideration involving the purchase by Los Angeles county of a portion of the Community Hotel Corporation property on South Garfield avenue as the location of the Alhambra Health Center. It is proposed to buy 100-foot frontage and also the old Gail Borden home, which was originally intended as a unit of the hotel plant. The building would be moved a short distance to face South Garfield avenue.

Supervisor Cogswell of the first district inspected the property yesterday in company with Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, county helath fficer; Dr. S. J. Stewart, in charge of the Alhambra district health office; City Manager M. H. Irvine and a number of other civic officials and representatives of the hotel corporation. Both Dr. Pomeroy and Dr. Stewart declared that the Borden house is well adapted to the Health Center plans and only a few alterations would be needed.

Mr. Cogswell stated that an inspection by the county engineering department would be made at once and that if the report as to the construction of the building is favorable he would approve of the purchase, providing a reasonable price could be agreed upon. The hotel corporation has not yet set a figure. The county, it is understood, has a fund of at least $35,000 set aside for the purpose.

The Alhambra Health Center, established about three years ago, has outgrown its present quarters, the lease on which will expire soon. The territory of the office embraces a large district to the north and south and as far east as Azusa and has a large staff of employees. If the new location is accepted an emergency hospital service will be added.

BENEFIT FOR NEWSBOY

Water Carnival Planned to Get Funds to Aid Cripple

Champion swimmers and divers and entertainers from Culver City will join in a benefit water carnival and vaudeville show to be conducted next Thursday evening at the Culver City Community Plunge, when funds will be raised to erect a home town news stand for George Watkins, a crippled newsboy of Culver City.

Features of the entertainment will be Dorothy Poynton, world champion swimmer and diver, in the 8 years of age class; Bonnie Barrett, champion in the 3½-year class; Helen Wright, 5, fancy diver, who performs from the fifteen-foot board, and Lucille Muller, three times "Miss Venice" in the beach bathing beauty contest. Many other bathing beauties of the district will also assist.

Entertainment will be staged on a platform erected thirty feet above the pool and lighted with giant flood arcs. Among the "stunts" to be staged are a Boy Scout relay race between teams representing the five troops of Culver City district, and several fine dives.

FREIGHT HANDLED BY CITY DOCKS INCREASES

The value of freight handled over the municipal docks at Los Angeles Harbor during June of this year was $7,075,000 more than the freight valuation of the same month last year, the Board of Harbor Commissioners has reported. During June, 1926, the total freight handled amounted to 1,767,716 tons.

RUM YACHT MASTER JAILED

Police Also Hunt Other Members of Crew With Seizure of Liquor Aboard Craft

LONG BEACH, July 26.—After a vigil of approximately thirty-six hours, police arrested at noon today Capt. Gudman Grinstead, master of the yacht Donosarri, and lodged him in jail charged with transportation of liquor in violation of the Wright Act. His was the first arrest since 817 cases of liquor, all Scotch whisky, were seized aboard the yacht Friday night. Police expect to locate other members of the crew and take them into custody also.

Capt. Grinstead was arrested by Patrolman Stevenson when he appeared at his home, 621-B Virginia Court. His lodging-place in the City Jail is not far from the storage room of the Donosarri's liquor cargo, which has been placed on the top floor of the City Hall and is securely guarded. Police had been watching for Capt. Grinstead ever since the liquor was seized.

The seizure was brought about by President F. J. White of the Annex Oil Company, who several days ago ordered the Donosarri moved from her moorings at Wilmington to Long Beach. The yacht, which is owned by the oil company, disappeared and did not reappear till Friday night, when White says he saw her tied up in Channel 3 at Long Beach Harbor.

Anxious to find out where she had been in the meantime, White put out in a small boat. He found the Donosarri deserted and locked up, but peering through a window into the salon, he found her stacked high with sacks of liquor. He notified police at once.

Every available cubic inch of storage space was filled with the contraband cargo, officers said, even the engine-room being filled with it. The police spent all day yesterday transferring the cargo to land and putting it in a safe place. The value of the liquor cargo was estimated at $60,000.

SUMMER SCHOOL ENDS

HUNTINGTON PARK, July 26.—Graduation exercises of the summer school will be held at the Intermediate School here on Friday night, there being twenty-two members in the class, according to Supt. W. L. Stuckey. This number added to those graduating in June will make a total of 352 pupils who are to enter the Huntington Park Union High School in September, if they all report when the new school year opens.

CONVENTIONS AT PASADENA

Crown City to Entertain Delegates to Four Meetings During Next Two Months

PASADENA, July 26.—Pasadena, host to ten large conventions and conferences so far this year, is planning to entertain delegates to four more conventions during the next two months. The Chamber of Commerce calendar shows that two of the coming gatherings will be held here in August and two in September.

The first will be the annual Pacific Coast convention of the Order of Sons of St. George, which is scheduled to be held at the Hotel Green August 16 to 20, and will probably be attended by nearly 1000 delegates. In addition to the business sessions, the program includes theater parties, outdoor musical programs, a banquet at the Hotel Vista del Arroyo and sightseeing tours.

During the same week, the Pacific Coast Gas Association will hold its annual convention at the Hotel Vista del Arroyo for five days. On September 2, 3 and 4 the Good Templars of California will hold their yearly meeting here, the site of the gathering to be selected by the Chamber of Commerce.

The fourth conclave will be the annual sessions of the California Funeral Directors' Association, to be held at the Hotel Maryland September 14, 15, 16 and 17. Several hundred delegates are expected to attend. A large party of the 10,000 members who attended the Lions' international convention in San Francisco last week also are planning to stop here en route to their homes this week.

Nearly 10,000 visitors have come to Pasadena since the first of the year as delegates to the various conventions that have been held here, including the meetings of the Grand Army of the Republic, Department of California and Nevada; California Conference of Social Work, State High School Principals' Association, Los Angeles District of the California Federation of Women's Clubs and others.

TEST TO BE THRILLER

Air Service Contemplates Experiment of Dropping Airplane Attached to Parachute

GLENDALE, July 26.—The naval air service has completed plans for carrying out a test in which an airplane will be dropped from the clouds attached to a parachute, the test to be held at some field in the vicinity of Los Angeles, according to Esten B. Koger, vice-president of Waterhouse Aircraft, Inc., Glendale airplane manufacturers, who returned today from a conference with officials of the naval air service at San Diego.

Specifications for the parachute to be used in the test are now being worked out by W. J. Waterhouse, president of the company, who is one of the accredited aviation engineers for the Army and Navy. The materials to be used, the slings and cables that will attach the plane to the parachute, the stresses to which the plane and the parachute will be submitted, will be worked out and presented to the naval air service in time for the parachute to be manufactured in advance of the test, which has been tentatively set for August 19.

Koger states that the cost of the experiment will be borne by one of the leading motion-picture concerns, which will be given the exclusive right to film the experiment when the plane is turned loose in the skies and the parachute is opened, as the policy of the government, it is stated, does not include the setting aside of any appropriation for such purposes.

The exact location of the test will be settled within a few days, Koger says, as he plans to confer with representatives of various cities in which airports are situated in order to find a field of sufficient size to permit the carrying out of the test. The Glendale airport was first suggested as a possible site, but it was found to be too small for the purpose, and it will be necessary to find another landing field.

MICHELSON TO REMAIN

Weather Conditions Force Noted Scientist to Spend More Time at Mt. Wilson

PASADENA, July 26.—Unfavorable weather conditions encountered during the last few weeks are expected to require Dr. Albert A. Michelson, world-famous physicist of the University of Chicago, to return to Pasadena and the Mt. Wilson observatory again next summer to complete his present experiments in the velocity of light, Dr. Michelson indicated today at the Hotel Maryland, where he has lived each summer for the last several years.

While the eminent scientist said today that he has made considerable progress this summer in the researches which he has been carrying on for more than a score of years, he admitted that the mists which have hung over the mountains during recent weeks have prevented him from accomplishing as much work as he had expected.

In his experiments, known throughout the scientific world, Dr. Michelson utilizes a system of revolving mirrors on Mt. Wilson and Mt. Baldy which reflect beamas of light back and forth between the two peaks in such a manner that the speed of the rays can be measured with a degree of exactitude never before accomplished.

The device, designed by Dr. Michelson, is known as the interferometer, and its inventor said today that if weather conditions permit he expects to extend his experiments by installing another set of mirrors on Mt. San Jacinto, at a still greater distance from Mt. Wilson.

Dr. Michelson said yesterday that he hopes to be able to announce further progress in his efforts to determine the exact speed of light before he returns to Chicago six weeks from now, but declared that an announcement of the trend of his latest investigations would be premature at this time.

He has devoted all of his time since he arrived in Pasadena two months ago to the light-velocity experiments, he stated, but hopes to have time to conduct some researches in another field before his return.

Dr. Michelson, who is now 76 years of age, is the veteran head of the department of physics at the University of Chicago. Pre-eminent among the scientists of the world in his chosen field, he won the Nobel Prize in physics more than twenty years ago, and has been granted virtually every important scientific award that his field of research commands.

CHOIR TO SING AT CLAREMONT

Noted Vocalists of Great Mormon Temple to Come to College Campus

CLAREMONT, July 26.—Probably no entertainment event in recent years has evoked so much general interest as will follow the announcement that the world-famous Mormon Tabernacle Choir of Salt Lake City will appear in a musical presentation at Pomona College the night of the 30th inst. at the Outdoor Theater.

The organization has been contracted to give a performance at the Hollywood Bowl on the 29th inst., and this has made possible their local appearance.

There are 206 highly trained voices in the ensemble, which includes twenty-two male and female soloists.

For the first time in almost 100 years of the Mormon Church has the Tabernacle Choir been permitted to leave the State of Utah as a musical offering, but so great were the entreaties to bring to the Hollywood Bowl this phenomenal group, that permission was obtained after months of consideration by those in authority.

The Valley Beautiful Association of San Gabriel Valley will hold its midsummer meeting at Pomona College on the date of the concert and will remain in Claremont that evening to hear the famous Tabernacle Choir.

HIGHWAY BOOSTERS TO HOLD PICNIC

SANTA ANA, July 26.—Boosters for the Manchester-avenue project which would provide a through highway to the ocean across Los Angeles and Orange counties will hold a picnic in Orange County Park August 14, at which time the progress of the Greater Manchester Association in bringing about the realization of the highway plans will be reviewed, according to announcement by William Schumacher, member of the County Board of Supervisors representing the Anaheim district.

The trip to the park will be made in an automobile caravan, which will start from Palisades Del Rey, where the highway meets the ocean, and proceed through Inglewood, Graham, South Gate, Downey, Buena Park, Orange and El Modena to the park.

WAR ON BILLBOARDS

INGLEWOOD, July 26.—War on unsightly billboards was declared by the Inglewood Chamber of Commerce at the instance of Director J. R. Hinman of Fairview Heights. He told in detail to the board last night of the detrimental appearance of the unsightly methods of advertising. President Sanford M. Anderson will appoint a committee to co-operate with the City Trustees as to ways and means of eliminating or checking the billboard nuisance.

GRANT RIGHT OF WAY

PASADENA, July 26.—Heirs to the Baldwin estate in Sierra Madre will grant a 180-foot right of way through the property for the extension of Colorado street east to Monrovia, according to the statement of County Supervisor Prescott F. Cogswell, who has been negotiating concerning the proposal for the last year. Cogswell recently conferred with the San Francisco attorneys of Mrs. Anita Baldwin regarding the matter.

EDUCATION OF INDIANS

The first step of the government toward providing education for the Indians was made by the Continental Congress in 1775 when a bill was passed appropriating $500 for the education of Indian youths at Dartmouth College.

Fine Building for Physicians at San Diego

SAN DIEGO, July 26.—A fourteen-story medico-dental building will be erected soon in the Academy of Our Lady of Peace site at Third and A streets at a cost of approximately $1,000,000 according to an announcement made today by Charles H. Richards, president of the San Diego Medico-Dental Building Corporation.

The structure originally was to have been built at Eleventh and B. streets, but a change was made in these plans, when the new site was purchased last week. The former Convent Building will be started within the next few weeks. The building will occupy a site 100x100 feet and adjoining the structure will be a modern garage also 100x100 feet, included in the million-dolar project.

Every modern facility for physicians and dentists will be incorporated in the new building, including a large auditorium, one of the most modern features of medico-dental buildings.

The project is said to be completely financed and it is expected the building wil be ready for occupancy by May 1, of next year.

OF NOBLE BIRTH

Ventura Resident Belonged To Knightly Order

VENTURA, July 26.—Robert Crome, Austrian, who lost his life in an effort to rescue Eunice Moulton, 13-year-old Los Angeles girl, from drowning last week on the Rincon, was a member of the Order of Golden Fleece, and probably comes from an old family of the Austrian nobility.

This was made known today following the taking of his finger prints by Carl Wallace. The Order of Golden Fleece was founded by Philip the Good, Duke of Burgundy, in 1430 in celebration of his marriage to Isabella, daughter of the King of Portugal. It was founded primarily as a protection for the church. Only members of the nobility and knights can become members. Their motto is "No Mean Recompense for Efforts." It was this courageous bravery that made Crome dash into the ocean fully clothed in an attempt to rescue the 13-year-old child who was being carried out to sea.

PLAN FAIR BOOTH

MONROVIA, July 26.—Monrovia-Duarte citrus and date packing products and other industries will be represented in a booth at the Los Angeles county fair at Pomona, it was announced today by the Chamber of Commerce.

Plans were also made by the chamber directors yesterday to enter a Monrovia float in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses. Mrs. Thomas R. Hayes was named chairman of the float committee.

REQUESTS SENATORIAL AID

Ventura Man Continues Long Struggle to Have Sister Admitted Into United States

VENTURA, July 26.—Max Liberman, Ventura merchant, interviewed Senator Shortridge seeking aid in getting passports for his sister who has been marooned with her husband and baby boy in Mexico for five years. During the stormy days in Russia, the Senator secured passports into Poland and Russia for Mr. Liberman to go into those countries and bring out his parents and sister and family. But Liberman was able to get visas from the Consul at Riga, Latvia, for his parents only, so obtained permission for his sister to come to Mexico, thinking that she would thus be nearer to him and would be able sooner to get into this country.

For two years the sister, whose name is Mrs. Saltzman, remained in Guaymas, Mex., finally getting permission to visit Liberman in Los Angeles for a year. Then she had to return and was detained for two years more, with the promise from the Consul at Riga, Latvia, of help at the end of that time. Now Liberman has received word that the passports will not be obtainable for three years more and has appealed to Mr. Shortridge to help him. The Senator promised to take the matter up with the State Department, at Washington upon his return there. Liberman was born in Poland but is a citizen of the United States.

MANY CONTESTS IN PRIMARIES

Eighty-one Candidates Seek Thirty-nine Offices

Orange County is Political Battle Ground

Twelve Lucky Ones Have No Opposition

SANTA ANA, July 25.—Termination of the nominating period found 111 candidates straightened out for the sprint down the stretch to the August primary election, with eighty-one of them striving for thirty-nine offices, Orange county was promised the most generous portion of the political "jam" it has ever allowed in one campaign. Veteran political observers declared today that they can remember no such nominating mess in former years as this campaign has furnished.

Stirring races were in prospect for twenty-seven of the thirty-nine offices to be filled, while only twelve candidates were left to stroll calmly into their jobs without opposition. Besides these were the nominations for places on the Republican and Democratic county central committees which, as usual, developed very little interest and only two contests.

The stampede for office has touched all but five county officers in the various townships of the county. Only two justices of the peace escaped a contest. The constables were slightly more fortunate. Five of the eleven places will be filled without a fight. In many instances not only two but as many as five candidates are seeking the same office, thereby complicating predictions for the election prophets.

The most sought-after offices were those of justice of the peace of Santa Ana township and Supervisor from the Fifth District. Five candidates are in each race, four want to be constable of Orange township and the same number are after the job at Fullerton.

The Republican Central Committee has two contests. One is the Second District, where G. F. McKelvy is seeking to break into the committee at the expense of some incumbent, and in the Fifth District, where F. W. Conkey has similar designs. In the Third District one less Republican filed for the committee that is to be elected.

The Democratic committee, on the other hand, hasn't enough nominees to fill all the places. The First District is one short of supplying its five members. The Third District, with eight places to fill, has only two candidates, while the Fourth District failed to seek any representation whatever. It will be necessary to conduct a write-in campaign if the voters fill these places. Otherwise, it is said, the elected committeemen may appoint members to the vacancies.

The five county officers who have no opponents in the campaign are County Clerk J. M. Backs, County Recorder Justine Whitney, Tax Collector J. C. Lamb, Coroner Charles D. Brown and Superior Judge E. J. Marks. R. P. Mitchell, County Superintendent of Schools, came within a few minutes of having no opponent, Arthur E. Crawford of Fullerton Jing his nominating petition just before the Courthouse closed yesterday evening. Justice John Isadell of San Juan Capistrano and C. P. Fann of Huntington Beach are the only township magistrates not facing a contest. Among the constables, Joseph H. Ryan and Jesse L. Elliott, the two Santa Ana officers, William D. Tremaine of Bren township, G. W. Jubb of Laguna Beach and W. J. Calles of San Juan Capistrano are unopposed.

Plan to Give More Service to Alhambra

ALHAMBRA, July 25.—The elimination of the Alhambra station on South Garfield avenue and the changing of the name of Shorb Station, in the western part of the city, to Alhambra, with many improvements to the latter station, as plans which are being considered by the Southern Pacific Railway, according to the announcement today of George W. Wetherby, district passenger agent, and A. L. Morgan, district freight agent.

The changes have been officially approved by the Business Men's Association and conditionally by the Chamber of Commerce, which has suggests that a loop bus service be established to and from what is now Shorb Station.

The company, it is declared, will spend $50,000 in improving the new station. Improvements will include landscaping the grounds, building new platforms, paving roadways and adding modern facilities in the waiting-rooms. The station would be kept open at all times and would provide "red cap" service.

The change would eliminate, it is pointed out, much confusion which now exists with an Alhambra station and a Shorb Station. The latter is a large shipping point, being in a large shipping district. Located in the industrial district. Several factories, whose freight address is known as Shorb, frequently have important mail directed to them at Shorb, causing delay in its receipt. Shorb is said to be the third largest shipping point on the Pacific lines in Southern California.

FRESNO, July 25.—Just as the roaring lion was about to obtain the heroine in a movie thriller at the Bijou Theater here last night, fire broke out in the operating room, causing damage estimated at $2000.

Informed that a fire was in progress and asked to file quietly out, patrons who could see no signs of the blaze were unwilling to leave and had to be urged. One big fellow volunteered to "lick" the manager of the theater.

Two operators who were in the operating booth when a gun exploded and filled it with flames had presence of mind enough to close the portholes and the doors of the booth before escaping.

No one was injured.

DUNCANS WITH UNITED?

REPORT FAMOUS SISTERS WILL SIGN WITH SCHENCK

By Grace Kingsley

Now that Joseph Schenck and John C. Maidine, Jr., have set out seemingly to capture for United Artists all the first-class talent that is available for pictures, naturally they are considering the famous Duncan sisters, Vivian and Rosetta. At least this is the report.

At present the Duncans are playing to packed houses at the Mason at every performance in "Topsy and Eva," despite the hectic state of the weather, and if they chose, and perhaps they will, they can doubtless continue to play in it all summer and maybe next winter. But the lure of the films is rather hypnotizing to the sisters, and it is understood that if a suitable offer is made them, they will not refuse to lend the light of their countenances to the screen.

The sisters have been reported as having signed with First National, Universal, the Christies, everybody, indeed, except Pathe Weekly, and "Our Gang" comedies! But arrangements seem never to have been quite satisfactory to both parties, and at present all bets seem to be off with these other organizations.

The Duncans not only are geniuses of the stage and at writing music and plays, but likewise the value of their advertising, through their popularity in vaudeville and in "Topsy and Eva," throughout the land, is prodigious, and should mean a great deal to the picture producer who signs them.

Brabin Starts "Twinkletoes"

Those who remember "So Big"—and who that saw it does not?—will be delighted to hear that Charles Brabin, who directed Colleen Moore in that picture, and the star will actually go to work together once more today, this time on the production of "Twinkletoes" for First National.

"Twinkletoes" is one of Thomas Burke's most fascinating of the Limehouse Nights stories, and has in it just those elements of wistful appeal and deeply human drama for which star and director have the greatest flair in screen production and portrayal.

Kenneth Harlan has been engaged as the male lead opposite Miss Moore, this being the first picture in which he has appeared since severing his relations with the Warner Brothers and going forth as a free lance.

John McCormick, general manager of production, also announces that Tully Marshall and Gladys Brockwell will have important roles.

Lya de Putti to Come

Mayhap it is none too soon that our picture producers have completed their fireproof studios, Lya de Putti, the high-voltage vamp, is coming to Hollywood, according to report.

Lya de Putti has been engaged by Paramount for two pictures, but other firms are trying to tie up her spare time, and it is quite natural that the young actress should want to come out and look us over.

There is just a possibility, indeed, that she may play the Magdalen role in Cecil B. De Mille's "King of Kings." In the meantime some fifty actresses have undergone screen tests for the part, including many blondes. Indeed, it would seem that everybody except Baby Peggy and Dainty Marie have tried out for the part, the Magdalen majority overtopping that of every other role, it would seem, in the matter of tests made for the picture.

Noted Author Arrives

Still the foreign influx to the studios continues, and if you want to keep up your end at all, you'd better be learning your a-b-c's in Swedish, Russian and German.

Swedish, Russian and German not without great honor in his own native Hungary, and who has been signed by Paramount to write for that organization.

Mr. Biro arrived Saturday, accompanied by his wife, his two daughters, Vera and Eva, and his brother, John, the latter a New York resident.

While Mr. Biro consented to discuss pictures and other local what nots, he expressed a lively interest in the controversy now raging over the rival opinions of Anita Loos that "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," and Flo Ziegfeld's dictum that blondes are passe.

"In Europe we don't classify women according to coloring, we rate them according to the individual and not by whether a woman is a blonde or a brunnette," he said.

Biro is the author of "Hotel Imperial," from which Pola Negri's current picture is adapted, and naturally he is much interested in that production. However, his first writing will be a screen version of H. G. Wells's "War of the Worlds," destined to be one of the great pictures of the year if nothing goes wrong and all present plans are carried out.

Singer's Son In Pictures

And just while we are on this foreign question, it is with interest that I have to announce the Feodor Chaliapin, son of the famous operatic and concert singer of the same name, is entering pictures.

Chaliapin, Jr., is playing a neat little role in Pola Negri's picture, "Hotel Imperial," and bids fair, according to Director Maurits Stiler, to do very well indeed, expressing drama as eloquently in pantomime on the screen as does his noted dad by means of his voice.

The young player is entering pictures for the first time. He landed in Hollywood about three weeks ago from France.

Otto Matiesen and Lee Kent

Appearing in two widely divergent offerings at Los Angeles playhouses. Matiesen is seen as the oriental prince in "Yellow Fingers" at the Criterion, while Lee Kent is a popular entertainer in Will Morrissey's Revue at the Majestic.

FAVORITE RETURNS

"White Collars" in New Form More Enjoyable Than Old

Last night witnessed the triumphant return of "White Collars" at Egan's Little Theater. Playing to a capacity audience the members of the cast unfolded, with ease and ability, the story of the struggle of the great middle class against the capitalist class. The original lines very cleverly read and the appearance of two new persons in the leads, together with a heavy seasoning of hokum, combined in making the whole play far more excellent than last year's production.

"White Collars" bears the marks of many weeks of careful direction and hard work. It is extremely difficult to choose any certain parts as leads, for in reality so well were all the parts delineated that one could more easily say there were several star parts rather than merely the the usual one or tow. From the standpoint of its entertainment the production has only a few characteristic deficiencies, and these are its frequent overemphasis of hokum and a failure of several of the members of the cast to be line perfect and pick up their cues with more rapidity. Certain scenes in the first act were inclined to drag on this account.

Gladys Heaney as Joan Thayer, and John Vosburgh as William Van Lyun, were very capable in their renditions of the roles; and as the play wends its way through a long run they will surely eliminate the dullness which they showed in the first act and will offer their roles with grace and agility. Perhaps the most amazing performance of the evening was given by Ross Forrester, as Cousin Henry. Cousin Henry was portrayed with deft characterization, displaying the attraction of Mr. Forrester's personality and acting. Effervescent little Marvel Quivey is even more lovely in her own blond prettiness than she was last year when she donned a brunette wig. And Miss Quivey has reached a more perfect characterization of the flapperish working girl than she did in the recent showing of the comedy. Mr. and Mrs. Thayer, as portrayed by Zellah Covington and Blanche Douglas, were very well done.

Though cast in the small role of the truck-driver sweetheart of the youthful Miss Thayer, Paul Kruger gave one of the funniest presentations of the part that could be imagined. His entrance, where he had a rough-and-tumble scuffle with Cousin Henry before the haughty Van Lyun sisters, brought an appreciative wave of laughter from the audience. Other members of the cast were Gordon White and Frances Sheehan.

Stars Twinkle at 'Lovey Mary' Special Showing

Tonight will be Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer night at Loew's State Theater. The studio plans to turn out in full force for a special showing of "Lovey Mary" at which Ted Doner, the Fanchon and Marco stage star, and Joan Crawford will dance. Miss Crawford is one of the best Charleston exponents in Los Angeles. She was formerly Ted Doner's dancing partner. This will be their first appearance together after two years of separation.

Miss Crawford will also dance with Rube Wolf, after she has done her stepping with Ted Doner.

UNDERSEA AUTHORITY SAILS FOR BAHAMAS

NEW YORK, July 25. (Exclusive) J. E. Williamson, head of the Williamson undersea's studios, Nassau, Bahama Islands; Charles Stalling, production manager for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and J. P. FUNERAL SERVICES TODAY FOR USHER

Funeral services will be held this morning at 11:30 a.m. at the Ruppe mortuary for Robert White, 19 years of age, captain of ushers on the main floor of the Metropolitan Theater, who died last week at the White Memorial Hospital of pneumonia. White lived with his mother and sister at 4407 West Adams street.

He had been with the Metropolitan Theater since the new system of young men ushers was instituted. The six executive ushers of the Metropolitan and Million Dollar theaters will act as pallbearers.

McMANUS COMING HERE

NEW YORK, July 25. (Exclusive) George McManus, noted newspaper cartoonist, is en route to Los Angeles, where he will assist personally in the filming of his cartoon strip characters "The Newlyweds and their Baby," by Universal. McManus will also work on the "Let George Do It" series which will also be done by Stern brothers for Universal.

FANNIE'S NEW ONES HEARD AT ORPHEUM

Brice Version of Sheba's Queen Outstanding on Light Summer Bill

Amiable entertainers help one to forget discomforts of the good old summer time at the Orpheum this week. The current bill is light and entertaining, though not startling.

Of course, there is Fannie Brice—who is always clever enough to make anyone forget anything but her particular characterization of the moment.

Fannie is back with several new sketches, of which "How Much Will You Take to Settle," being the Brice version of the Sheba-Solomon episode, and "A Crime as Old as the World," are outstanding.

Inevitably 'My Man," with the old black shawl adding the requisite atmosphere, was one of the hits of the afternoon.

Miss Brice is assisted by Sam Sidman and Roger Davis. Lyrics by Ballard MacDonald and music by Leo Edwards.

Bert Howard's enjoyable piano numbers and patter open the show while "Baron" Emerson and "Count" Baldwin, comedy jugglers, demonstrate "What Fools These Mortals Be" in a diverting maner.

The Le Grohs offer something in the way of novelty pantomime. They are very amusing, as well as talented acrobats. One member of the troupe is the owner of the most expressive feet seen here for a long time.

"Take It Big" isn't so much, though Jed Dooley optimistically patters along for an inordinate length of time. Audree Evans provides the requisite pictorial quality for the act.

Mario Valle, baritone, and Eric Zardo, pianist, are excellent, varying classical and popular numbers. "The Toreador Song" was rewarded with the customary delighted applause.

"Dance Visions of 1926," with Maris Chaney and Edward Fox as the nimble luminaries, remains for another week. This act is beautifully staged, with a number of unique and peculiarly lovely effects.

SUGAR AND SPICE IS OLIVE BORDEN

"Yellow Fingers" Conventional Play Enlivened by Dusky Beauty

She's sugar and spice and everything nice, is Olive Borden, appearing this week at the Criterion in "Yellow Fingers."

"Yellow Fingers" is Olive's initial starring venture for Fox Films. Adapted from Gene Wright's novel of the same name, the picture does not depart far from the conventional plot. It is a story of the Malay Archipelago, a half-caste girl, her love for her English benefactor, and subsequent jealousy when he falls in love with another woman. Nothing particularly startling in this.

The island settings are obivously "studio," and consequently lack the fanciful allure that the midlander fondly believes to be part and parcel of the South Seas.

But the picture and the settings fade into insignificance alongside of Olive Borden. As Saina, the half-caste Malay and English girl, she displays an almost startling dusky beauty. She was especially attractive in the dancing sequences.

This new star is, of course, a very young trouper, but if handled with finesse, she should be a figure to conjure with in the stellar firmament. She was inclined to overact a bit in this picture.

Ralph Ince is sufficiently virile as Brute Shaine, the guardian. No hero could be expected to do much with a character whose name was Brute, however.

Nigel de Brulier, as always, gave a finely shaded characterization as the old rajah. Otto Matiesen, as the prince, looked supremely wise throughout the action. Why, it is hard to say. Josephine Crowell was "among those present" in a totally impossible role.

Claire Adams did what she could as the other woman in the romance. Her blond beauty seemed pale and cold alongside the flaming charm of Olive Borden.

Don't bother about the picture itself, but, by all means, see Olive Borden in "Yellow Fingers."

SHOW IN HIMSELF

Harry Carroll's Revue Keeps Up Fast Tempo Throughout

It won't matter if you stay home and listen to the radio during the most of the bill at the Hillstreet this week, but for goodness sake get there in time for Harry Carroll and his new revue.

For the most part the talent on the new bill is just average, and you're not cheating your grandchildren out of any choice reminiscences by passing them by. Carroll, however, is a whole show in himself.

As all good little revues should, this Carroll offering keeps up its fast tempo from curtain-up to curtain-fall. In the cold light of reason there is not so much to it, but it does manage to be highly diverting.

Marjorie Whitney, Sands and Frankel, Vera Marsh, and Violet Corcoran all please with their dancing. Sands and Frankel particularly reemed worthy of that overworked expression "sensational."

The "serious" number and the male bridge party were both amusing.

Corinne Tilton, "The Vivacious Comedienne," has charm and personality, but there is nothing startling about her material. The lady inebriate was the best she did.

Franklyn Ardell in "The Wife Saver" gets off a few good ones. Ardell plays the real estate salesman who specializes in water-front lots.

"Just wrap up that lot in a pail for Mr. Ginsburg," he instructs his assistant.

Jack Merlin and Lois Evans offer "Just a Lot of Laughs." There was no one reduced to hysterics at yesterday afternoon's performance, though.

The Sunset Four, a quartet of color, should co-operate on the harmony. Taken singularly their voices are all good, but together, Oh, My!

Metro-Goldwy-Mayer is presenting "The Boob," as the photoplay attraction of the week. George K. Arthur, as the amateur detective who gets the reward and the girl, is the central figure. He displays a good comedy sense. Gertrude Olmstead, the featured player, is lovely. Charlie Murray and Joan Crawford appear to advantage.

PAULINE FREDERICK TO STAR

Tiffany Productions, Inc., announces that Pauline Frederick has been signed to star in the picturization of Kathleen Norris's famous novel "Josselyn's Wife," production of which will be started in August.

HURDLING LANDS FUGITIVE

Policeman, Ex-College Athlete, Clears Fences to Get One of Two Asserted Automobile Thieves

Hurdling four board fences five feet in height and punctuating the passing of three street intersections with shots from his service revolver, Officer Wheeler of the Seventy-seventh Street Police Division yesterday morning chased two asserted auto thieves, capturing one of them.

The spirited chase started at Vermont avenue and Fifty-fifth street and ended near the corner of Fifty-fourth street and Normandie avenue.

Wheeler, who before his advent in the police department was a well-known college hurdler and sprinter, was walking his beat when a motorist, G. A. Richardson, of 1034 1-2 West Sixteenth Place, drove up and informed him that two men were acting strangely in a sedan down the street.

OFFICER STARTS CHASE

Wheeler mounted the running-board of Richardson's car and started out to investigate when the suspicious car suddenly swerved around the corner and went by. The chase started. After driving about five blocks at a high rate of speed the two suspects suddenly leaped from the auto ahead. The latter, still under motive power, drove head on into a telephone pole.

Wheeler, his revolver ready, leaped from Richardson's car and took up the chase on foot. In an alley near Normandie avenue the two suspects separated, one going east and the other west. Wheeler followed the one going east. The latter ran through the alley, turned and started to run around the block. Wheeler fired one shot into the ground, he reported, as he swung into the street out of the alley, another at the next corner, and a third at the next. The chase continued around the block twice.

OVER BACK FENCES

Then employing strategy, Wheeler, suddenly swerved from the sidewalk and cut through the block over back-yard fences. Half way between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth street on Normandie avenue the officer collared his quarry. The latter gave the name of Max Levaine. He was booked on suspicion of grand larceny.

After sending his man into the station Officer Wheeler recovered the abandoned car and reported that it had been stolen from Edward Otto Wolf of 559 West Seventy-fourth street a few minutes before the chase started. The second suspect escaped.

Rose Bushes to be Planted in Park in Autumn

Planting of 8000 rose bushes in the sunken gardens at Exposition Park will commence late in September, according to Supt. Sherer of the park department.

Preparations already have been made, the bushes acquired and the department is only waiting for the proper season of the year. In order to free the soil of wire worms, which are injurious to rose plants, six inches of the surface were replaced by 2500 yards of earth taken from under oak trees in the canyons at Griffith Park.

Pending the planting of the roses, the gardens have been planted to seasonal flowers. Next year an additional 8000 bushes will be planted. Plans also call for rose arbors, arches and tall bushes lining the walks. The total cost of the completed project is estimated at $20,000.

PINCHOT DESIGNS ROD

Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania is the designer of an improved fishing rod. It is made of split bamboo in three sections, is nine feet long and weighs six and a quarter ounces. It is especially adapted for casting weighted lures such as small plugs, feather minnows and frogs.

PLANS FOR CITY HALL APPROVED

Municipal Art Commission Accepts Designs for New Civic Structure

Plans for important public buildings approved by the Municipal Art Commission during July included the designs for the new $4,500,000 City Hall, General Manager Elizabeth Black of the department has announced. President Blanchard of the commission, who has for years worked for a new City Hall, expressed his gratification at being able to pass upon the plans for the City Hall during his term as president of the Art Commission.

Approval was also given during the month by the commission to the bronze bust of Abraham Lincoln donated by Dr. Norman Bridge and modeled by Julia Bracken Wendt and placed in Lincoln Park. Commissioners Laughlin and Wilson have recommended that statuary be donated by citizens and placed in triangles in streets.

President Blanchard has recommended that in designing pedestrian tunnels that a lighting stand between six feet and seven feet in height be placed at the head of the stairs leading to the subway.

The commission has approved the engineering plans for the $1,000,000 Glendale-Hyperion viaduct across the Los Angeles River.

LIONS' CLUB DELEGATES TO BE FETED

Local Den Will be Host at Dinner and Entertainment at Beach

Headed by the recently elected officers, a party of approximately 4000 delegates to the annual convention of International Lions' Clubs, which closed yesterday in San Francisco, will arrive in Los Angeles today to be guests of the local den at a dinner and entertainment program at the Edgewater Club in Santa Monica.

As a fitting feature for visiting clubmen in the land of cinema, R. E. Callahan, chairman of the entertainment committee, has completed plans for participation in the entertainment program of many popular stars of the screen. Among filmland's celebrities who will, figuratively speaking, enter the lions' den Ena Gregory, Priscilla Dean, Dorothy Ruth Roland, Julia Marlowe, Lilythy Phillips, and many others. A large number of male stars, including Jean Hersholt, George Lewis and Herbert Rawlinson, will attend.

Prior to the evening's entertainment there will be short trips to points of scenic interest around Los Angeles and the beaches.

Dyers in Meet Reaffirm Stand for Open Shop

Directors and others of the Cleaners and Dyers Plant Owners' Association decided at a meeting yesterday "to sit tight" in the strike situation and continue their refusal to recognize the union of employees.

Both the association headquarters and police details said last night that the day passed without any attempts at violence, so far as they had learned.

GOODCELL SCORES YOUNG

Declares Gubernatorial Candidate's Position on Colorado Project Political Bunk

"The people are beginning to comprehend the real issue in this campaign," declared Rex B. Goodcell yesterday as he passed through Los Angeles on his way to San Diego, where he is to be the speaker today at the laying of the corner-stone of the Kentwood Country Club at Kentwood-in-the-Pines in the San Diego Mountains. "The efforts of Mr. Young to engraft himself on the public mind as the sole champion of the Colorado River project is being smiled at all over California and is being characterized as an eleventh-hour conversion in the hope of misleading the people of Southern California into the belief that he is the champion of our great need for the Boulder Canyon dam, and Mr. Young and his cohorts are trying to trade on it as political capital. The people are not going to be fooled."

Goodcell has for the last two weeks been campaigning in the Sacramento Valley and the San Francisco Bay region and reports a rapid growth in his strength in the northern part of the State and expresses confidence that he will carry that end of the State by a wide margin.

At the U. S. Grant Hotel in San Diego this morning, Goodcell will be a special guest at a breakfast staged by the San Diego Goodcell-for-Governor Club and the Women's Goodcell Club of that city. Arrangements are made for entertaining 10,000 people from all parts of San Diego county at the Kentwood corner-stone laying, where Goodcell is to speak.

The San Diego meeting today is the first of an itinerary covering two weeks throughout Southern California.

NO PHOENIX IN THESE ASHES

For When Clarence B. Walden's Home Burned Down the Love of His Wife Cooled With the Dying Embers and He Seeks Divorce

The fires of love are quenched for Clarence B. Walden—unlike the blaze, kindled in his honeymoon home which once reposed in West One Hundred and Tenth street, Saturday, he filed suit for divorce in the Superior Court against Mrs. Enda Frances Walden, charging her with desertion. Briefly stated the bill of complaint asserts that the couple were married in Riverside on July 9, 1920, and that wife deserted husband on June 19, 1924.

Between the lines, however, and with the aid of other court records, the lines of a strange triangle are described. Mr. and Mrs. Walden and Martin Colson, a plumber, were hailed into court and charged with arson shortly after the new home, where wedded happiness was expected to dwell, was burned to the ground on June 11, 1924.

A theory that the house had been set afire for the purpose of collecting insurance money was momentarily dispelled when Colson asserted that he was the guilty person. He had fallen in love with Mrs. Walden, he said, while installing plumbing fixtures in the house. When he professed his regard for her, she repulsed him, he maintained. Finally, in desperation, he said he hit upon the idea of burning the house down, thus reducing the couple to poverty and making for him the opportunity he sought —that of playing the role of benefactor.

But the court discounted his "confession" and ultimately sentenced both him and Walden to serve from one to five years in San Quentin. The case against Mrs. Walden, also charged at first with arson, was dismissed. Both Mr. and Mrs. Walden were out of the city on an automobile trip at the time of the fire, it was said, but the husband was deemed implicated together with Colson. Husband and wife separated shortly after their return.

Walden figuratively charges his wife with leaving his roof, but inasmuch as there was no roof the situation seems somewhat involved. When they returned from the vacation mentioned, Mrs. Walden is said to have taken refuge with friends. Her husband presumably left the city for Tia Juana.

According to the bill of complaint there are no children and no community property. Stanley Visel is counsel for the plaintiff.

JUDGE BLIND TO HIGH ART INVOLVED IN TENDING BAR

Either Municipal Judge Edmonds is too practical to appreciate art or Attorney C. B. Conlin, counsel for John Murro, charged with possessing liquor, is in error as to what constitutes art. At any rate Murro, the defendant, must pay a fine of $100 or go to jail for a while.

Murro, his attorney pointed out to the court, was a highly efficient bartender and "had in fact, been dispensing drinks, legal and otherwise, for a period of thirty years."

"It is his profession, your honor," Conlin explained. "He can do nothing else."

Murro had been arrested tending the bar in a local soft-drink establishment. "As a matter of fact, if the court pleases," the defense attorney solicited, "this man is an artist. His profession is his very life and he follows it more out of regard for his ability to satiate the thirsts of his patrons than for the meager mercenary returns of the business."

"It was my impression that bartenders had disappeared with the advent of the Eighteenth Amendment," the court said.

"In a way they have, your honor," Conlin admitted. "Seventy-five per cent of the English bartenders today are Americans who won recognition for their artistic ability in dispensing pre-Volstead drinks. But my client, here, unfortunately was not in England."

The court decreed, however, that regardless of the art involved, there are certain artistic things in this world that the law cannot recognize. Murro was found guilty and sentenced.

Man Once Held Insane Ordered to Face Trial

Insanity is no bar to arrest and trial on a criminal charge, even if the defendant has been declared legally insane and has escaped from an asylum, according to an opinion of Justice Works of the Second District Court of Appeal.

The decision was handed down in the case of Donald Gibson, on whose behalf attorneys sought a writ of habeas corpus releasing him from the custody of the Sheriff of Imperial county where he had been arrested on another criminal charge after escaping from the hospital for insane at Norwalk.

DINNER FOR SCHOOL FACULTY

Dean and Mrs Thomas M. Putnam of the University of California summer session will entertain members of the faculty and their families at a dinner at the Edgewater Beach Club, Friday evening. Since this is practically the last social event of the summer season, most of the summer session faculty plan to attend. There will be swimming in the club pool before dinner.

Firm to Make Invention of Realty Broker

After his 9-months-old baby swam with the aid of his invention, George Evans, Redondo realty broker, completed negotiations with the Par Rubber Company of Ohio to manufacture his patented rubber sleeve life-saving apparatus, he declared yesterday. Mr. Evans has been a director of the California Real Estate Association since October, 1923.

The sleeve is designed to support one in the water without any effort on his part. The apparatus is placed on the arm like any other sleeve, and inflated by blowing into a tube. The valve is then locked and the air cannot get out, the inventor declared.

NEW ARIZONA HOTEL

Receipt of a contract to supply face brick and hollow tile for the new Community Hotel to be built at Flagstaff, Ariz., is announced by Fred Harrison, sales manager for the Los Angeles Pressed Brick Company. First shipments of the products will be made shortly from the Date-street plant of the company here.

LOS ANGELES HEADS LIST WITH POWER

Leads Cities of Nation; Water System Second Only to New York

That the municipal water system serving Los Angeles is the second largest in the United States in the extent of its supply and distribution facilities, while this city's Power Bureau is the largest municipally owned electric system in the nation, has been revealed in a statement made by President L. F. Del Valle of the Board of Water and Power Commissioners.

New York is the only other city in the country, it was pointed out, which possesses a water plant larger in the extent of distributing mains and water supply and storage facilities than the system operated by the Los Angeles Municipal Water Bureau.

"Despite the fact that Los Angeles ranks fifth in population among the cities of America," stated Del Valle, "a survey of the utility field reveals that this city's municipal water bureau operates the second largest water supply and distribution system in the country in point of mileage in distributing mains and facilities for the supplying and storing domestic water. Our municipal power bureau operates the largest municipally owned electric system in the nation.

"The significance of this situation is that Los Angeles, as no other city in America, is dependent upon water and electric power for growth and prosperity.

"Our municipal water and power systems are the basis for our growth and prosperity and only by extending and enlarging these systems can we hope to continue to support further population increases and industrial expansion."

Drawing attention to the $10,000,000 water-bond issue and the $11,000,000 power bond issues, which will be voted on at the August 31 primary election, Del Valle stated that these bonds are urgently needed to help finance urgently needed water-and-power-development programs.

"It is important to remember that the voting of water and power bonds do not increase taxes 1 cent," Del Valle said. "All interest and annual principal repayments on these bonds, as provided in the new city charter, must be made entirely by the Water and Power Bureaus themselves from revenues derived from the sale of water, power and light."

Burial Service Tomorrow for Mrs. Ida Vincent

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida O'Connell Vincent, teacher for more than fifteen years in the Fremont avenue School, will be conducted at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the chapel of Reed Brothers, 721 West Washington street.

Mrs. Vincent, who was the wife of Fred Vincent, an invalid World War veteran, died at Hermosa Beach Friday night after a short illness diagnosed as pneumonia. She was one of the most popular members of the school faculty. Besides her husband she leaves several sisters who live in San Francisco.

ASSAYER MOVES

H. Russell Clark, mining engineer, has just moved his assaying and engineering office from Randsburg to Los Angeles with the California Testing Laboratories, Inc.

DRUG HUNTERS TAKE COUNT

Two of Contreras's Officers Pass Out From Marihuana Fumes In Arresting Woman

Carman Falzar was arrested in the week-end raids of George Contreras, chief enforcement officer for the District Attorney's office, charged with violation of the State Poison Act for asserted sale of marihuana, and two of Contreras's men "passed out" getting the evidence, he reported.

The woman is accused of selling marihuana cigarettes at 25 cents apiece, and allowing the purchaser to smoke them on the premises at 116 South Alma street, Belvedere. Smoking the cigarettes proved too much for the two gatherers of evidence and they had to be carried out, Contreras said.

Contreras reported several arrests on liquor charges over the week-end. Paul Watson, Bess Riley, Pete Jane and John Frank, all of Belvedere, charged with asserted possession of a gallon still and three gallons of whisky; Andrew Lopez, Belvedere, asserted possession of a thirty-five-gallon still; L. D. Bowles, Santa Monica, charged with selling

PRISONERS TO FACE PHANTOMS

"Shadow Box" at Police Station, From Which Suspect Hears But Sees Not, Will be Given Its First Test This Morning

Prisoners at the City Jail this morning, much to their consternation, will be led into the "spirit world." One by one they will file through the new police "shadow box" and stare out at their captors, but three feet away, but will not see them. The latter, like floating spirit voices, will interrogate them, but the prisoners will be unable to "spot" their questioners.

This will be the first time that the "shadow box," the installation of which has just been completed, is used in the local jail. It is said to be one of the latest innovations of criminal research. For a month it has been under construction under the supervision of Chief Inspector Thorpe, who brought the idea to Los Angeles after seeing it in operation in several eastern cities.

The "shadow box" is a large room inclosed stage with an imposing entrance of lights, which shows to the prisoner but prevents him from seeing his interrogators. From it on it will be used for the daily "show-up" of prisoners.

On the slate-colored wall at the back of the "box" are painted comparative heights, and patrolmen, adding sleuths to gain a very accurate idea of the height, weight and general type of person under observation.

MUNICIPAL LABORATORY NEED IS TOLD

Report of Pathologist at General Hospital Reveals Inadequate Equipment

That the new "acute" unit of the Los Angeles General Hospital, designed by the Allied Architects' Association and planned to house completely equipped laboratories and a pathological department of the most modern type, is urgently needed, is shown in a report recently made by Dr. George B. Manier, resident pathologist of the institution.

Although the present pathological laboratories are not adequate to the demands made upon them, the report shows that during the past year eighty-six patients were given the Pasteur treatment at the hospital for rabid dog bites. As each patient is given twenty-one treatments before being discharged, this means a total of 1806 such treatments during the year.

The new unit, when completed, will greatly increase the facilities of the hospital for the giving of these and similar treatments, and the equipment of the laboratories and the pahtological department will be of the most modern and complete type.

ECUADOR AMERICANIZED

The future educational system of the Western Hemisphere depends upon the United States, according to Dr. V. M. Egas, Consul of Ecuador, who is a student at University of Southern California summer school. The doubling of trade between the United States and South American countries, he said, means that in Ecuador at least, people are learning English eagerly and children play American games, read American books and dress like American children.

Probationer in Trouble Again Faces Long Stay Behind Bars

"In-again-out-again" Russell Lamphear is in again.

This time Russell is to come before Judge Keeler on a charge of violation of probation.

Several months ago he was arraigned on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of Frances Nelson, 17 years of age, of Santa Monica, whom he was asserted to have aided in eloping with Chester P. Harrison, a married man of the same city.

When taken before the court Lamphear pointed out he was merely a passenger in the car in which Harrison and the Edmondson girl were asserted to have gone to Phoenix, Ariz., and he was placed on probation for two years.

Everything went all right for a while until Lamphear was again arrested and taken into Municipal Court on a charge of petty theft. He was asserted to have stolen a tube and rim from an automobile and was sentenced to 120 days in jail.

The probation department then took steps to have his probation on the delinquency charge revoked and a petition asking that this be done was filed before Judge Keeler, sitting in Juvenile Court.

When Lamphear finishes his 60-day sentence in jail he will be brought up on the probation matter and, if the ruling is unfavorable to him, he will stand to spend a year in jail.

Rent Increase Ordered Stopped

Rent increases ordered by the Los Angeles Housing Commission have been stopped by a writ of prohibition issued by Superior Judge Trask, it was learned yesterday.

The writ was issued on the petition of Mrs. Ida Bell Wright, owner of the Wright-Callender apartments, 416-11 West Seventh street, who was ordered to increase the rents of her apartments from $75 to $90 a month.

Mrs. Wright's petition alleged that the commission had no jurisdiction in the matter, that the rents were reasonable and that the increase would work a hardship on her.

Dr. Wilbur Will Speak at Stanford

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University, will be the principal speaker at the annual Stanford Alumni picnic to be held at Exposition Park, August 7, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Wilbur Thomas, president of the Stanford Alumni Association of Southern California.
